NEW YORK, JANUARY, 1916.

DWIGHT TRACY, M.D., D.D.S., INVENTOR AND GENEALOGIST.

CONTRIBUTED BY WILLIAM DWIGHT TRACY, New York City.

Dr. Dwight Tracy, who was 84 on August 24th, 1915, died suddenly from heart disease, Sunday evening, October 3rd, 1915, at about 7 o'clock, at the home of Gerard L. Ranger, 87 Division Street, Norwich, Conn., where he had gone but a few minutes before to talk to Mr. Ranger about photography, a subject in which they both were interested.

He had apparently been in perfect health throughout the day and there was no premonition of the sudden and fatal attack when he arrived. Upon entering the house, he took a seat and had spoken hardly a half dozen words to Mr. Ranger, when he suddenly gasped and fell forward in the chair and expired almost instantly.

In the hope that a physician could render some help, Dr. Rush W. Kimball was summoned, but Dr. Tracy was dead when he arrived.

Dwight Tracy was born in the town of Scotland, Windham Co., Conn., on August 24th, 1831, and was the son of Thomas Chaplin Tracy (also a native of Scotland, Conn.), and Maria Safford, who was born in Canterbury. He was of colonial ancestry, and on his father's side the line ran back to Lieut. Thomas Tracy, one of the original settlers of Norwich.

At twenty-two years of age Dr. Tracy was graduated in dentistry, and one year later, in 1854, he obtained his medical degree. In 1857 he married Jane Vanderbilt Fry of Plainfield, Conn., who died in Arlington, Mass., in 1907. She was the daughter of William Congdon Fry and Mary Wilcox Cross. Having served a long apprenticeship with one of the best dentists of that day, Dr. Oliver F. Harris, of Worcester, Mass., the young graduate showed marked ability for the mechanical and artistic part of his professional work. Being an inventive genius, however, he pursued the practice of dentistry for six or seven years only, after which he devoted himself to the development of various inventions, having several patents issued to him between the years 1860 and 1889.

The first of his inventions was a perfected domestic sewing machine; but owing to the cost of manufacture it was not a commercial success. His next effort was more successful, being a machine which would take a bolt of linen, which as it passed through the apparatus was cut and pleated and stitched into a complete shirt bosom, ready to insert into the garment. This was the first machine of the kind ever used and it revolutionized the shirt making industry of those early days. The business grew to large proportions and after a few years was sold; later Dr. Tracy made large investments in New Jersey real estate. These investments came to grief in the panic of 1873, when the scourge of Black Friday fell so heavily upon the money market.

His next invention was a safety railroad switch, the first safety device of its kind ever used, and which at one time was installed in large numbers on most all of the railroads in this country. He also patented a railroad frog and a crossing. This was followed some years later by the invention of a wire-drawing machine designed to draw a large number of wires of varying sizes at one time; and subsequently he invented a friction car starter for use on horse-drawn street cars, to avoid the jerk upon the passengers and horses. He also calculated and prepared extensive mathematical tables.

Dr. Tracy made genealogy a special study. He was well known in New England and had genealogical correspondence throughout the country and abroad.

When Norwich observed Benefactor's Day, Sunday, June 7th, 1914, he was an active worker among the committees and it was at his suggestion that Saturday, June 6th, was observed as Founder's Day, the date of the 255th anniversary of the founding of Norwich.

While genealogy had absorbed most of his time for the past twenty years Dr. Tracy had for the last five years taken a lively interest in photography, desiring to become proficient in order that he might obtain pictures of old houses, monuments and other objects of historical interest. That he had made splendid progress in this line of work is evidenced by the fact that he had gained favorable mention for his portrait photographs which were shown at photographic exhibitions, and that he had received a second prize for a portrait entered in a competition conducted by a current photographic magazine.

The fact that a man of eighty years of age should care to begin the study of photography at that time of life, casts an interesting side light on his personality.

With the advent of the aeroplane he became greatly interested in its tremendous possibilities and made valuable suggestions relative to the designs of light aeroplane motors and stabilizers for use on aircraft. Last August he applied for a patent on a certain photographic process which he had evolved, and this episode in his life goes to show how persistent was his tendency to invent.

On his eighty-fourth birthday he enjoyed a sea bath and swam into deep water as securely and easily as his own sons, and tossed the cork ball with his little grandsons and seemed as happy as a boy himself. He was an inveterate reader and was well posted along many lines of thought.

Dr. Tracy was a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, Connecticut Historical Society, New London County (Conn.) Historical Society, Society of The Founders of Norwich, Conn., Connecticut Society Sons American Revolution, Founders' and Patriots' Society, Newport Historical Society, Aeronautical Society, New York City, Twilight Club, New York City, Photographers' Association of New England.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Edgar E. Fay, of Chestnut Hill, Mass.; and three sons, Dwight Carleton Tracy, of New York City; Lawrence Ward Tracy, of Chestnut Hill, Mass.; William Dwight Tracy, of New York City.

DESCENDANTS OF CORNELIS CORNELISE EGMONT.

In the marriage records of Seger Cornelise and his brother, Jacob, their names are expressed as Seger Corn. van Egmont and Jacob Corn. van Egmont. Seger died before May 5, 1694, when his widow married Hendrick Jansen, "woonende op t Staten Eydt." The name of Benjamin Segar appears on the roll of Col. Richard Ingoldsby's Company of Grenadiers, Oct. 25 to Dec. 24, 1713 (U).

Lodowyck, Nov. 17, 1689; wit. Adriaen Bogaerdt, Annetje Wessels; m. Rasje Minne.

Elias Post was born in Amsterdam, Holland (T), and was undoubtedly a son of Lodowyck Cornelise Post* and Agnietje Bonen (Boon, Boons). He first married Cattelyntie Conninx (Lic. May 6, 1671, T), born at New Albany. He was probably a young child when his father emigrated to America. He resided on Broadway in New Amsterdam and his wife Marritie Cornelis was admitted to the New York Dutch Church, May 31, 1677. Some time after 1686 it appears he removed to the upstate district as on April 18, 1738, his name appears in connection with furnishing provisions for the garrison at Oswego (C), and on April 12, 1734, an Elias Post was admitted to membership of the Reformed Dutch Church of Schenectady.

7. LYSBETH CORNELISE, dau. of (2) Cornelis Cornelise Egmont and Catalyntje Frans; m. Dec. 5, 1677, in New York, Warner Wessels, Jr.

*Lodowyck Post was a very well known citizen of New Amsterdam, his name appearing often on the public records. Three of his children were baptized at the New York Dutch Church, viz.: Wilhelmus, July 28, 1652; Elizabeth, July 18, 1655, and Agnietje, Aug. 3, 1657. His name first appears in public records, Sept. 1, 1653 (T). On Feb. 7, 1656, as a tavern-keeper, he requests permission "to sell wine and beer by the small measure" (T). On Nov. 16, 1658, he is mentioned as Captain of the Rattle Watch, and on Jan. 29, 1667, he and Johannes de Wit were appointed administrators of the Estate of Pietertie Jansen, wife of Albert the Norman (T). On April 30, 1672, he is mentioned as Provoost Marshall of the City (T), and on Oct. 8, 1673, is ordered with others to remove his house on account of its lying too close to the walls of Fortress William Frederick (T). On May 24, 1674, he received a patent for a house and lot on the East River, formerly the property of William Pattison (C). His name last appears May 19, 1675, as a witness to the baptism of a child of his son Elias. The early residence of Lodowyck Post is described as being where what would now be the north side of Pearl Street, between Old Slip and Broad Street, then called the "Water Side."

Children bp. in New York:

Johanes, Nov. 29, 1679; wit. Gelyn Ver Plancken, Catelyn Frans.

Jannetie, April 27, 1682; wit. Dirck Thunissen, Hendrickje Wessels.

Cornelis, May 29, 1686; wit. Pieter Jacobszen Marius, Marritke Van Beeck.

Cornelis, Sept. 28, 1690; wit. Jacobus Kip, Marretie Cornelis (Egmont).

Warner Wessels, Jr., was probably the son of Hartman Wessels of Arnhem, Gelderland, Holland, and a nephew of Warner Wessels, "farmer of the excise" of New Amsterdam. (See Warner Wessels and his descendants (R).) He had a brother Hartman, and sisters, Jannetie and Hendrickje, all mentioned in marriage records as being from Arnhem, Gelderland. Jannetie married May 29, 1655, in New York, Samuel Edsall,* and Hendrickje, June 1, 1668, in New York, Gelyn (Gulian) Verplanck* (K). Hendrickje married for the second time, May 9, 1685, in New York, Jacobus Kip.* Warner Wessels, Jr., married, first, Dec. 5, 1677, in New York, Anna Debora Pieters Beeck, and had the following children: Johannes, bp. April 23, 1668; Anna, bp. Feb. 9, 1670; Pieter, bp. July 28, 1672, and Warnard bp. June 21, 1676. He made his will Dec. 12, 1701 (proved Nov. 19, 1702) (S), in which he called himself a Hat-Maker and mentioned his first wife and their children Pieter and Antie and his second wife and their daughter Janecke. He resided on Pearl Street between what are now Whitehall and State Streets (L 53). In 1673 he was a cadet in Capt. Cornelius Steenwyck's Company of New Orange Militia (L 50).

8. MAGHDALEENTJE CORNELISE, dau. of (2) Cornelis Cornelise Egmont and Catalyntje Frans; m. July 4, 1677, in New York, Jacob Franszen Van Dyck (see N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, v. 3, p. 150); b. 1646; son of Frans Claesen (Van Dyck) and Immetje Dircks (K).

Catalyntie, Feb. 5, 1681; wit. Claes Franson, Catalina Frans.

* Samuel Edsall, Gelyn Verplanck and Jacob Kip were among the foremost citizens of their day in New York. The first was a hat-maker by trade and a justice (T and S), and the two latter were elected Schepens, Aug. 16, 1673, "from among the wealthiest inhabitants (T). Edsall was at one time in possession of Bronckslanck, the tract of land originally settled by Jonas Bronck and from which the present Bronx is named. Jacob Kip was the first Secretary of New Amsterdam in 1653 (O) and held the office of Schepen for many years between 1659 and 1674. On Feb. 2, 1663, he was elected from the Board of Schepens to the General Assembly (T). Gelyn Verplanck was Schepen in 1673-4 (T).

Frans, Nov. 25, 1683; wit. Dirck Franszen, Lysbeth Cornelis (Egmont); m. Resute Montras.

Emmetje, Oct. 17, 1686; wit. Seger Corneliszen (Egmont), Weseltje Jans; m. Martinus Meyer.

Cornelis, Sept. 4, 1689; wit. Thymen Franszen, Marritie Cornelis (Egmont).

Sara, March 20, 1692; wit. Claes Franszen and wife, Marritie Cornelis.

Rachel, March 20, 1692; wit. Simon van Schermerhoorn and wife Willemetje (Viele).

Dirck, Nov. 4, 1694; wit. Warner Wessels, Immetje Van Dyck.

Jacobus, Sept. 8, 1867; Frans van Dyck, Agnietje Post; m. Jannetie Joralemon.

Jacobus Franszen Van Dyck was born about 1646 and was the son of Frans Claesen* and Immetje (Emmetje) Dircks. He had three brothers, Claas Franszen, born about 1643; Dirck Franszen, born about 1647, and Tymen Franszen, born in 1657 (bp. Sept 26) (K). Jacobus and his brother Dirck were cadets in Capt. Cornelius Steenwyck's Company of New Orange Militia in 1673 (L 50). On Nov. 29, 1677, he and his wife Maghdaleentie Cornelis were admitted as members to the New York Reformed Dutch Church. In 1683 he was the owner of an "Open Boat" (M), such indicating that he probably followed the shipping business to some extent as undoubtedly his father did before him. In 1686 he resided on King Street (N. Y. D. Ch. Rec.) and on June 23, 1688, he and his three brothers were awarded a patent for their land in Smith's Street (M). Some of this family of Van Dycks removed to upper New York State in later years. In 1735, Jacob Van Dyck and his wife, Jannetie Joralemon, were admitted to membership of the Dutch Church, Second River, N. J.

13. CORNELIS, son of (5) Seger Cornelise Egmont and Femmetje Laurens Sluys; bp. Nov. 20, 1687, in New York; m. Elsie De Camp (Van Campen).

Children, bp. in Staten Island (Port Richmond Ch.);

Altje, April 1, 1718; wit. Louwerens van Campen and wife.

Femmetje, April 30, 1721; wit. Gideon de Camp, Hendrickje Elles.

Zeger, July 21, 1723; wit. Zeger Gerritsen, Jannetje Faas.

* Frans Claesen was in New Amsterdam as early as 1655. It is said he kept a private school (L 63), and in 1655 he was mentioned as a pilot (M). He died in 1657 or 58 (K and T), and in a legal paper of 1662 is mentioned as "late shoemaker of New Amsterdam." His widow resided in 1665 in Smeë Street (L 49) and married March 24, 1672, in New York, Dirck Meyerszen, widower of Elizabeth Pieters. His son, Claas Franszen, married Marritje Cornelis; Dirck Franszen married Weseltje Schepmoes, and Tymen Franszen married (1) Lysbeth Burgers, and (2), Hester Pluvier.

Christoffel, Jan. 2, 1725; wit. Laurens de Camp, Chrystintje de Camp.

In the Staten Island Church records this family goes consistently by the name of Egmont. It is probable that Cornelis Egmont removed from New York to Staten Island owing to the fact of his step-father, Hendrick Janszen, being a resident there. No later records have been encountered of this Egmont family in the Staten Island churches, and it is likely that these children died without issue or the family removed to some other section. Cornelis Egmont was a witness to the will of a John Stuard of Elizabethtown, N. J., in 1720, and was mentioned as having accounts due him in 1715 in connection with the inventory of the estate of John Spencer, Woodbridge, N. J. (P).

DESCENDANTS OF CLAESE CORNELISE EGMONT.

9. JACOB CLAESE, son of (3) Claes Cornelise Egmont and Brechie Maryns; b. 1653; d. 1685; m. Maria Lucasz.

Children bp. in Albany:

Nicholas, April 13, 1684; wit. Lucas van Hooghkerken, Antje Lucasz; d. 1762; m. May 8, 1715, in Albany, Marretie Bronck, widow of Jacob Winne.

14 Jacob, Dec. 27, 1685 (born after father's death); wit. Jacob (Janse) Schermerhorn, Magtelt (Schermerhorn) Beekman; m. Anne Lansing. (Record follows.)

Jacob Claes resided in Albany, "up beyond the North Gate," his name appearing Aug. 6, 1683, on a list of citizens of Albany, contributing to the salary of Domine Godfridus Dellius (A 6). His widow, Maria Lucasz, remarried, June 3, 1689, when she became the wife of Cornelis Teunise Van Vechten.

Nicholas Egmont apparently left no issue. He was an early resident of Cocksackie, where his wife's family were large property holders. In 1715, his name appears on the roll of Capt. Jonas Douw's Company of Albany Militia (Cocksackie District) (U). He is also listed among the heads of families living in Cocksackie prior to 1725 (I). He was still a resident of Cocksackie in 1762, when he made his will, abstract from which is as follows:

"Feb. 23, 1762—Nicholas Egmont of Cocksackie, yeoman . . . . step-grandson, Anthony Winne . . . . all my real estate and personal estate, all my lands, houses, &c. . . . my niece Marytie Van Valkenburgh, daughter of my sister (half-sister) Annetie (Van Vechten) Schermerhorn . . . . to my sister Annetie Schermerhorn, my negro wench 'Boggie' and to her son Luke Schermerhorn, all my apparel, &c. . . . to Marytie, wife of Matys Boom, the bed, &c. . . . Anthony Winne, Anthony Van Bergen and Jan Bronck, executors. Done in the dwelling House at Cocksackie. Proved April 17, 1762." (D.)

14. JACOB, son of (9) Jacob Claese Egmont and Maria Lucasz; bp. Dec. 27, 1685, in Albany; bur. May 25, 1734; m. Oct. 19, 1716, in Albany, Ann Lansing; bp. March 28, 1697, in New York; dau. of Gerrit Lansing and Catharina Glen.

Children bp. in Albany:

- Elsie, Jan. 28, 1718; m. Evert Siksbj.
- Maria, Nov. 8, 1719; m. Edward Hogil.
- 15 Jacob, Feb. 28, 1722; m. Maria Lewis. (Record follows.)
- Gerrit, May 5, 1723.
- Nicholas, Oct. 10, 1725.
- Catharine, Nov. 19, 1727.
- Evert, June 21, 1729.
- Johannes, March 14, 1731.
- Catharine, Sept. 17, 1732; m. Pieter Cannel.

Jacob Egmont was a resident of Albany and his name first appears as a member of Capt. Henry Van Rensselaer's Company of Albany Militia, 1715. He was bellman for the city of Albany, 1723-31 (A 8, 9, 10). On March 15, 1726, he bought a lot on the Northeast corner of what are now Hudson and South Pearl Streets, to the south of a lot purchased by Johannes Segers (A 8 and E). He purchased an additional parcel adjoining, July 9, 1730 (A 9). Annatje Eghmond occupied pew No. 43 (seat No. 6) in the Ref. Dutch Church of Albany about 1745 (E).

15. JACOB, son of (14) Jacob Egmont and Ann Lansing; bp. Feb. 28, 1722, in Albany; m. Jan. 29, 1744, in Albany, Maria Lewis.

Children bp. in Albany.

- Annatie, Feb. 17, 1745; m. William Venton.
- Mary, Aug. 14, 1748; m. Johannes Reddely. (Ch. bp. in Schenectady.)
- Rachel, June 7, 1752; m. Alexander Doorn. (Ch. bp. in Schenectady.)
- Catarina, May 7, 1758; m. Frans Syver. (Ch. bp. in New Salem.)

Although Jacob Egmont and Ann Lansing had five sons, there is nothing to show that any but Jacob were married. With this generation the Egmont name apparently became extinct.

10. TRYNTJE CLAESE, dau. of (3) Claes Cornelise Egmont and Brechie Maryns; b. 1658; m. (1) Elias Van Gyseling; m. (2) April 13, 1695, in Albany, William Haal (Hall); both living at Schenectady.

Children by first marriage:

- Jacomyntje, bp. April 11, 1686, in Albany; wit. Meyndert Harmenz Van den Bogaardt.
- Meindert, bp. Oct. 25, 1691, in Albany; wit. Johannes Beckman, Symon Schermerhorn, Helena (Schermerhorn) Van den Bogaardt.

Jacob (see Pearson's Schen. Settlers).

Children by second marriage, bp. in Schenectady:

Willem, Jan. 8, 1696; wit. Harmanus Vedder, Elisabeth Peek.

Mary, April 27, 1698; wit. Jan Vroman, Aagje Janse.

Klaas, Sept. 1, 1700; wit. Kornelius Slingerland, Grytje takel.

Johanes, Jan. 24, 1703; wit. Adam Vrooman, Barber Heemstraten.

Pearson states that Tryntje Claese, wife of Elias Van Gyseling, was born in 1643. This is incorrect and refers to another Tryntje Claese. (Catryn Claasz, wife of Jacob Teunisz and deceased in 1691, or Tryntje Claasen, wife of Jacob Lookerman and deceased in 1696.) Elias Van Gyseling, from Zeeland, arrived in New Netherland in 1659 in the ship Spotted Cow; in 1670 he bought a bouwery of Bastiaan De Winter in Schenectady. William Hall, second husband of Tryntje Claese, was sometimes employed as a French interpreter, on account of his fluency in the French language (H).

DESCENDANTS OF LYSBETH CORNELISE EGMONT.

Lysbeth Cornelise Egmont had two children by her first husband, Gysbert Cornelise Van Weesp, but what their Christian names were or what surname they took later, if they survived, has not been determined at this writing. Neither have the names of all of her children by Francis Boon been ascertained.

DESCENDANTS OF JANNETIE CORNELISE EGMONT.

See Schermerhorn Genealogy, 1914.

DESCENDANTS OF NEELTJE CORNELISE EGMONT.

11. CAREL HANSE, son of Hans Carelse Toll and (4) Neeltje Cornelise Egmont; m. Lysbeth Janse Rinckhout.*

Eva, m. Evert Van Eps.

Neeltje, bp. June 20, 1686, in Albany; wit. Jacob Schermerhorn, Geertruy Rinckhout.

Daniel, bp. Aug. 11, 1691, in Albany; wit. Gysbert Mercelis, Caatje Cuyler.

Abraham, bp. July 28, 1700, in Schenectady; wit. Arent Vedder, Sara Groot.

---

* In the preceding number of the RECORD, the wife of Carel Hanse Toll was given as Lysbeth Danielse Rinckhout, which is incorrect (see papers in possession of Kathlyne K. Viele).

Bregje, bp. April 18, 1703, in Schenectady; Henedrik Brauwer, Maria Borsboom; m. Adrian Van Slyck.

Lysbeth, bp. Jan. 29, 1706, in Schenectady; m. Pieter Cornu.

Carel Hanse Toll was a resident of Schenectady and his biography, family history and the later family genealogy may be found in several Schenectady publications.

12. RACHEL HANSE, dau. of Hans Carelse Toll and (4) Neeltje Cornelise Egmont; m. (1) David Willemse Marinus; m. (2) in 1697, Jeremi Tickston (Thickstone).

Children by first marriage:

Johannes, bp. April 6, 1692, in Albany; wit. Jacobus Peek, Jannetje Jacobus.

Children by second marriage:

Elisabeth, bp. Oct. 19, 1698, in Schenectady; wit. Thomas Smith, Antje Vile.

Debora, bp. Oct. 30, 1698, in Schenectady; wit. Kornelis Switz, Anna Meinders.

David Marinus was a citizen of Schenectady before 1684. Jeremi Tickston lived near Hoffman's Ferry (near Schenectady) on a farm received from his brother-in-law, Carel Hanse Toll (H).

THE SEGERS FAMILY.

As was earlier stated, Pearson claimed that the Segers (Sagers, Seegers, Zeegers) family descended from Cornelis Segerse van Voorhout. But Segers was a not very uncommon name among either the early Dutch or Germans, and settlers of this name are found in the New England states as early as 1635. There was a Lawrence Seger who came to Boston from Southampton in 1635, a youth of 17; a Richard Seger of Hartford, who was married shortly before 1650 (Y), and a John Seger of Rhode Island, who was born in Newport (son of John Seger) in 1684 (W). The earliest Seger on record, Seger Jansz, is claimed to have sailed from Holland in 1630, and was from Nykerck. He served as a farm hand in the Colony of Rensselaerswyck, and on Oct. 3, 1636, was reported as drowned (V). Again the name appears when, in New Amsterdam records, Feb. 20, 1652, Peter Segersen sued Jan Vinge for assault (C). Nothing more is recorded of either of these two latter individuals. As early as Aug. 25, 1654, the name of Gerrit Segers appears on Albany County Records when he made request for a building lot in Albany (?) and in Oct., 1657, it is found that he assisted Jan Van Bremen in driving cattle from Catskil (?) to Albany (G). His name is also mentioned, 1658-1662, in New Amsterdam records (K and T), and Feb. 5, 1665, he made purchases at a sale in Albany (G). Nothing further is found concerning him, but the record of a marriage is found at the N. Y. Dutch Church, Jan. 28, 1677, between a Zeger Gerritsen from Albany and Jannetje Thyssens. Apparently Zeger Gerritsen was a resident of Staten Island, where Oct. 10, 1674, he and Jacob Gerritsen obtained a patent of 72 morgens south of Fresh Kil. On Dec. 18, 1689, Seger Gerritsen received a commission of ensign in Puillions Company, Richmond County, and on Oct. 5, 1691, his name is mentioned in a deposition (C). Between 1696 and 1738, he figured as witness to various baptisms at the Port Richmond Dutch Church, Staten Island, and in almost every case his name is associated with that of a Jannetje (Faas) Vlierboom. He had a brother Lambert Garrison (Gerritsen) of Staten Island (S). In 1700 and 1713 his name appears also as witness to baptisms at the N. Y. Dutch Church, but in no case can record of any issue be found. Though a coincidence occurs in that he was a witness to the baptism of Zeger, son of Cornelis Egmont and Elsje de Camp, there is no other indication that he may have been connected with the Egmont family. But if he had a son Gerrit, born before 1695, or probably 1685-90, then this is undoubtedly the Gerrit Segers who appears in Schenectady as early as 1717 and in Albany as late as 1756. The progeny of this Gerrit Segers are apparently the ancestors of the majority of the members of the New York Segers family of the present day.

Contemporary with Gerrit Segers in Albany was a Johannes Segers, who married Brechie Wielers (Wheeler). He is first found as a resident of Livingston Manor (1715), and he probably came over from New England. They had a large family of children, whose descendants scattered to different sections of the state and country. But if Johannes Segers and Gerrit Segers were related, the connection must have been very distant, as there was absolutely no affiliation between them in the matter of acting as sponsors at baptisms. There is furthermore no indication whatever that Johannes Segers was connected with the Egmont family, unless the fact that the lot of Johannes adjoined that of Jacob Egmont could be said to be more than casual circumstance. It is also true that Johannes Segers and Jacob Egmont were bellmen of the city of Albany, during the same period, but this might arise from no other reason than the fact of their being neighbors.

There were other Segers families living in New York State at an early day, but who apparently bore no relation to each other. A Conrad Zieger (Seeger) was baptized at the Germantown (N. Y.) Church, Dec. 21, 1757, son of Joh. Georg Seeger (von Sulzons Neckarson, a soldier in the 48th Regiment of Troops of his Majesty George II, King of England) and Catharine Sternern, dau. of Jac. Stern von Aldorf. A Malchi Seger is also found on the muster rolls of Colonial Militia, 1760-3 (he was a Tory during the Revolution) (U). He was born in 1741, in Germany. An Alexander Seger is also found on the early muster rolls (U). He was born in 1729 in Holland. A Martin Seeger, born in 1803, came to New York from Germany, and settled in upper New York State (X). It is thus easily apparent that the Seger, Segar, Seeger, Seager, Segers, Sager, Sagers, Zeeger family of America has sprung from many sources and that there is no reason to believe that a connection exists between any of these branches and the Egmont or Van Voorhout family.

GERRIT SEGER, probably son of Seger Gerritsen of Albany, New York and Staten Island, who married Jan. 28, 1677, in New York, Jannetje Thryssens; m. Maritje —.

Children:

Staats, b. 1715; m. Dec. 6, 1740, in Albany, Suzanna Bratt.

Frederick, bp. Nov. 2, 1717, in Schenectady.

Johannes, bp. March 30, 1719, in Schenectady; m. Marytje Bratt.

Lydia, bp. Jan. 1, 1721, in Schenectady; m. Jan. 9, 1740, in Albany, Adam Brad.

Zantje (Saintje, Susanna), m. July 3, 1741, in Albany, Jan P. Brad.

Elizabeth, m. Oct. 5, 1741, in Albany, Johan Caspase Geefhart (Gibhart).

Maria, m. June 1, 1744, in Albany, Symon Springsteen.

Gerrit, Jr., m. July 15, 1757, in Albany, Wyntje Oliver.

Trace of this family is first found in the Schenectady Dutch Church Records and later in the Albany Dutch Church records. Staats was a member of a company of men in the County of Albany, May 5, 1760, raised for Capt. Christopher Yates' Company. He was then 45 years old and was born at "Highlands York" (U). The name of Gerrit Seger appears frequently as witness to baptisms of children the above first in 1741 and last in 1756. This family of Segers remained in Albany County for a considerable period, residing in Guilderland, Bethlehem, Helderburgh, New Scotland, and adjoining places. There is a town of Seager in the extreme western part of Albany Co. Their patriotism during the Revolution was evidently not of the strongest character, as a number of members of the family were under suspicion as Tories, if in fact they were not positively known to be. Staats Seger, however, was a member of Col. Goose Van Schaick's First Line Regiment during the Revolution, serving until Aug. 12, 1777. He was sergeant Nov. 26, 1776. Also Frederick Seger was a member of Col. John Winne's Tryon County Rangers (Q).

JOHANNES SEGERS, b. about 1690-8; m. June 19, 1719, in Albany, Brechie Wielars (Wieler); bp. May 10, 1696, in Kingston; dau. of Evert Wieler and Josina Gardiner.

Children:

Evert, bp. May 29, 1720, in Kingston; m. Zara Aarscherd (Aertscherdt, Orchard).

Hilletie, bp. Jan. 20, 1723, in Albany; d. y.

Hendrick, bp. April 25, 1724, in Albany; m. (1) Elizabeth Hofer (Haver); m. (2) Margareta Koen.

Thomas, bp. Jan. 16, 1726, in Albany; m. (1) Seintje Josina (Wieler); m. (2) Judith Hogeland.

Roeloff, bp. Aug. 13, 1727, in Albany; m. (1) Margarita Arnold; m. (2) Lydia Hartje (Harty).

Johannes, bp. Nov. 9, 1729, in Albany; m. Catrina Pietersen.

Albertus, bp. Oct. 21, 1733, in Albany. (Child of John Seger, bur. Albany Dutch Ch., Sept. 1, 1734.)

Hilletie, bp. Jan. 8, 1735, in Albany; m. Johannes Koen.

Jacob, bp. Oct. 31, 1736, in Albany.

Josyntje, bp. July 31, 1738, in Albany; m. Matheus Boom.

Johannes Seger first resided in the Manor of Livingston, where, Nov. 30, 1715, he was a member of an "Independent Companie" (U). He later moved to Albany and from 1731 to 1741 was bellman for the city. His village lot adjoined that of Jacob Egmont. He was evidently very active in the town's service, as there are many records of warrants for payments to him between 1731 and 1754 (A, 9, 10). He was appointed city marshal Sept. 29, 1742, and held this office until 1769. His name appears also in several real estate transactions between 1730 and 1764 (A 9, 10).

The families of his children scattered to different sections. Roe-lof was constable of the 1st Ward, Albany, in 1750 and 1760. Thomas was constable of the same ward, 1761-70, and City Marshal 1769-83 (A 9, 10). Evert Seger and his son Thomas served in the Revolution, the former in the First Line Regiment and the latter in Col. Harper's Levies. Revolutionary papers record that Thomas Seger died Oct. 13, 1779. John Seger, son of Johannes, also served in the 1st Line Regiment, 7th Co., during the Revolution. He served to the end of the war, and on Feb. 26, 1778, was with his Regiment at Saratoga (Q). He died in 1832, aged 103 years (W).

AUTHOR'S NOTE.

The records of the children of Cornelis Cornelise Egmont and Catalyntje Frans were obtained only after a very careful study of the New York Dutch Church baptisms and marriages. In these early church records, names were entered in many different forms, and family names, particularly in the cases of women, were most frequently ignored. The witnesses to baptisms, however, form a very strong means of identification, as it was most usual for these to be close relatives of the children baptised. It was chiefly through the compilation and study of the names of these witnesses that the children of Cornelis Cornelise Egmont and Catalyntje Frans were finally ascertained. In fact the use of this relative data furnishes the most substantial proof of the correctness of the author's deductions. Additional data confirming the parentage of the above children was also found in the early wills and papers relating thereto, published in the N. Y. Historical Society Collections.

RICHARD HIGGINS OF PLYMOUTH AND EASTHAM,
MASS., AND PISCATAWAY, N. J., AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

COMPILED BY ORRA EUGENE MONNETTE of Los Angeles, Cal.,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, New England Historic-Genealogical Society and California Genealogical Society.

Some of the early records, both at Plymouth and at Eastham, concerning Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins and his contemporary colonists are quaint and curious;

"1640, June. John Smaley and Richard Higgins have exchanged two parcels meadow land one acre Smaley had at Blue fish river, with Richard for a parcel of meadow ground granted him by Warren Wells containing two acres."

"That wolf traps be made by Nicholas Snow, Edward Bangs, Morton and others at broken wharf near head of beach, February, 1643."

"That one be made at broken wharf by Manassah Kempton, Edward Bangs, Richard Higgins, Nathaniell Morton, Nicholas Snow, Anthony Snow, John Jenkins, William Fallowell, Robte Finney, John and Ephraim Morton."

"Richard Higgins in August, 1645, sold for twelve pounds his dwelling house, out house and building with garden and orchard situated near Brownes Rock, provided it shall be lawful for the said Richard to take away the boards that line the inward room and bedstead and board overhead, and some fruit trees in the orchard so that he leaves the said John Churchwell 30 trees."

"October 29, 1649, Received by mee, Richard Higgins, full satisfaction from John Churchwell upon all accompts. From the beginning of the world to the present time. Richard Higgins."

Of some of these colonists, John Smalley and others or their children likewise settled in Piscataway, New Jersey, as in the case of John and Joseph Snow, already mentioned.

It has been asserted that Lydia Chandler, first wife of Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins, was not a daughter of Edmund Chandler, for the reason that she is not mentioned in the latter's will of 1662. This is not a potent argument as she was deceased at the making of the will and, therefore, not likely to be mentioned by the testator.

That she was a daughter of Roger Chandler, as alleged by another, has no confirmation in any record thus far discovered.

A careful search has been made to find the will or a record thereof of Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins, but entirely without success. He left a will, undoubtedly, for in more than one record his widow, Mary-Yates-Higgins is named as "executrix" and their son, Eliakim Higgins, is named "executor."

In seeking to determine the exact location of the Higgins' homestead in Piscataway, there is disclosed in the records of the Surveyor General of the East Jersey Proprietors at Perth Amboy, N. J. (not under the State government, but held as corporation property), a record of the survey and assignment of lands to Mrs. Mary Higgins of Piscataway, March 8, 1677-8; the boundaries are chiefly trees and heaps of stones; a few names of adjacent proprietors are mentioned; the region was at the western part of Piscataway, about the locality called "Dismal" of "The Dismal Swamp," and in the uplands above it, and over the Raritan River; some lots touching the line of Woodbridge. There were lots separately described, containing 254 acres of land.

East Jersey Patents, etc. (Book No. 1, reverse), also show conveyance, June 5, 1677, by Mary Higgins, a widow of Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins and Eliakim,<sup>2</sup> son, to Edward Slater, of several lots or tracts of land located in "Bottle Meadow," which was in Piscataway. This approximates the death of Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins early in the year 1677.*

His widow, Mary, remained such until after 1682, for in that year she executes a bond hereinafter mentioned as "spinster" which term was not restricted in the old records to "an old maid" but meant a single, unmarried woman, as a widow. Again, May 5, 1684, as "Mary Higgins," she consents to the marriage of her son, Eliakim,<sup>2</sup> Sept. 6, 1678. Mary Higgins, did, however, obtain a license to marry Samuel Moore, Sr., of Woodbridge (East Jersey deeds, Liber 3, p. 149). For some unknown reason the marriage was not consummated, for the record has the marginal annotation: "This license is null, one of the persons recanting the agreement." It may be assumed that the recantation was by Mary, in fear of losing her property rights. Samuel Moore, Sr., d. May 27, 1688, leaving a will, naming a wife, "Hannah." However, she must have gathered courage with the years, for at a date subsequent to 1684, she married for her third husband and as his second wife the venerable Isaac<sup>2</sup> Whitehead, Sr. (b. 1648, New Haven, Conn.), of Elizabethtown, N. J., one of its first settlers in 1666 and one of its foremost citizens. He was the son of John<sup>1</sup> Whitehead, of New Haven, * Since this compilation, Mr. Stanley W. Smith of 306 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., formerly connected with The Mayflower Descendant, and, likewise, engaged for years in Higgins researches, records that he believes Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins was deceased before June 1, 1675, according to a record in Plym. Col. Rec., vol. 5, p. 160, in which his son, Benjamin<sup>2</sup> Higgins, petitions for land at that date in right of his father, deceased. This does not harmonize, however, with other records in New Jersey indicating that he did not die until about 1677.

Conn., and came to Elizabethtown with his first wife and seven children: Susanna,<sup>a</sup> Isaac,<sup>a</sup> Mary,<sup>a</sup> Sarah,<sup>a</sup> Samuel,<sup>a</sup> Joseph,<sup>a</sup> and Grace.<sup>a</sup> He was the first town clerk and served till his death, February, 1691; was also captain of the local "Train Band" in 1678 and '80 and Justice of the Peace. When they were married is uncertain, but it was probably after 1689, for Dec. 3 of that year, he made a conveyance of land to his son, Joseph<sup>a</sup> Whitehead and no wife joined in the deed, although that fact is not in itself conclusive as to his not being married at that date. In his will, dated Jan. 31, 1690, he gave one-third of all his moveables to his wife, Mary. As his son, Isaac<sup>a</sup> Whitehead, Jr., had a wife, Abigail, the two are easily distinguished. The fact is completely established by the will of Thomas<sup>a</sup> (Richard<sup>1</sup>) Higgins, dated Dec. 2, 1702, in which he makes provision for his mother, "Mary Whitehead." She made her home with him and he states "My will is that my honored mother, Mary Whitehead, shall have and quietly possess the Parlor or Rooms where she now lives and also one-third part of the orchard during her natural life." She was evidently living then, 1702, but the date and place of her death are unknown.

2. JONATHAN<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Plymouth, Mass., July, 1637; d. after 1690, m. Jan. 9, 1660-1, Elizabeth,<sup>a</sup> b. Sept. 29, 1639; d. —, 1679; daughter of Joseph<sup>a</sup> Rogers of Duxbury and Eastham, Mass., who was the son of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Rogers of the Mayflower. After the death of his first wife, he m. (2) Hannah, sister of Elizabeth Rogers. He was Ensign of the military company at Eastham in 1675 and a member of a jury in 1677. It is to the lineage of Samuel<sup>3</sup> (Benjamin,<sup>2</sup> Richard<sup>1</sup>) Higgins that Mrs. Frank Sullivan Smith, referred to in this compilation and her brother, Ex-Governor Frank<sup>9</sup> Wayland Higgins of New York, belong. The descent is through Capt. Isreal<sup>4</sup> Higgins, b. April 26, 1706; d. Feb. 7, 1788; the latter's son, Isreal<sup>5</sup> Higgins, b. Oct. 3, 1728; d. Jan. 1, 1794; and his son, Timothy<sup>6</sup> Higgins, b. June 12, 1767; d. Nov. 1850; the latter's son, Timothy<sup>7</sup> Higgins, b. Nov. 24, 1801; d. Sept. 4, 1891; and his son, Orrin Thrall<sup>8</sup> Higgins, b. Aug. 14, 1826; d. March 3, 1890; and his wife, Lucia Cornelia Hapgood, who were the parents of Mrs. Frank Sullivan Smith (Clara<sup>9</sup> Alzina Hapgood Higgins, b. Sept. 6, 1854), and her brother. A splendid account of Ex-Governor Higgins appears in the National Cyclopædia of American Biography (Vol. 13, p. 551).

With reference to two of the sons of Richard<sup>1</sup> Higgins, namely: Eliakim<sup>2</sup> and Jedidiah,<sup>2</sup> each was one of the grantees in Narragansett Township, No. 7 (now Gorham, Me.), in a list of those assigned by lot in 1733. Both were credited to Eastham and in the same list is a Joseph Higgins, unidentified, credited to Barnstable. This would indicate service in King Phillip's War (Bodge, ed. 1906, p. 440).

4. MARY<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Eastham, Mass., Sept. 27, 1652; d. after 1682, when she was in Piscataway; m. (1), it is claimed, a Bradford, but not established by any record found as yet; m. (2), it is believed, William Looker, of Elizabethtown, New Jersey. This is established by the record of a bond at Trenton, N. J., which recites that "We, Mary Higgins, Spinster, and Eliakim Higgins, carpenter, both of the Towne of Piscataway in Ye Province of East Jersey do stand & are firmly bounden & obliged unto Richard Smith, Constable, etc."

"The condition of this obligation is such That Whereas the within bound Mary Higgins & Eliakim hath brought unto the sd. Towne of Piscataway a Laine & distracted woman the wife of one Wm. Looker, late of Elizabeth Towne, Brewer, etc." Later in the document she is called "Mary Looker" and the bond is dated Aug. 20, 1682, witnessed by John Gilman and Edward Slater, neighbors of the Higgins family. It is clearly evident that the mother and widow, Mary Higgins, and brother of Mary (Higgins) Looker were caring for this deficient daughter and sister.

William Looker, Sr., was one of the original "Associates," 1666, of Elizabethtown, N. J., who came from Jamaica, Long Island, with John Looker, his brother. They were probably the sons of Henry Looker, who settled 1640 at Sudbury, Mass. For a few years he resided at Woodbridge, N. J., its proximity to Piscataway accounting for association with the Higgins family. According to the above bond, William Looker, Sr., was dead in 1682 and some authorities confuse him with his son, William Looker, Jr.

Eliakim<sup>2</sup> Higgins was first at Piscataway receiving a grant of land. He was executor of his father's will in 1677. With his brother Jedidiah<sup>2</sup> Higgins, he witnessed a sale made by Richard Powell in 1678. Calling himself, "of New Piscataway, Carpenter," he conveyed a tract to Richard Smith, Jr., Aug. 25, 1683. In 1684, he was on a jury and in one record is called "of Piscataway, planter." Evidently he removed soon after to Burlington Co., for he had his "Eare Marke" recorded there in 1685, and where he married his wife, Alice. He was a witness, with his brother and sister, Thomas<sup>2</sup> and Sarah<sup>2</sup> Higgins, to the marriage of his brother, Jedidiah<sup>2</sup> Higgins, and Mary Newbold, May 12, 1684, at Burlington. He then settled in Mansfield township and was a neighbor of his father-in-law, Michael Newbold, in 1688. Eliakim Higgins' plantation "being north of ye greate meadowe." The Burlington records in a quaint entry recite the death of his wife, Nov. 13, 1692, "about 2 of ye Clock in ye morning." In 1694, he made inventory of the estate of John Green of Burlington, and was a witness to the marriage of Edward Andrews and Sarah Ong, Feb. 8, 1694. He is recorded there again in 1696, but soon afterwards removed to Woodbridge, N. J., which was occasioned by his probable second marriage to Mary<sup>3</sup> Hale, b. Nov. 28, 1678, dau. of Samuel<sup>2</sup> (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) Hale and second wife, Sarah Ilsley.*

The Hales came to Woodbridge from Newbury, Mass. The Woodbridge town records show marriage of Mary Higgins and Moses Rolph, June 4, 1702-3. Dally in his History of Woodbridge states that she was a widow and that Moses Rolph was a son-in-law of Samuel Hale. The latter d. Nov. 5, 1709, leaving a will dated May 23, 1707, naming his "son-in-law, Moses Rolph," and appointing him sole executor. Moses Rolph was a neighbor of the Moore and Higgins families and figures in land conveyances with them. Between 1703-4 and 1723, he and his wife, Mary, had 11 children, among them a Richard Rolph, which was a Higgins name. He died about April 24, 1746, while living in Somerset Co., N. J., for his widow, Mary, was made administratrix of his estate on that date.

Eliakim<sup>2</sup> Higgins died before June 23, 1698, when his brother, Jedidiah,<sup>2</sup> was appointed administrator of his estate. He was then called "of Woodbridge Yeoman." John Langstaff and Reni Piatt took the inventory of his estate.

Issue of Eliakim<sup>2</sup> Higgins by first wife, Alice Newbold:

- i. Elizabeth,<sup>3</sup> b. Feb. 15, 1684-5. Prob. d. inf.
- ii. Gershom,<sup>3</sup> b. Jan. 5, 1689-90; d. in 1758, leaving a will dated Sept. 14, 1751. Was of Woodbridge in 1711 and 1716, when a member of the church, but finally settled in Elizabethtown, where he was a blacksmith. He had wife, Mary.

6. WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Dec. 15, 1655. No further record, although a William Higgins appeared on Long Island before 1700. It is claimed he left descendants.

7. JEDIDIAH<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Eastham, Mass., March 5, 1656-7; d. before May 6, 1715; m. May 12, 1684, Mary Newbold, sister of Alice Newbold above mentioned. His name appears also as "Jediah," "Jodiah," etc., in the records. He first settled at Piscataway and received several grants of land there. He took these lands as early as 1680, and became a freeholder of the township. 80 acres were surveyed before 1690 for his home-plantation. In 1683, he appeared as administrator of the estate of Francis Duke of Piscataway.

Jedidiah<sup>2</sup> Higgins occupied a prominent position in the community. In 1683, he was Ensign of the Piscataway Trainband under Captain James Giles.

In 1692, he was overseer of highways and in 1695, constable of Piscataway. In 1695-6-7, he was a member of the New Jersey assembly, representing Piscataway. In a deed to Henry Crosley of Piscataway, he styles himself "cordwainer." June 23, 1698, he administered the estate of his brother, Eliakim<sup>2</sup> Higgins and was still of Piscataway. Soon removed to Somerset Co.

note that Thomas Yates was a witness to this will. Widow and sons, Jedediah<sup>3</sup> and James,<sup>3</sup> made executors. Inventory taken May 6, 1715, by Thomas Leonard and Benjamin Fitz Randolph.

Issue of Jedidiah<sup>3</sup> Higgins and wife, Mary Newbold (Piscataway Vital Records):

- i. Anne,<sup>3</sup> b. March 8, 1684-5; d. 1702.
- ii. Rose,<sup>3</sup> b. Nov. 6, 1686; m. April 2, 1707, Timothy Bloomfield of Woodbridge.
- iii. Mary,<sup>3</sup> b. Oct. 25, 1688; d. before 1699.
- iv. Child,<sup>3</sup> b. about 1690; d. before 1715. Will of Michael Newbold, dated May 19, 1690, shows his daughter, Mary, then had four children.
- v. Jedidiah,<sup>3</sup> b. April 11, 1691; d. Jan. 19, 1772; m. Hannah, dau. of Jonathan and Hannah (Bollen) Stout. Resided at Kingston, bor. of New Brunswick, N. J. Executor of his father's estate. He was a Sergeant under Col. Thos. Ffarmer in 1715.
- vi. James,<sup>3</sup> b. Aug. 7, 1692. Res., Somerset Co., N. J. Private under Col. Thomas Ffarmer in 1715; d. intestate May, 1718, leaving five children. Jedidiah<sup>3</sup> Higgins was administrator, and Thomas Yates made inventory.
- vii. Joshua,<sup>3</sup> b. Oct. 1, 1694; d. before 1715.
- viii. Joseph,<sup>3</sup> b. about 1695, as under 21 in 1715; d. June, 1782, leaving a will. Res., Amwell, Hunterdon Co., N. J.
- ix. Phebe,<sup>3</sup> b. Oct. 11, 1696; d. before 1715.
- x. Michael,<sup>3</sup> b. July 23, 1698; m. Nov. 28, 1727, Anne Bryant. Lived in Somerset Co. till 1730, when he removed to Newton on Cape Fear River, North Carolina.
- xi. Mary,<sup>3</sup> b. Jan. 24, 1699-1700; m. Freegift Stout.

- i. Richard,<sup>3</sup> b. Nov. 18, 1682, at Elizabethtown, N. J. (first called Jonathan); m. Phebe —. When his father died in 1695, his name was changed and his uncle, Samuel Oliver, was appointed his guardian. Resided at Elizabethtown and in the will of Benjamin Trotter of that place, dated Oct. 27, 1716, he received a legacy and is called "boatman." He d. before Dec. 1, 1736, when his widow, Phebe, declined to administer his estate, and Dr. Peter Leconte of Monmouth Co. was appointed administrator; Gabriel Stelle signed the bond.
- ii. Sarah,<sup>3</sup> b. Sept. 15, 1686. No further record.

She, with her husband to be, was a witness to the marriage of his brother, Jedidiah<sup>2</sup> Higgins and Mary Newbold, in 1684.

With his mother, Mary Higgins, and brother Jedidiah<sup>2</sup> Higgins, he took up land in Piscataway, in the first surveys before 1690, and probably about 1683, obtained his first grant of 53 acres, being then 21 years of age.

He lived and died at Piscataway and was, beyond question, the most distinguished representative of the Higgins Family there. He participated in the civic affairs of the community, holding several offices, was an officer of the local militia, and served in the administrations of the estates of his deceased friends and neighbors. The estate of Isaac Fitz Randolph particularly should be mentioned, as he was a relative by marriage. He served on the grand jury at Woodbridge in 1684.

In 1688-90, he was overseer of highways. In 1692, he was appointed Lieutenant of a foot company at Piscataway, and in 1695, he was its sheriff. In 1693-4-5 he was elected as a deputy to the General Assembly of New Jersey from Piscataway.

He left a will, dated the day of his death, Dec. 2, 1702, which was proved April 18, 1704. He provided for his mother, "Mary Whitehead." He willed that land at Rocky Hill or at Milestone River, should be sold for the benefit of his daughters during their minority; gave his wife, Elizabeth, his share of the grist-mill for her life, and after her decease to his son, Benjamin; gave his goods and chattels to his wife, for her support and "the bringing up of my poore children in reading, writing and other good education. To my son, Benjamin, Higgins, all my land lying within Raritan River.

*See The Hull Family in America—New Jersey Branch, by Orra Eugene Monnette in the Old Northwest Genealogical Quarterly, Jan. 1910, pp. 31-33; also, The Hull Family in America, by Col. Weygant (1913), pp. 254-5.

etc., my wife to have house and lands during Benjamin's minority." Wife Executrix: John Royce and Edward Slater, overseers (Mdx. Co. Wills. 1. 37). His wife's father, Benjamin Hull, was a witness to the will.

After the death of Thomas<sup>2</sup> Higgins, his widow, Elizabeth, m. as his second wife, about 1705, Capt. John Harrison, Jr., merchant and soldier, who had come into Jersey from Flushing, Queens Co., Long Island; settled first at Elizabethtown, 1701, then of Piscataway, 1706, and finally, 1718, of Perth Amboy, N. J. He d. there in 1724, leaving a will dated March 2, 1723-4, naming wife, Elizabeth Harrison, son, Benjamin Harrison, under age, the latter to become sole executor when of age. Legacies to various Harrison relationship. Desired to be buried near "daughter's grave." He had served many terms in the colonial assembly, but acquired his greatest distinction in 1709, when in charge of a company of militia on the Canadian frontier at Albany, N. Y.

His widow, Elizabeth Harrison (formerly Elizabeth (Hull) Higgins), d. in Jan. 1730-1, at Rocky Hill, Somerset Co., N. J., evidently at the home-place granted by Thomas<sup>2</sup> Higgins to his mother, Mary Whitehead, in 1702.

She left a will dated April 22, 1730, proved Jan. 21, 1730-1, naming sons, Benjamin<sup>3</sup> Higgins and Benjamin Harrison, and daus. Sarah Loakison, who had eldest dau. not 18, Grace Harrison, Mary<sup>3</sup> Higgins and Rachel Harrison.

She gives legacies to Nancee Harrison and "my grand-son, Edward Higgins," and states that her son, Benjamin<sup>3</sup> Harrison, has a wife, Rachel. She appoints "my dearly beloved sons, Benjamin<sup>3</sup> Higgins and Benjamin Harrison to be joint executors, etc." Apparently no distinction is made by the testatrix between stepchildren and sons or daus.-in-law. It is interesting to note that Thomas Yates was a witness to this will.

Issue of Thomas<sup>2</sup> Higgins and wife, Elizabeth Hull:

- i. Benjamin,<sup>3</sup> b. April 19, 1691; mentioned in 1728 in will of Henry Harrison of Somerset Co., brother of Captain John Harrison. In 1730, is called "heir-at-law" of Thomas<sup>2</sup> Higgins, deceased, of Piscataway. Resided in Somerset Co. and had wife, Mary. He d. in 1732 and his estate was administered July 25, of that year, by Joseph Babcock and John Manners.
- ii. Rachel,<sup>3</sup> b. July 16, 1692 (?); d. after 1760; m. before 1730, her stepbrother, Benjamin Harrison, son of Capt. John Harrison by a first wife. He must have been born after 1702, as he was not of age 1723-4. To have m. a wife, ten years older, is hard to reconcile, but his step-mother, Elizabeth Higgins-Harrison, mentions in her will a daughter, Rachel Harrison, who could not have been of the Harrison blood, as Capt. John Harrison mentions only a son, Benjamin Harrison, and a deceased daughter in 1723-4. Possibly there is an error in the record of the birth of Rachel<sup>3</sup> Higgins. Benjamin Harrison d. between 1731-6, as appears by deeds, and his widow, Rachel, was living in Perth Amboy as late as 1760, naming her husband, Benjamin, and the latter's father, John Harrison, in a certain conveyance. They had a son, John Harrison, who was associated with Surrogate Michael Kearney and owned land in Sussex Co., N. J.

iii. Sarah,<sup>2</sup> b. —, 1693; m. (1) — Warden and had Sarah<sup>4</sup> and Elizabeth,<sup>4</sup> and m. (2) — Loakison. Mentioned as Sarah Loakison in her mother's will, 1730.

iv. Rhoda,<sup>2</sup> b. April 8, 1697; d. before 1730.

v. Mary,<sup>2</sup> b. —. Mentioned in her mother's will of 1730, evidently then unmarried. This reference might possibly be to Mary, wife of her son, Benjamin Higgins.

10. LYDIA<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Eastham, Mass., July, 1664, d. —. No further record, probably d. young.

11. REBECCA<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS, (Richard<sup>1</sup>) b. Eastham, Mass., about 1666; d. before Nov. 1715; m. April 28, 1683, Thomas<sup>2</sup> (John<sup>1</sup>) Martin (Pisc. Vital Records). This record specifically recites that she was a daughter of Richard<sup>1</sup> and Mary Higgins.

He was b. about 1659 and belonged to the notable Martin family of Piscataway. His father, John<sup>1</sup> Martin, had come from Dover, N. H., where he m. Esther (or Hester), dau. of Thomas Roberts, called "Governor" of New Hampshire in 1640, the colonial government not being very definite or certain.

John<sup>1</sup> Martin was one of the original grantees or associates of Piscataway in 1666.

Thomas<sup>2</sup> Martin remained for a while after his marriage at Piscataway, but removed to Woodbridge about 1696-7, where he died in Nov., 1715. He left a will, dated Nov. 20, 1715, and proven Dec. 1, 1715. In it he is designated "of Woodbridge, yeoman." He does not mention a wife, and hence it may be safely assumed she was then deceased. He mentions sons, John,<sup>3</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Isaac,<sup>3</sup> Zechariah,<sup>3</sup> Jeremiah<sup>3</sup> (not 18), Gershom<sup>3</sup> and one daughter, "Rebecca Martin." He makes his "kinsman, Moses Rolph," executor, who likewise witnessed the will.

i. John<sup>3</sup> Martin, b. Dec. 29, 1683; living in Nov., 1715.

ii. Sarah<sup>3</sup> Martin, b. Feb. 20, 1685; apparently dead in Nov., 1715.

iii. Samuel<sup>3</sup> Martin, b. about 1687; living in Nov., 1715.

iv. Isaac<sup>3</sup> Martin, b. about 1689; living in Nov., 1715.

- v. Gershom<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. about 1691; living in Nov., 1715.
  - vi. Jacob<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. May 27, 1698; apparently dead in Nov., 1715.
  - vii. Rebecca<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. March 24, 1700; living in Nov., 1715, and apparently unmarried then.
  - viii. Zechariah<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. Nov. 26, 1702; living in Nov., 1715.
  - ix. Anne<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. Jan. 11, 1705; apparently dead Nov., 1715.
  - x. Jeremiah<sup>a</sup> Martin, b. Feb. 9, 1711; living in Nov., 1715.

The Fitz Randolph family was one of the prominent families of New Jersey.* The descent is from Edward<sup>1</sup> Fitz Randolph of Barnstable, Mass., and wife, Elizabeth Blossom, the latter of whom as a widow, with her family, settled in Piscataway in 1676. Her son, Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> Fitz Randolph and wife, Mary Holly, were the parents of Isaac<sup>3</sup> Fitz Randolph (above), who was b. at Barnstable, Mass., Dec. 7, 1664; died, at Woodbridge, in 1694, as on July 2nd of that year, administration upon his estate was granted to his widow, Ruth, and her brother, Thomas<sup>3</sup> Higgins was surety on the administration bond. Dec. 27, 1695, Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> Fitz Randolph, Sr., of Woodbridge, doubtless his father, gave a bond for the payment of £13. 8.—for the use of Isaac<sup>4</sup> and William<sup>4</sup> Fitz Randolph, his two children. Their father, Isaac<sup>3</sup> Fitz Randolph had m. (1) Sept. 18, 1690, Martha, dau. of William Bingla. She d. Aug. 1, 1691.

The widow, Ruth<sup>3</sup> (Higgins) Fitz Randolph, m. (2) before Oct. 1695, Stephen Tuttle of Woodbridge, for at that date, as the latter's wife, she accounted in the estate of her late husband, Isaac<sup>3</sup> Fitz Randolph, and charged for the support of the two sons of the deceased and for her "lying in." Dec. 31, 1695, Stephen Tuttle of Woodbridge, gave a bond to maintain and educate, to their fifteenth year, Isaac<sup>4</sup> and William<sup>4</sup> Fitz Randolph, the children of Isaac<sup>3</sup> Fitz Randolph.

The origin of Stephen Tuttle has not been worked out. He was constable of Woodbridge in 1697 and owned a house-lot there. He d. 1709-10, leaving a will, dated Oct. 31, 1709, proved Feb. 2, 1709-10. He is called "of Woodbridge, cordwainer," and names wife, Ruth and sons, Timothy, Joseph, Stephen and Samuel, all under age; cousins, Samuel and John Cooper of Newark, and kinsman, Theophilus Munson of New Haven. One of the witnesses was Moses Rolph.

*See Fitz Randolph Traditions, by L. V. Fitz Randolph 1907; also latest and best compilation relative to this family, in Historical and Genealogical Miscellany, N. J., by John E. Stillwell, (New York 1914), Vol. III, p. 238, et seq.

i. Isaac<sup>4</sup> Fitz Randolph, b. April 16, 1693; administration granted upon his estate, Aug. 23, 1750, to Hannah, his widow, and her bond was signed by Samuel Dove, her brother.

ii. William<sup>4</sup> Fitz Randolph, b. Oct. 27, 1694.

iii. Timothy Tuttle, b. Oct. 16, 1696.

iv. Joseph Tuttle, b. —; under age 1709-10.

v. Stephen Tuttle, b. —; under age 1709-10.

vi. Samuel Tuttle, b. —; under age 1709-10.

13. SARAH<sup>2</sup> HIGGINS (Richard<sup>1</sup>), b. at Piscataway, about 1673; d. after 1703; m. Oct. 26, 1693 (Woodbridge Vital Records) by Justice John Bishop, Samuel<sup>2</sup> Moore, b. March 31, 1670; d. March 1703; son of the first Samuel<sup>1</sup> Moore of Woodbridge and his 2nd wife, Mary Ilsley. This family originated in Newbury, Mass., and Samuel<sup>1</sup> Moore came to Woodbridge as early as 1667-8. He was a distinguished citizen there, occupying positions of honor in the community.

Samuel<sup>2</sup> Moore, d. March 1703, leaving a will, dated March 26, 1703, proved April 2, 1703, in which he is called "of Woodbridge." It names his wife, Sarah, and appoints her sole executrix; also children, Samuel, Jonathan (both under age), Mary and Rachel; and recites bequests to brothers-in-law, Stephen Tuttle and Samuel Hale.

i. Samuel<sup>3</sup> Moore, b. Aug. 23, 1694. Had wife, January, in 1720-1.

ii. Jonathan<sup>3</sup> Moore, b. —; under age in 1703.

iii. Mary<sup>3</sup> Moore, b. July 17, 1699. Witness to a deed of her brother, Samuel<sup>2</sup> Moore, to Moses Rolph in 1720-1.

iv. Rachel<sup>3</sup> Moore, b. Sept. 17, 1702 (May 26, 1701). There is a remote possibility that it was she who became wife of Benjamin<sup>3</sup> (Captain John<sup>1</sup>) Harrison, rather than Rachel<sup>3</sup> Higgins (see ante).

This concludes the work contemplated by the compiler in thus presenting three generations of this lineage, but a complete "Higgins Genealogy" is in preparation under the supervision of Mrs. Katharine Chapin Higgins of Worcester, Mass., to whom any interested in the family are respectfully referred.

"Henry Charles<sup>8</sup> Thacher was a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, being elected a resident member December 1st, 1875. He received his education in the public schools of Yarmouth with a year's study at the Sandwich Academy. At the age of 16 he went to Boston and found employment as a clerk in a grocery house. Sometime in the early 1850's he established himself in the wool commission business and was soon after engaged in the wool and cotton trade, where as senior partner of the firm of H. C. Thacher & Co., he was prominent and influential in the business world. He was prominent in the political affairs of both state and nation as a staunch old line Democrat, but declined nomination to public office in 1887, when he was nominated for State Senator and in 1888 and 1889 for State Treasurer. He resided at No. 51 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, but his summer home was in his native town, Yarmouth, where he had one of the finest estates in Massachusetts. His funeral was held in the church of the New Jerusalem, Bowdoin Street, May 1st, 1900, and he was buried at Yarmouth."

Alexander Hamilton<sup>8</sup> Thacher graduated at the Springhill University, Mobile, Ala. He was appointed Major in the 13th Missouri Volunteers in 1861 and afterwards Lieut. He and his wife were living happily together in St. Louis, Mo., when, his health being poor, he left home to go south to recuperate. The last word received from him was from a remote place in Arkansas and his family never heard from him since that time in 1870. At this place in Arkansas in 1870 there was an epidemic of yellow fever and many strangers were among the victims, and it is presumed that he died there at that time and was hurriedly buried there as an unknown person.

He was a son of Capt. Hiram Cutts (born —, 1799; died —, in Illinois; married December 2nd, 1819), and his wife Eunice Brown, who resided at Kittery and Portland, Me., and removed to Polo, Ill.

Child: 1 (Cutts), son, born at Portland, Me.

- +2134 i. George Thacher,<sup>9</sup> born November 1st, 1855; died —; married Mary Alice Francis.

Dr. Joseph Brown Cutts married a second time at New Orleans, La., May 24th, 1865, to Marianne Burrows, born —, at —; died at Louisiana, Mo., February —, 1877. She was a daughter of John Burrows (born —; died —; married —), and his wife — Morgan, daughter of Wm. Morgan of Glenmorganshire, England (born —; died —), who lived at Philadelphia, Pa.

Children: — ?

Joseph Brown Cutts studied medicine and graduated from Bowdoin College Medical School in 1842. He immediately began the practice of medicine at Buffalo Grove (now Polo), Ogle Co., Ill. In 1849, on the outbreak of the gold fever in California, he sailed from Boston as a surgeon of a passenger ship sailing around Cape Horn to San Francisco, which place he reached in July of that year. After some rough mountain experiences, he entered the employ of the Adams & Co., Express and Banking house at Stockton, Cal., and was with them when the disastrous failure took place in 1855. Returning thence he resumed the practice of medicine in Buffalo Grove, Ill., and was there at the outbreak of the Civil War. In September, 1861, he entered the military service as a surgeon of the 2nd Illinois Cavalry. He was present at the battles of Fort Donaldson, Mo.; Union City and Bolivar, Tenn.; Holly Springs, Miss., and in the operations around Vicksburg, Miss. After the fall of Vicksburg, his regiment with a part of the 13th Army Corps to which it belonged was transferred to the Gulf Department and participated in the Campaign of General Franklin in Western Louisiana. At the expiration of three years service in the field he resigned from the Cavalry and took a U. S. Commission as Surgeon in the U. S. Volunteers and was placed on duty in the hospitals in New Orleans and Mobile and elsewhere until mustered out in 1865 with the rank of Brevet Lieut. Colonel of the Medical Department U. S. Volunteers.

Children: None.

George<sup>a</sup> Thacher married a second time, —, at —, to Mrs. Elizabeth (—) —? (a widow with one child); her maiden surname and the surname of her first husband is not known to me.

Children: None.

According to George Thacher<sup>a</sup> Cutts (No. 2134), George<sup>a</sup> Thacher (No. 1333) had at least one daughter, viz:—Ella<sup>a</sup> Thacher. But according to Mrs. Lucy Savage (Thacher) Van Antwerp, he had no children of his own, but his second wife had a child by her first husband. Mrs. Rebecca (Thacher) Hall, of Portland, Me., says that he had no children of his own, but that he adopted a little girl in her infancy. From all of the above vague and inconclusive information I conclude that possibly the above mentioned Ella<sup>9</sup> Thacher was the adopted daughter of George<sup>8</sup> Thacher and that she was not of his own blood, but was the daughter of his second wife by her first husband.

WASHINGTON-LANIER FAMILY—A GENEALOGICAL DISCOVERY

CONTRIBUTED BY ATWOOD VIOLETT,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

Albert Welles, on p. 112 of his Pedigree and History of the Washington Family published in 1879 (he then I believe being considered an authority on genealogical matters), made the claim, as had many others at and previous to that time, that Elizabeth Washington—the daughter of John Washington of Westmoreland County, Virginia (who was the great-grandfather of General George Washington)—was the wife of Thomas Lanier, who was the son of Lewis Lanier of Bordeaux, France; and very many of the descendants of the Lanier family in this country were misled by Welles into accepting as true this assumed Lanier marriage with this branch of the Washington family. An ancestress of mine also made the same error in her "Family Tree," and the claim was for many years believed to be correct by her descendants.

This claim was known to Mr. Thomas Forsythe Nelson, a prominent genealogist of Washington, D. C., and he, being aware of my interest in the matter, informed both me and a very prominent resident of New York City, bearing the Lanier name, that this particular Elizabeth Washington (daughter of John Washington of Westmoreland County) did not marry a Lanier, nor for that matter, did she marry anybody; but that the investigations he had already made to some extent established clearly that there was not only another Elizabeth Washington of about the same generation, but also another John Washington of Surry County, Virginia, an individual entirely distinct from the John Washington of Westmoreland County already referred to.

It surely seems astonishing that no one, until Mr. Nelson made his investigations, had ever taken the trouble that he has taken to carefully trace this other Washington line, especially as these two John Washingtons and Lawrence Washington, the brother of the Westmoreland John Washington, had all three emigrated to Virginia about the same time, that is about 1654 to 1657.

Mr. Nelson was then engaged by us to make a thorough investigation of the Washington-Lanier ancestry relative to the intermarrying of the two families in the early Colonial Days of Virginia. His work, involving much time and labor, was completed in 1909; and the results show that he has established by authentic documentary evidence the Lanier family line of descent from the John Washington of Surry County; and that he has positively disproved Albert Welles' claim that the Laniers are descended from John

MAJOR THOMAS MARTIN

Born about 1745; died 1819.

A distinguished officer in the Revolutionary Army, and one of the original members of the Society of the Cincinnati.

Washington of Westmoreland County. In view of the fact that the County Seats of a large part of the State of Virginia were occupied almost continuously by either the Northern or Southern Armies, or by both, during the entire four years of the Civil War, it seems remarkable that sufficient of the Court Records in that state should have been found to enable Mr. Nelson to show by indisputable proofs (wills, marriage contracts, etc.) all that now appears in his report to us of the result of his Washington-Lanier investigation—one copy of which report I have and another is in the possession of the gentleman referred to above. I may further say that each exhibit attached hereto is an exact copy of what appears in this Nelson report; but these exhibits constitute only a very small part of the whole.

It has been my intention, since Mr. Nelson submitted his report, to prepare for publication a resumé of the result of his findings; but, although I know that Mr. Nelson's work was most conscientiously performed, I thought (for his sake as well as for my own) it might be as well to have his work verified by two of the best expert authorities known to me before making such publication. I therefore submitted his report to the Virginia Historical Society at Richmond, Virginia, and later sent the same report to the President of the William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Virginia, an acknowledged expert on such matters, and I quote below from their letters to me concerning the matter submitted to them, viz:—

THE VIRGINIA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Richmond, Va., March 1, 1915.

MR. ATWOOD VIOLETT,
20 Broad Street,
New York.

Dear Sir:—

We have just received your letter and the typewritten copy of the Nelson work of the Surry Washingtons and Laniers. More than 20 years ago I found this line on an examination of the Surry records, and shortly afterwards, Mr. Tyler, President of the William and Mary College, discovered the same facts from these records and published the information in the William and Mary Quarterly. Of course, no one before Mr. Nelson, went so thoroughly into this Lanier family history, and his work is very well done. . . . I cannot see that it requires any other comment than the complimentary one I have expressed.

(Signed) Yours truly,

WM. G. STANNARD, Corresponding Secretary.

Richmond, Va., March 6, 1915.

MR. ATWOOD VIOLETT.

Dear Sir:—

Mr. Nelson states specifically, that the John Washington he writes of is of Surry, and this John Washington is identical with the John Washington of Surry I wrote of. Mr. Tyler and I found our information in exactly the same Surry records used by Mr. Nelson.

Yours truly,

(Signed) W. G. STANNARD.

WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE
Lyon G. Tyler, LL.D., President, Williamsburg, Virginia.

April 8, 1915.

MR. ATWOOD VIOLETT,
New York.

My Dear Sir:—

I thank you very much for the opportunity of examining your Washington papers. I think the work of Mr. Nelson is very carefully done and that his deductions are perfectly sound. . . .

I am, Yours sincerely,

(Signed) LYON G. TYLER.

The following Exhibits are taken from the report of Mr. Nelson and furnish the proof that the Lanier-Washington family connection in this country is derived from John Washington of Surry Co., Virginia, and not from John Washington of Westmoreland Co., Virginia.

EXHIBIT "A." JOHN WASHINGTON OF SURRY COUNTY, VA.

It is now an established fact that, in addition to the John Washington, who, with his brother Lawrence, came to America about 1657 and settled in Westmoreland County, Virginia,—there came another John Washington, quite as early, if not prior to 1657, who settled in Surry County, Virginia. The former John Washington has been fully traced as the great-grandfather of George Washington "the Father of his Country."

John Washington of Surry, so called to distinguish him from the other John Washington of Westmoreland, was in Surry County, Va., as early as "the 15th of Sept., 1658" on which date he subscribed to a contract of marriage with one "Mary Fford, widow," whom it is seen, upon the full record of the marriage contract, had also been the widow Blunt prior to her marriage with Charles Fford; since the marriage contract makes provision for a settlement of personal property placed in the possession of a trustee for the use of "Tho. Blunt, sonne of ye said Mary" and to be delivered to him when he attains the age of ten years.

EXHIBIT "B."—The marriage Contract of John Washington and Mary Fford is recorded in Book No. 1, Page 126, Surry County, Virginia.

EXHIBIT "C."—No record is yet discovered to fix the dates of death of John Washington, or of his wife Mary.

There is a land patent dated 29th April, 1682, of record in the Land Office in Richmond, Virginia, issued to Thomas Blunt and Richard Washington for three hundred and thirty acres of land, which on 17th September, 1686, Thomas Blunt conveys "to my brother Richard Washington all my right title and interest in the patent and the land therein mentioned, three hundred and thirty acres in Surry County, Virginia, dated 29th April, 1682." This fixes the fact that Richard Washington of Surry, was the son of John Washington of Surry, and his wife Mary Fford widow, who had also been the widow Blunt.

EXHIBIT "D."—In 1654 there is a John Washington mentioned in the record of the administration of the estate of Theodore Pargiter in London, in which he is called "cozen John Washington now in the Barbadoes." This John Washington is doubtless the son of Sir John Washington, who married Mary, daughter of Phillip Curtis, who was his first wife, his second wife being Dorothy, daughter of William Pargiter. If it is possible to assemble proof identifying John Washington of Surry in 1658 with the "cozen John Washington now in the Barbadoes" in 1654—four years earlier, the relationship between the two John Washingtons in America would be apparent. They would be first cousins.

There were a large number of persons in the country bordering on and south of James River, prior to 1700, who came into Virginia evidently from the Barbadoes. No systematic examination of records known to exist there has ever been made with a view of gathering historical data from that source bearing upon the history of the people who emigrated to and settled in Virginia from the Barbadoes. It is a virgin field for very important historical research.

EXHIBIT "E."—Relative to Richard Washington, son of John Washington and his wife Mary(——) Blunt-Fford, widow first of—— Blunt; and, at time of her marriage to John Washington, widow of Charles Fford.

The first mention of Richard Washington of Surry which we find in the records, is on page 348 Surry County Order Book 1671-1690 as follows:

"At a Court held at Southwark, County of Surry, 6th July, 1681—Richard Washington being of full age, this day appeared in Court and signed a deed for a parcel of land transferred to Robert Ruffin, administrator of the Estate of John Goring, deceased." The Order Book further says "Ordered to be placed on record," but search fails to discover this deed of record, hence we can only surmise that the transaction covers property very likely that belonged to his father John Washington of Surry and which he, Richard, as the heir at law, could only legally transfer when of "full age." It will thus be seen that the son of John Washington, Richard Washington was of full age prior to 6th July, 1681, and was born shortly prior to the same date 21 years before, or about July in 1660, and a year and a half after the date of the marriage contract between John Washington and Mary Fford, widow. From this time on the name of Richard Washington, as a party to numerous transactions, shows that he became prominent in both a public and private capacity.

EXHIBIT "F."—Richard Washington and Elizabeth Jordan, his wife, both lived their entire lives in Surry County, Virginia and in the parishes as they may have been constituted on various dates, viz.: "Ye Upper Parish," "Southwark Parish," etc. They raised a family of twelve children, all of whom perhaps are named in the wills of their father and mother.

The inventory and appraisement of his Estate is recorded in Surry County Book 1715-1736, pages 593-4-5, and from it we infer that he was a merchant. His estate was a very large one for that day. His wife survived him ten years.

The mention of Sampson Lanier and Robert Lanier, each of whom married a daughter of Richard Washington and Elizabeth Jordan, will be conclusive enough to set at rest forever any former statement or belief that in any way differs therefrom and by whomsoever made, as to the connection between the Washington and Lanier families of this period of Virginia History.

EXHIBIT "G."—Will of Richard Washington, which is recorded in the Surry County Clerks' Office in Deed Book No. 1, p. 583.

He bequeathed land and slaves to each of his twelve children. His daughter Elizabeth, who married Sampson Lanier, he mentions as follows:—

"I give to my daughter Elizabeth Lanier, two hundred acres of land lying on the west side of the Mill Branch that is the land whereon she now lives, the said land I give to my said daughter and to her heirs forever, I also give her and her heirs privilege to get any sort of timber out of any part of the swamp for the plantation use.

I give to my son in law, Sampson Lanier, two hundred acres of land lying in the Ile of White County, on the East side of the flaggy run bounding on the West side of Croft Branch running up to Robert Rixes line the which parcel of land I give to my said son in law Sampson Lanier and to his heirs forever."

EXHIBIT "H."—Sampson Lanier, son of John Lanier and his wife.

Sampson Lanier first appears in contemporary record as "a tithable in the upper end of Surry County above the Stony Run" in 1701. This would place the date of his birth at least twenty-one years before that date.

The date of Sampson Lanier's marriage with Elizabeth Washington is not known but at least six of their children were born before 9th November, 1724, the date of Richard Washington's will, who evidently mentioned therein all the grandsons he had at that time.

Sampson Lanier had a warrant for one hundred and fifty acres of land from the Land Office 12th July, 1718, (later within the borders of Brunswick County) which is probably the same that he leaves in his will to his son Thomas.

Two hundred acres, which he received by the will of his father-in-law Richard Washington, located in the Isle of Wight County, Virginia, he sold 23rd March, 1734, to the Vestry of Nottaway Parish. This tract is described as part of twelve hundred and forty acres by Richard Washington, 16th December, 1714.

THE WILL OF SAMPSON LANIER is recorded in Brunswick County, Virginia, Will Book 2, page 52.

The children of Sampson Lanier and Elizabeth Washington are therein named,—seven in all. The fourth child was Sampson, born about 1712, who married Elizabeth Chamberlin.

EXHIBIT "I."—JOHN LANIER.

John Lanier, whose son Sampson Lanier, married Elizabeth Washington, had five children; he was born before 1655 and died in 1719, in Prince George County, Virginia.

The earliest mention of the name of Lanier in Virginia, that has come to the notice at this time is as follows: "In April, 1676, John Lanier and John Woodlief were sent by men of Charles City County (afterwards Prince George County) to ask Sir William Berkeley for a commission to go against the Indians. This was the Indian outbreak that preceded the famous Bacon's Rebellion. It will be a reasonable claim that John Lanier was at this time at least twenty-five years of age, and from the fact that we find a sword in the inventory of his estate forty-three years later, it is reasonable to presume that he was prominent in affairs, even as a young man.

The name Lanier in Virginia begins with this John Lanier, and it is from his four sons and their fifteen known children (his grandsons) that all bearing the name Lanier in America, have sprung, prior at least, to the period of the American Revolution.

The name Lanier was also found in the Barbadoes. Hotten in his original lists of persons of quality who were emigrants from Great Britain to the American plantations between 1600 and 1700, record that Clement Lanier, son of Robert and Rebecca Lanier, was baptized 21st August, 1678, in the Parish of St. Michaels, Barbadoes. He also shows that Robert Lanier and wife with three hired servants were among the inhabitants of the town of St. Michaels, Barbadoes, in 1680.

EXHIBIT "J."—Will of John Lanier is recorded in Prince George County, Virginia, Vol. 1, p. 304.

He had six children, and all named in his will, with a bequest to each.

EXHIBIT "K."—From the first home in America of the original emigrant John Lanier, whose home was located perhaps upon, certainly not far from the southern banks of the James River at a point only a few miles above the first settlement at Jamestown,—his grandchildren carried the name westward into Sussex, Brunswick and other counties of southern Virginia, and into western North Carolina. Others can be traced down the Blackwater River into eastern North Carolina, and thence the more restless united with other kin-folk further west and pushed on together into the then American wilderness to find homes in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky. In every County and State where the Lanier name has been carried is also found the name Washington carried there by the male issue of Richard Washington and his wife Elizabeth Jordan.

EXHIBIT "L,"—There are fifteen known male descendants—grandsons—of the emigrant John Lanier, traced into this third generation, all of whom were born between 1700 and 1730. These fifteen persons would therefore, be brothers to all in their own family group and cousins to all the others. It is from these in this generation and born, therefore, between 1700 and 1730, that all bearing the name of Lanier in America, are derived.

EXHIBIT "M,"—Sampson Lanier, (son of Sampson Lanier and Elizabeth Washington) who married Elizabeth Chamberlin.

The date of birth of Sampson Lanier can only be given approximately and based upon calculation from other known dates applicable to his life. This date is not long prior to 1712. His first land warrant is dated 17th March, 1736, at which time he was doubtless "of age." It does not appear that he married as early as was customary at that time, as his marriage with Elizabeth Chamberlin, daughter of Samuel Chamberlin, took place about 1742, hence all of their children were born between this time and Sampson Lanier's death in 1757. He is referred to as Sampson Lanier, Vestryman of the Parish of Saint Andrews, one of the Gentlemen Justices of the County Court and High Sheriff of Brunswick County, Virginia.

He left no will and his estate was settled by administration as is shown in the records quoted from the Court Order Book of Brunswick County as follows: "2nd September, 1757, at a Court held in Brunswick County, Virginia,—on motion of Elizabeth Lanier, widow of Sampson Lanier, deceased, who made oath according to law, administration of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of the said Sampson, is granted her.

"23 July, 1759, at a Court held in Brunswick County, Virginia,—Report of the Commissioner assigning dower to Elizabeth, widow of Sampson Lanier, returned and ordered to be received."

"5th September, 1759, settlement of accounts in the Orphans' Court, Brunswick County, Virginia, in which Lemuel Lanier was appointed guardian of Burwell Lanier, Buckner Lanier, Winnifred Lanier, Martha Lanier and Anne (Nancy) Lanier, orphans of Sampson Lanier."

EXHIBIT "N,"—Will of Samuel Chamberlin, recorded in Brunswick County, Virginia, Will Book 3, Page 84.

" . . . . I give and bequeath to my daughter Elizabeth Lanier and to her heirs, all that tract and plantation I now live on. I likewise give and bequeath unto my said daughter Elizabeth all the remainder of my estate be it of what sort soever real and personal, to her and her heirs forever.

And I do desire that my Estate may not be appraised. And lastly I do constitute and appoint my son in law Sampson Lanier to be whole and sole Executor of this my last will and Testament, hereby revoking and making void all other wills by me in any manner heretofore made."

This will was presented in Court and made oath to by Sampson Lanier, the Executor.

EXHIBIT "O,"—Will of Henry Ledbetter, recorded in Will Book No. 3, on page 13, Brunswick County, Virginia.

" . . . . I give and bequeath to my son Drury Ledbetter, one negro boy named Daniel, and one negro girl named Annaca, with all her increases to him and his heirs or assigns forever. I also give him two hundred and four acres of land by patent whereon I now live, and a survey of four hundred acres joining to it, to him and his heirs or assigns forever, leaving my loving wife Edith Ledbetter the use of it during her life or widowhood."

Henry Ledbetter married Edith Williamson. Had four children; one daughter and three sons, all mentioned in this will. One of the sons, Col. Drury Ledbetter, as shown, married Winnifred Lanier, the daughter of Sampson Lanier and Elizabeth Chamberlin.

The preceding Exhibits show one line of the Washington-Lanier Ancestry as established by the report of Mr. Nelson, down to and including the marriage of Winnifred Lanier to Col. Drury Ledbetter. The records of my family (i. e. the Violet family) showing this connection have always been complete, so there was no necessity for Mr. Nelson to pursue his investigations beyond that point.

One of the children of Colonel Drury and Winnifred (Lanier) Ledbetter was Susan Washington Ledbetter. She married Major Thomas Martin of Albermarle County, Virginia, a distinguished officer of the Revolution.

"Major Martin was a member of the Ninth Virginia Continental Infantry, and at the battle of Germantown, October 4th, 1777, the Ninth Virginia was actively engaged, and in the dense fog, pressed forward so vigorously, that when the fog suddenly lifted, it found itself completely surrounded by General William Howe's army, and was captured to a man."

Lieutenant Martin (as he was then) was first sent to Philadelphia, and then to confinement in the Provost—the old Hall of Records, City Hall Park, New York (demolished in 1903, at the time of building the subway station there).

He was an original member of the Society of The Cincinnati, in the State of Virginia."

The above is a part of the record furnished me many years ago, by Colonel Asa Bird Gardiner, Secretary-General of "The Cincinnati," in which Society I represent Major Martin as his eldest male surviving descendant.

In 1803, an army post was first established at Newport Barracks, Kentucky, opposite Cincinnati, and Major Martin became its first Commandant, and remained so until his death in 1819. There is in my possession one of three portraits of Major Martin painted while in command of Newport Barracks. It is one of the by no means numerous portraits of original members of "The Cincinnati," and the badge of the Society, appears conspicuously in the lapel of the coat. (See portrait.). It was at Newport Barracks that the daughter of Major Martin and Susan Ledbetter—Eliza Washington Martin—married Captain Richard Oldham, of Kentucky,—and they were my grandparents. Captain Oldham's regiment was stationed there, and in 1808—five years following the Louisiana Purchase—the entire garrison was ordered to New Orleans. The only water transportation at that time was by flat boat, and in my young days, I never tired listening to the interesting events related by my grandmother of this many weeks' voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers (which voyage she said was made with comfort and enjoyment), and also the description of the stirring events of the return trip overland, because of being constantly in contact with various tribes of the Indian Nations.

A part of the army service of Captain Oldham, is the following, taken from the War Department records at Washington:

"Richard Oldham, of Kentucky, was appointed 1st Lieutenant, 7th U. S. Infantry, May 3, 1808; was promoted to be Captain December 1, 1809, and to be Major, April 9th, 1814, and was honorably discharged, on the reduction of the Army, June 15th, 1815. He served with his regiment in Louisiana from June, 1808, to May, 1811; on leave and on detached duty at Newport Barracks and at Louisville, Ky., to December, 1811, when he returned to duty with his regiment in Louisiana, and served with it until June, 1814.

On the death of Major Martin (his father-in-law), Major Oldham was appointed to succeed him in command at Newport Barracks on May 9th, 1819, and was honorably discharged as such June 1st, 1821.

• (Signed) W. M. Carter,
Ass't Adjutant General."

One of the children of Richard Oldham and Eliza Martin was my mother, Penelope Abigail Oldham, who married William Alfred Violet, of Alexandria, Virginia, who in early manhood removed to Pittsburgh, Penn., where he secured employment with the firm of Atwood, Jones & Co., the then leading iron house West of the Alleghenies, and my father was sent by them, to New Orleans, in the year 1838, as their representative there. A few years later, 1842, he entered into business on his own account, as W. A. Violet & Company, and became one of the most eminent and successful merchants of the City of his adoption.

Richard Oldham, was the son of Colonel William and Penelope (Pope) Oldham of Kentucky. Colonel Oldham was of Nelson's Independent Rifle Company, and he is to-day represented in the Rhode Island State Society of The Cincinnati, through a great grandson. In 1788, he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the Kentucky Militia, and three years later was killed while in command of his regiment, at St. Clair's Defeat, near Fort Recovery, Ohio, December 4th, 1791—one of the many engagements of the several French-Indian Wars of the Far West, of those days.

WASHINGTON-LANIER ANCESTRY OF ATWOOD VIOLETT, ESQ.

The first five generations established by the report of Mr. Nelson and rest of the line established by family and official records as here above set forth, viz:—

1. John Washington married Mary Ford, of Surry County, Virginia.
2. Their son Richard Washington, married Elizabeth Jordan, of Virginia.

3. Their daughter Elizabeth Washington, married Sampson Lanier, of Virginia.
4. Their son Sampson Lanier, married Elizabeth Chamberlin, of Virginia.
5. Their daughter Winnifred Lanier, married Col. Drury Ledbetter, of Virginia.
6. Their daughter Susan Washington Ledbetter, married Major Thomas Martin, of Virginia.
7. Their daughter Eliza Washington Martin, married Captain Richard Oldham, of Kentucky.
8. Their daughter Penelope Abigail Oldham, married William Alfred Violet, of Virginia.
9. Their son Atwood Violet, married Olga Quentell, of New Orleans.

The report of Mr. Nelson also corrects the Lanier line as set forth by Albert Welles in his Pedigree and History of the Washington Family, p. 112.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES FROM THE HIGH COURT OF ADMIRALTY EXAMINATIONS.

By J. R. HUTCHINSON.

Richard Hooper, of Wapping, sailor, deposes 15 Sept., 1621, on behalf of Francis and Thomas Challoner, creditors of David Middleton, that when in March, 1619, the Jonathan, of London, lay in the Downs bound for Virginia, David Middleton and his two sons, Lewknor and Arthur Middleton, were, by order of the Virginia Company, put on board her to be transported to that plantation. On the voyage out David Middleton died.

Samuel Moll, of Rochell, in France, sed moram trahens in Virginia, chirurgion, aged 41, deposes 11 June, 1623, that he does not know Hester Hamor, but in January last there was a coffin made to bury the dead corps of one Thomas Hamor, which departed this life at James Town in Virginia, by one Nathaniel Jeffreys, a joyner dwelling there, who carried the coffin to the house where Hamor lay dead and put his dead corps into the same, and that afternoon the coffin, with the dead corps in it, was carried to the common burying ground and there interred. This he knows because he was then one of the surgeons of James Town and lived in the house with the joyner. Denis Davies of St. Giles Cripplegate, barber-surgeon, aged 55, who lay sick at James Town when Hamor died, corroborates; and Thomas Edwards of St. Mary Aldermay, salter, aged 34, deposes 19 June, 1623, that Thomas Hamor died in the house of his brother, Capt. Ralph Hamor.

Stephen Bolton of Wapping, sailor, aged 40, deposes 12 May, 1625, that William Edwards and James Boydon went sailors to New England in the Unity, and remained there. Tobias White of Ratcliffe, master of the Unity, aged 35, deposes 13 May, 1625, that the Unity arrived at New England 25 June, 1624. In Boydon's room he brought home to England one Gregory Castle, a lusty young man.

Thomas Piddock of London, merchant, aged 27, deposes 2 May, 1628, that in June and July, 1624, this examinee was at Menhagen in New England, with Edmund Dockett and William Pomfrett, as factors for Abraham Jennings of Plymouth, and Ambrose Jennings and William Crosse of London, merchants.

Robert Penn, of Virginia, planter, aged 25, deposes 6 May, 1629, concerning the ship George, consigned to William Ewens, at his plantation in Virginia.

Agnes Kempton, of St. George's, Southwark, widow, deposes 6 Nov., 1629, that the 46 hogsheads of tobacco laden at Virginia in the Anne of London, Peter Andrewes master, and consigned unto the examinee by William Perrye, overseer of the last will of her son John Rilye, deceased, did belong to and were laden for the account of her son and his partners, and that this examinee has no interest therein but as executrix of her son's will. Isabell, wife of William Perry, merchant of Virginia, aged 40, deposes 26 August, 1629, that about Christmas last one John Rily of London, merchant, died in the house of examinee's husband in Virginia. Amongst his effects was found a writing of co-partnership, dated 25 July, 1627, and signed by William Crowther, Charles Whichcot and John Rily.

Isaac Manstridge, of London, grocer, deposes 6 August, 1629, that about a year since he went purser in the Truelove, Thomas Gibbs captain, on a voyage to Virginia. There went in the same ship one Christopher Young, who had bound himself apprentice to Gibbs. Desiring to stay in Virginia, Young entreated Gibbs to turn him over to Thomas Burbage, an English merchant who went out in the same ship as factor for some London merchants, which Gibbs did.

George Preston of St. Botolph's, Aldgate, cooper, aged 45, deposes 16 Nov., 1622, that the letter beginning "Uncle Preston, my best love," was brought from Virginia by a passenger, one Goodwife Moyses, who came home in (Edmund) Gardiner's ship the Seaflower, which letter was sent to this examinee, from Virginia by one Maurice Thompson and is all written in his own hand. Thompson did write other letters at the same time to his father, dwelling in Hartfordshire. Richard Grove of St. Olave's, Southwark, navigator, aged 38, deposes 10 Dec. 1633, that Mr. George Thompson and his brother Maurice Thompson have traded to Virginia for many years.

William Tucker of Redriffe co. Surrey, Esq., aged 44, deposes 17 June, 1634, that he hath used to trade and send goods and passengers to Virginia these three and twenty years, and within that time hath lived in Virginia and is one of the Council there. He and his father before him were (Customs) searchers at Gravesend.

William Pearse of Boston in New England, sailor, aged 43, deposes 14 June, 1635, that, having known Sir Richard Saltinstall these six years, he was requested by Mr. John Humphreys, one of Sir Richard's partners, to look out for and buy a ship for a voyage to New England. With the advice of John Taylor, shipwright, he bought the Thomas afterwards the Richard of London, Nicholas Trerise, master. There went in her 20 passengers, who were to pay for their passage five pounds a head.

John Gibbs, dwelling at Floure de Hundred in Virginia, planter, aged 35, deposes 16 June, 1635, that on the 26th of December last, he being then at a place called Waynoke in Virginia, at the house of William Emmerson a planter there, the said Emmerson did deliver unto him a schedule of tobaccoes to be shipped on board the Robert Bonadventure of London, Richard Gilson master, then lying at Point Comfort, for the account of Mr. Lewis Evans of Woodstreet, London, merchant. The schedule was written by Arthur Harwood, a kinsman of Emmerson, and a duplicate thereof was sent into England by one Courtney, who returned passenger in the said ship, this examinee returning in the Defence.*

Hugh Bullocke of All Saints Barking, Esq., aged 59, deposes 23 Jan., 1635-6, that he came passenger in the John and Dorothy from Virginia, where he is one of the Council of State.

Ambrose Calthorp of St. Dunstan's in the West, gent, aged 33, deposes 4 March, 1635-6, that he came passenger from Virginia in the John and Dorothy. He further deposes 16 May, 1636, that on the 11th of January last he had in the ship Constance, then and now delayed at Ilfracombe in her voyage to Virginia, four servants, namely, William Gillam, John Elwoode, Thomas Hudson and William Hulett, of whom Hulett and Hudson have since run.

William Fitter of Mariland in the West Indies, gent, aged 38, deposes 7 April, 1636, that in June or July last was three years, the Dove pinnace was set out from London on a voyage to Maryland by Cecil, Lord Baltimore. Leonard Calvert, governor of Maryland, and Jeremy Hawley and Thomas Cornwallis, two of the commissioners for that plantation, went out in the Ark, which accompanied the pinnace. Examinee was formerly servant to the Lady Stafford at Stafford Castle in Staffordshire, then servant to Capt. Thomas Cornwallis, and is now lodging with Mistress Cornwallis at the captain's house in Holborn.

Sir John Harvy, Knt., governor of the colony of Virginia, deposes 9 May, 1636, aged 54.

Richard Preice of St. Mary Bowe, scrivener, aged 29, deposes 6 May, 1636, that about October last, at the request of John Smyth, citizen and draper of London, dwelling in the parish of St. Botolph without Aldgate, he did pay unto John Thierrye of London, merchant, at his house in Turne Wheele Lane, the sum of twelve pounds for the passage of John Cooke and Henry Johnson, covenant servants of Smyth, to Virginia.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

BY WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD.

Charles Francis Adams, second of the name, was born in Boston, May 27, 1835, the eldest son of Charles Francis Adams and Abigail Brown (Brooks) Adams. Heredity would account for much in his life, for his grandfather, John Quincy Adams, a man of the most active mind and purest motives, was at that time not far in that congressional service which gives him his highest title to fame, living until 1848, and leaving a distinct impression on his grandson. The boy felt the influence of a tradition which had grown up around his forebears and seemed to destine him for public life. The great triumph of his father in diplomacy, at a time and under conditions when the highest qualities alone could win success, was yet to come; but his position and participation in public affairs gave the son opportunity and training the effect of which influenced him throughout a long and singularly active career. He was by inheritance entitled to a certain standing among his contemporaries; by his own development and qualities he greatly widened his life, and, without the support of public office or political following, he was better and more favorably known in scholarly circles than almost any man of his day. This was because he was no specialist.

His school days were passed in Boston or Quincy, and did not differ materially from those of his contemporaries. Private schools, a short run at a boarding-school at Hingham, long remembered for the sense of freedom it gave, the usual attendance at the Boston Latin School, and finally Harvard College, completed the round then and still regarded as the necessary steps to awaken in youth a love of letters or a capacity for encountering the problems of life. Young Adams did not claim to possess unusual qualities of mind, nor was he conscious of having so definite a bent as to lead him to specialize early. Graduating in 1856, he took to law, but not seriously or systematically. Entering the office of Dana and Parker, he had a short period of such an experience as is most valuable to a boy whose abilities are yet dormant. Judge Parker was known for his rarely fine qualities, and Richard Henry Dana was fortunate in having his one-time law student for a biographer. The experience proved a happy one, although not appreciated at its worth at the time. In May, 1858, Adams was admitted to the Bar. It cannot be said that he ever really practised, and he had the same dislike to the law as possessed his grandfather.

This proved a fortunate circumstance, for it left him more free to respond to the intellectual influences of the time. He had written essays in criticism while at college, and read much. His surroundings brought him into touch with the more liberal political leaders in Massachusetts — men like Sumner and Palfrey, who were questioning the policies of existing parties and laying plans for a free republic. Young Adams was an interested listener and participant in the gatherings at his father's table, and without a definite idea of becoming a public man, he gained a knowledge of men and measures which bore fruit later. He tried his hand at writing for newspapers and magazines, and with success. His father was elected to Congress, and at once took a position of influence in that body, forming connections which led to his appointment, in 1861, to the English mission. The son shared in this political advancement indirectly; he felt the unrest of the day, both in American politics and the scientific world. Darwinism went far to establish an almost universal questioning of facts and theories, and Mr. Adams answered readily to the movement. Throughout life he questioned, seeking that answer which could give certainty or inspire confidence.

While in this period of formation in character the Civil War brought him face to face with realities. He had been a member of the Massachusetts Volunteers, and many of his associates at once entered the regular service. He did not, but the call became insistent, and in December, 1861, he received a commission as First Lieutenant in the First Massachusetts cavalry. Serving in South Carolina and Virginia in that regiment he became Captain in October, 1862, was chief of squadron through the campaign of Gettysburg and in the advance upon Richmond, and in the autumn of 1864 was transferred as Lieutenant-Colonel to the Fifth Massachusetts Cavalry (colored). Affected in health he was ordered home in 1865; and while there was offered by Major-General Humphreys, then assuming command of the Third Army Corps, the position of Assistant Inspector-General on the staff of that corps. Believing that his duty lay with the Fifth Massachusetts Cavalry, of which he had first become Colonel, Mr. Adams declined this tempting and honorable offer. He entered Richmond at the head of his regiment, and in command of a separate detachment, in April, 1865, but his health had so broken down as to oblige him to resign. He was mustered out of the service in July, 1865, receiving subsequently the brevet of Brigadier-General.

This experience produced a lasting effect upon him, and military questions in history attracted his attention. Modest as to his own service, he applied his knowledge of army life and military strategy to such widely separated events as Salamis and Bunker Hill. He counted it as one of the strongest influences upon his development, and he returned to Boston more dissatisfied than ever with his law prospects, and with a much widened horizon of thought and association. He wrote on public questions, visited Europe and read a little in history. With his brother, Henry Adams, he began to study the railroad problem, then in an acute stage of disorder, with corruption preying upon the public and depriving it of this most essential instrument of national development. His fearless arraignment of dishonesty, his well-ordered plans for betterment, and his definite reforms for future operation, brought a public recognition which led to his appointment to the first really effective State Board of Railroad Commissioners, that of Massachusetts, created in 1869. For ten years Mr. Adams was on this commission, and for seven years he was its chairman, writing its reports and establishing its position on such a plane as to have made it the model of similar commissions, State and national. His work on railroads attracted wide attention, and in 1877 he was appointed a government director on the Board of the Union Pacific Railroad, and in 1879 a member of the Board of Arbitration of the Trunk Line Railroad Organization, a Board concerned in the regulation of freight rates. In this year he retired from the State Board, declining a re-election, and five years later, in 1884, he ceased to be a member of the Board of Arbitration, becoming President of the Union Pacific Railroad. He introduced order and system into this corporation at a time when it faced disaster, and insisted upon full publicity and honest management when it had suffered from the manipulation of speculators and wreckers. That he did not accomplish all that was necessary, or even desirable, was due not to himself but to outside influence, and especially the attitude of the United States Government and competing lines, which made a settlement of the debt due by the road to the Government difficult. In 1890 Mr. Adams retired from the railroad somewhat dissatisfied by his failure to accomplish what was almost the impossible, and more instructed and disillusioned by the opposition he had encountered. That his confidence in the future of the road was not misplaced, its subsequent history proved, and to that success the administration of Mr. Adams contributed more than was then recognized.

In this period of his life Mr. Adams was not absorbed by his business cares, and gave much attention to educational questions. In 1880 he received an appointment on the State Board of Education, but held it for only a year. Even this short time enabled him to formulate his conception of what the common schools should teach, and he embodied his ideas in an essay read before the National Educational Society of Chautauqua. It gave him a preparation for a wider field of school activities, for he served as an Overseer of Harvard University from 1882 to 1907. With positive convictions of what the College and University should offer, he gave much time and thought to special investigations. The notable report on the English department led to important changes in the college course in English, and to the transfer of instruction in elementary English to the preparatory schools. He gave the results of his own experience and his investigations in three addresses delivered before the  $\phi \beta \kappa$ , the first of which—A College Fetish—attracted wide attention, and stirred up much contention in educational circles. His later suggestion of requiring only one classical language in entrance examination was adopted in Cambridge. The part he took in reorganizing the school system at Quincy, producing what became generally known as the "Quincy School System," has been followed since in many localities. It was applying business principles to the common school.

It was in middle life that Mr. Adams gave some time and attention to historical matters, the beginnings of labors by which he will best be known among scholars. His father had edited the works of "John Adams," and the "Memoirs of John Quincy Adams," besides other volumes rich in original material or individual comment. The son, without being conscious of it, had a decided aptitude for historical investigation and expression. As early as 1869 he had delivered an oration on July 4th at Quincy, and again in Boston, in 1872. An invitation to give the address at the 250th celebration at Weymouth, in 1874, opened the door of opportunity. He began to study the early history of the settlements on Massachusetts Bay, and possessed of great industry, a finished and effective style, and a happy sense of humor, he gave to the region a romantic interest based upon actual occurrences equal to its interest growing out of tradition. He edited for the Prince Society Thomas Morton's "New English Canaan," (1883), the record of the chief character of the unfortunate settlement at Wessagusset; the Winthrop-Weld tract on "Anti-nomianism in New England" (1894), the story of John Wheelwright and Ann Hutchinson. Both volumes contain copious notes, and so thoroughly edited as to leave but little call for future reprintings. This excursion in local history yielded two volumes — "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History" (1892), a model of what can be made of local history by one competent to deal with it. For it is really a history of Quincy, Massachusetts, and relates the events in so vivid a manner as to make the history of a town a part of the history of a Commonwealth, and even of the nation.

Mr. Adams had now found his true activity. Elected a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society in 1875, his enthusiasm and qualities made themselves felt in that conservative institution. On his retirement from railroad administration in 1890 he became the Vice-President of the Society, and in 1895 the President, holding that position until his death. In forty years of membership he had seen more than one generation come and go; in his term as President he transformed the Society from a private and exclusive to an active and aggressive body. He led it from the somewhat dry and exhausted field of colonial and revolutionary history into the more modern events of the current time. The published "Proceedings" of the Society during his presidency express this change, and to him is in large measure due the standing which the publications of the Society now hold. Mr. Adams brought to the service of the Society an historical instinct and an intellectual energy that wrought upon others; and in broadening the conditions of the membership he enriched the Society by insisting that only the deserving should be recognized. His own contributions were many. The "Life of Richard Henry Dana," (1890), in many respects the best among American biographies, grew out of a memoir of Dana as a member of the Society. The "Life of Charles Francis Adams" (1900), likewise owed its existence to the same reason. He read or submitted papers on the military strategy of the War of Independence and the Civil War, and he drew materials from the unequalled family papers which have been so carefully preserved. His annual summary of contemporary history, written in a strictly non-partisan spirit, was an event eagerly to be looked for; while his fund of story and his knowledge of history made him a presiding officer who could successfully conduct a meeting without a prepared programme. He gave liberally to the Society, and left it on a plane of prosperity which the older members would not have deemed possible.

Outside of the Society he delivered many addresses on historical questions — so many as to defy enumeration. I give the titles of some merely to indicate how catholic his taste was. His lectures before Harvard University on "Massachusetts; its Historians and History" (1893), was an arraignment of the filio-pietistic school of writers who had nearly succeeded in reducing history to a form of family worship. His address as President of the American Historical Association was a plea for giving more attention to the future, to interpreting the events of today, and the possibilities of the future. He gave vigorous expression to his views on collecting historical material in his address at the dedication of the building of the Wisconsin State Historical Society. At Oxford, England, he delivered four lectures, printed as "Transatlantic Historical Solidarity," intended to arouse interest in historical development common to the two nations. In paying to Robert E. Lee a tribute which seemed to many at the time pitched in too high a key of praise, he did much to smooth away the remains of hostile feeling between the two sections of the country, and gave an appreciation of the great Confederate leader which has become accepted as none too favorable or extravagant. His collected essays, "Studies: Military and Diplomatic" (1911), largely grew out of studies which he made for an intended life of his father, a work left uncompleted, but in a form which may permit its continuation and publication.

From his writings the character of Mr. Adams may be drawn. His clear and vigorous style leaves no doubt on his convictions, and the same quality carried into political discussion made his position as a fearless and independent thinker and controversialist. His breadth of view and suggestive interpretation gave an unusual interest to what he spoke or wrote. Eminently fair and even moderate in his judgments he enjoyed social intercourse and the contest of good conversation. He was liberal in aiding others, and sacrificed his own interests when they interfered with the plans of others. For the young writer he had great sympathy, and his many acts of aid in advice and means remain unrecorded. Those who were fortunate enough to walk in close communion with him recognized the warm heart, the unconquered shyness and the wish to do what in him lay to aid any good cause brought to his notice.

Mr. Adams died in Washington, March 20, 1915, after a short illness.

He left with the Massachusetts Historical Society an "Autobiography" as frank and penetrating in measuring himself as others, the review of a most active life, social and intellectual. This will be published shortly, and renders unnecessary an attempt to compress into a few paragraphs the career of a man to be counted among the "first citizens of the land" as an example of tireless energy, directed by intelligent inquiry and fruitful results.

ADDENDA TO EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, contributed by Edward H. Leggett, Esq., of Albany (No. 529):

Leggetts in England.

Will of Margaret Barker, of Nayland, Suffolk, Eng., proved 1589, mentions her daughter Margaret Legatt, Thomas Legat of Sutton in Hornchurch, Essex, gent., and her grandchild, Jane Legate.

Will of Robert Barker, Senior, of Nayland, Suffolk, oadsetter, proved March 7, 1617, mentions John Leggate's two children by his late daughter Bridget Barker.

Will of John Barker of Nayland, Suffolk, clothier, proved 1588, mentions son Legate.

Will of William Littlebury, of Dedham, Essex, proved 1595, refers to will of Robert Legate, late of Ipswich.

Will of Rose, widow of William Pinchon, Esq., of Writtell, Essex, proved 1599, appoints her brother-in-law John Legatt executor. John Legatt and Edward Hunt witnesses.

Will of widow Johanna Proctor, of London, proved 1661, mentions Mr. Richard Legate. (Genealogical Gleanings in England, by H. F. Waters.)

John Leggett of Barbadoes, later of Exeter, N. H.

John Leggat, Samuel Richardson, Lewis Morris, — Phillips, — Needham and other New England names are found as inhabitants of Barbadoes, W. I., in 1638, who then possessed over 10 acres of land. (Narragansett Hist. Register, v. 3, p. 282.)

I believe that John Legate of Barbadoes, 1638, removed to Exeter and Hampton, N. H., and that he was the father of Gabriel Leggett of Westchester, and of John Leggett, the mariner, of Westchester. The earliest record I have of the Leggetts in Westchester is the following: On May 13, 1675, John Legett was subscribing witness to a power of attorney by Thomas Hart of London (of Barbadoes in 1666), merchant, to Robert Story, of New York, merchant, and John Boone (Bowne?) of Long Island, planter, in relation to his, Hart's, lands and property in Long Island and elsewhere in New England. (Recorded, Sec'y State's Office, Albany. Book I of Deeds, p. 32.)

It is possible that Gabriel Leggett was born in the Barbadoes and not in England, as John Leggett was a landowner there in 1638, and there was much commerce and travel between Barbadoes and America, New York in particular, in the 17th century.

The following notes taken from records in the Secretary of State's Office, Albany, are interesting in this connection.

Sept. 18, 1651. Thomas Modiford, Esq., of the Island of Barbadoes, William Sharp of Southampton (Eng.?) merchant, and John Richbell of Charlestown (Mass.), New England, merchant, agree to purchase land near the most southwesterly settlements of New England. Same to be stocked with workers, servants, cattle, etc., and to be managed by Richbell.

There follows a deed of land at Oyster Bay, Long Island, dated May 12, 1658 by John Dickinson and others to the above, upon condition that grantees people the land. Endorsed below is the following: "Oyster Bay ye 10th of 8th, 1662: This Bill of Sale within is owned by me to be void and of no effect, for want of pformance according to agreement. As witness my hand. (Signed) John Richbell."

There follows a letter of instructions to John Richbell from his partners Modiford and Sharp, dated Barbadoes, Sept. 18, 1657, together with record of purchase by John Richbell of lands in Town of Mamaroneck from the Indians in 1661, upon which lands Richbell settled. As the traditional record is that Gabriel Leggett was born in 1635 and settled in Westchester in 1661, I believe that he was imported by Richbell either from Barbadoes or from Exeter or Hampton.

Deed of Quit Claim dated Nov. 13, 1667, from Richard Russell of Charlestown, Mass., and Joanna Davison, widow and adm. of Nicholas Davison, late of same place, to John Richbell. Recites that John Richbell had sold certain lands at Oyster Bay, at Horse Neck, late in the possession of Andrews, who died at Charlestown prior to April, 1660, to Nathaniel Sylvester, Lattimer Sampson and partners, and quit claims all interest in said lands.

Warranty Deed, dated Nov. 17, 1666, from John Richbell, late of Oyster Bay, L. I., and Ann, his wife, to Nathaniel Sylvester, of Shelter Island, Thomas Hart, of Barbadoes, and Latimer Sampson, of Long Island. Conveys property in Oyster Bay adjoining that of Capt. John Underhill, Matthias Harvey and Anthony Wright. John Youngs, subscribing witness.

A number of other deeds, from John Paine, of Southold to Nathaniel Sylvester, of Shelter Island; Samuel Edsall, of Bergen, N. J., to Col. Lewis Morris, of Barbadoes (payment made by Richard Morris of New York), of land on Bronck's Neck, on east side of the river; power of attorney of Capt. Richard Morris of New York, to Nathaniel Sylvester, for himself and his brother, Col. Lewis Morris, of Island of Barbadoes.

Power of Attorney, dated March 27, 1675, for Thomas Hart, of London, to his friends Robert Story of New York, and John Boone (Bowne ?) of Long Island. Witnessed by John Smith, his servant, John Leggett, and Peter Stringer. This Thomas Hart was living in Barbadoes in 1666. (See Warranty Deed above.)

John Leggett at Exeter. Records of Court held at Ipswich, Mass., 30:1:1647. John Legate petitions in behalf of his kinsman Samuel Fogg v. Will. Fuller of Hampton. The genealogy of the Fogg family states that Samuel Fogg came from England about 1638 and settled at Hampton. There is a tradition that he was a brother to Ralph Fogg of Salem, Mass., who had a son Ezekiel, bp. 1638. Note that Rev. Ezekiel Fodge was minister of the church in Westchester, 1674.

John Leggett, the mariner. Deed of Sale, dated Nov. 30, 1676, from John Leggett of Westchester, to Jacob Leysler of New York. Sells his interest in hull of pinck or ship called the Susannah, of New York, "now lying in the Harbour, and by me built in Bronck's River near Westchester," together with masts, yards and long boat, etc. Timotheus Van der Veen, William Nicolls and John Juxon, witnesses.

A complaint was filed to the Mayor's Court of the City of New York about 1680 by Anthony Summers, against Frederick Philipse, adm. of John Leggett, deceased. He complains that the defendant owes him £61 15s., which was for maintenance of John, the son of John Legate, dec'd, for five years and a quarter, at £8 per annum, Boston money, as by account. (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll. 1894, v. 27, p. 431.)

John Richardson.

John Richardson married Martha, daughter of William Mead, of Stamford, Conn., and the records of the Court of Magistrates, held at New Haven, show that on "Oct. 18, 1654, Joseph Mead of Stamford, testifies on behalf of his sister Martha, the wife of John Richardson," and on "Mch. 27, 1657, a petition from William Mead, on behalf of John Richardson (his son-in-law) was presented, desiring the Court that the fine of £10 laid upon him be abated," and on the same day, John Mead, another son of William Mead, petitioned the Court to remit the fine of £10 laid upon him last year. (New Haven Col. Records, v. 2, pp. 122, 218, 229.)

William Mead, the father-in-law of John Richardson, came from England, probably in 1635, and settled at Wethersfield, Conn., and in 1641 removed to Stamford. He was born in England about 1600, married about 1625, and died in Stamford about 1663. He was the ancestor of the Mead family of Fairfield Co., Conn., some of whom settled in Westchester Co., N. Y. He had sons: Joseph, born 1630, married Dec. 4, 1654, Mary Brown of Stamford, and died May 3, 1690, having had six children; and John, born about 1634, who married Hannah Potter of Stamford, probably in 1657, and died Feb. 5, 1699, having had eleven children. John was the ancestor of the Greenwich Meads. William also had a daughter, Martha, born about 1632, who married John Richardson of Stamford, prior to Oct., 1654. No further trace of John and Martha Richardson or of their children appears in the Conn. records. (Mead Family History, by Spencer P. Mead, Esq., 1901.)

John Richardson and Edward Jessup, of Fairfield, Conn., purchased a tract of land (about 1600 acres) at West Farms, Westchester Co., from the Indians in 1663 and 1664, which was patented to them by Governor Nicolls in 1666. John Richardson died in 1679, leaving his will mentioning his wife Martha, his three daughters, Bethia, wife of Joseph (meaning John) Ketcham of Newtown; Mary, wife of Joseph Hadley (of Yonkers), and Elizabeth, wife of Gabriel Leggett (of West Farms), and also his nephew, Joseph Richardson (son of his brother Henry) in England. (Bolton's History of Westchester.)

Martha Richardson conveyed her share of the West Farms Patent under her deceased husband's will and by purchase from her son-in-law Joseph Hadley, to her eldest daughter Bethia Ketcham, by deed dated June 26, 1683. (Recorded for John Ketcham, Nov. 16, 1683-4.) She afterwards married Capt. Thomas Williams of Westchester, and died about 1695.

John Ketcham, son-in-law to John Richardson (son of Edward Ketcham of Ipswich, Mass., in 1637; who owned land at Southold, L. I., in 1654), removed from Ipswich, Mass., where he had been a representative to the General Court of Mass. Bay, to Setauket, L. I., in 1648. He went to Newtown in 1668, married Bethia Richardson shortly after March 14, 1676, when he made an antenuptial agreement in her behalf with her father John Richardson, Gabriel Leggett, her brother-in-law, and another; he died intestate at Newtown, and letters of administration were granted to his widow, Bethia, May 17, 1697. (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., Wills, v. 1, p. 276.) They had three sons: John, Samuel and Edward Ketcham, all residing in Huntington, L. I., in 1672. (Long Island Genealogies, by Mary Powell Bunker, 1895.)

On March 14, 1676-7, John Ketcham, of Newtown, L. I., who was about to marry Bethiah, daughter of John Richardson, of Westchester, made a trust deed to said John Richardson, Gabriell Legate, of Westchester, and Joseph Pettit, of Hempstead, L. I., for the purpose of establishing a jointure for his proposed wife, conveying lands in Newtown, L. I., which lands "were sometime heretofore purchased of Elizabeth Jessop, widow," and on the same day John Ketcham gave his bond to said Richardson, Legate and Pettit in penalty of £400 to observe the provisions of said trust deed. (Sec'y State's Office, Deeds, Book 5, p. 89.)

Joseph Hadley, son-in-law of John Richardson, died intestate, and letters of administration on his estate were granted to Thomas Williams, of Westchester, as principal creditor, April 28, 1697.

A deed recorded in Book I of records of the Town of Westchester at page 63, made by Joseph Meade, of Greenwich, Conn., to his "cozon" (nephew) Joseph Hadley, of Westchester (who was a son-in-law of John Richardson), dated Greenwich, 24 November, 1680, and conveying all his right, title and interest in six acres of meadow in Westchester, to which his brother John Meade was a subscribing witness, establishes conclusively the identity of John Richardson, of Stamford, Conn., 1654, to 1657, husband of Martha Mead (daughter of William Mead, of Stamford) with John Richardson, the co-patentee of West Farms in 1666 with Edward Jessup, formerly of Fairfield, Conn.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

38. DEGROVE-ALBERTSON.—CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS to "Some DeGrove Posterity." N. Y. G. & B. Record, July, 1906, p. 226.+

I have again examined the records of the Dutch Church and find that Peter deGrove was the youngest recorded child of Pieter or Adolph as he was sometimes known, both in business and in the church records, was baptized July 8, 1657, and died May 17 or 18, 1704; m. Jan. 1, 1678-9. Jannetje Van Borsum, b. Nov. 23, 1653, and died after May, 1717-18, dau. of Egbert or Annetje (Hendricks) Van Borsum. Peter or Adolph, in his will, calls his wife "Jenneken Adolph" and she sometimes signs her name "Jenneken Adolph" and after 1706 usually signs her name as Jenneken

De Groof. The children signed De Groof or D. Grove, but never seem to have used the name "Adolphus."

There is a probability that he m. secondly one of the daughters of Peter De Grove and Rebecca Goederus. See § No. 2 below. It was their dau. Rachel, at the age of 12 (1751, consequently b. 1739), whose sampler is exemplified on p. 225 of the RECORD. She m. Jan. 29, 1757, Capt. Thomas White, a wealthy Englishman. No issue. He m. 2. PETER DE GROVE, b. Jan. 29, 1696, son of Peter Adolphson, sometime known as Adolph, and Jannetje (Van Borsum) DeGrove. m. June 9, 1717, Rebecca Goederus, bap. March 12, 1693; d. —; dau. of Frans, m. April 25, 1683, to Rebecca (Ennes) Goederus. Issue:
- i. Oct. 5, 1718, Pieter.
  - ii. July 6, 1720, Rebecca, d. before 1734.
  - iii. Aug. 15, 1722, Janncke, d. —.

  - vi. April 30, 1729, Marica.
  - vii. March 8, 1732, Pieter.
  - viii. July 10, 1734, Rebecca.
3. Neither the Dutch Church Record nor in Mr. Wm. Gordon Ver Planck's sketch of the Van Borsum Family is it shown that Peter De Grove and Rebecca Goederus had any child named Adolph, Rachel or Aefie. The Rebecca given as born July 6, 1720, could not have been she who m. Derick Albertson, as she was born 1706 and her eldest child was baptized at St. George's Church, Hempstead, 5.1.1734, besides the Rebecca, wife of Derick Albertson, as per record, was dau. of Adolph and Rachel, and niece of Peter, etc. References having been made to the name of John Anderson's wife, the Dutch Church Record says Peter De Grove's second child was "Rebecca," bap. July 6, 1720. On p. 226, "Rachel," with the same dates of baptism, etc., is stated to have m. in 1738, John Anderson. In such cases the record takes the preference. The dates in the case of Adolph, m. Sarah Lawrence, b. 1720, as well as the absence of any such name among Peter's children, shows that he belongs with Adolph's family.
- If Peter De Grove, the owner of the Wall Street house and lot, was as stated the son of Peter (or Adolph) and Janneken (Van Borsum) De Grove, married June 9, 1717, Rebecca, dau. of Francis and Rebecca Goederus, they had son Peter, b. Oct. 5, 1718, but the Dutch Records do not show any such marriage. They do not have any Adolph, who evidently belongs among the children of Adolph and Rachel, being baptized Feb. 10, 1720, and m. Sarah Lawrence in 1743. Garret Schuyler m. Aechtje De Grove, b. March 23, 1684, daughter of Pieter (Adolph?) De Grove and Jannetje Van Borsum. Now as Adolph, that m. 1743, Sarah Lawrence, was one of the sons of Adolph and Rachel (Goederus) De Groof, he has no place in this generation. As for Rebecca, bap. Feb. 17, 1706, who m. Derick Albertson II, I make it, that according to the will of Derick and reinforced by the records the Albertsons had and the chart, that Rachel was the eldest child of Derick and Rebecca, and should appear as follows:

- 4 i. Rachel, bapt. Sept. 19, 1732; m. Obadiah Lawrence.
  - 5 ii. Ann, bapt. St. George's Church, Hempstead, July 10, 1734; m. Gerrit Striker.
  - 6 iii. Derick, bapt. Dutch Church, N. Y., June 7, 1736; m. 1764, Sarah Hicks.
  - iv. Rebecca, bapt. Nov. 4, 1738. No record of death.
  - 7 v. Daniel (twin), b. Feb. 12, 1740-1; m. Adah Thorneycraft.
  - 8 vi. Mary (twin), b. Feb. 12, 1740-41; m. Rev. Benjamin Coles.
  - vii. Adolph, bapt. Jan. 25, 1742-3; d. Jan. 30, 1743-4.
  - viii. John, bapt. St. George's Church, Hempstead, March 10, 1745; alive 1791, per father's will (supposed defective).
4. RACHEL, the oldest child of Derick and Rebecca Albertson, m. Obadiah Lawrence of Flushing, and brother of Dr. William Lawrence, a medical practitioner at Musketto Cove for a number of years. Their issue appears on p. 226 of the July, 1906, RECORD. As on May 4, 1784, Thorn Golden and Mary his wife and Derick Coles and Ann his wife of Mosquito Cove Patten (Patent) a/c 5s. paid by Nathaniel Lawrence quit claim all interest in the estate of Obadiah Lawrence decd., I conclude Rachel had also deceased.
5. ANN, the second child, m. Garrit, son of Jacobus Striker, and had issue: James. The following appears on the Oyster Bay Town Records: 1753, Gerrit Striker, eldest son and heir of Jacobus Striker. decd., a/c. of release given by bro. John Striker and wife Sarah (Crooker) do release him, etc., the E. part of Homestead of which our father died seized, bd. S'y by Underhill, W. by division line which begins on East side of gate in fence that parts this land from R. Townsend Est. Witness: Derick Albertson and Tunis Wortman.
6. DERICK, third child, m. Sarah Hicks, dau. of Benjamin and Phebe (Titus) Hicks. Issue surviving: Benjamin, b. 3.16.1782; m. Sarah Willet; Silas, b. 4.28.1784; m. Keziah Whitson.
7. DANIEL, b. Feb. 12, 1740-1; m. Adah Thorneycraft, a descendant of Thomas and Jean Thorneycraft, who came hither from Rhode Island. Issue: De Grove, m. Elizabeth Jamison; Derick, m. Susannah(?) Colwell; Mary, m. John Kashow. (Oyster Bay Record.)
8. MARY, twin to Daniel, b. Feb. 12, 1740-1; no sureties reported to their baptism, probably at home, by Rev. Robert Tenney, the then Rector of St. George's, Hempstead, who preached every third Sunday at Oyster Bay. She d. Feb. 28, 1812; m. Sept. 16, 1760, Benjamin Coles, b. April 6, 1738; d. Aug. 6, 1810; son of Joseph and Abigail (Hopkins) Coles. Issue: Rachel, m. James Hill; James, b. March 15, 1763; m. Amy Downing; Charity, m.

Parmenus Jackson; Benjamin, m. Sept. 15, 1799, Anne Townsend, b. March 9, 1783; d. Aug. 20, 1812; dau. of Hewlett and Anne (Hewlett) Townsend of Cedar Swamp, now Greendale, near Glen Cove and Glenwood, the home place of Isaac Mott, great-grandfather of Hopper Striker Mott. In Conn. Early Wills, Sept. 14, 1677, the will of Deacon John Moore appears; mentions daughter Hannah, m. Nov. 30, 1648, to John Drake.

These two Mary Drakes were frequently mixed up and both the Salisbury Genealogies and the Walcott Genealogy and I myself in the Greene Genealogy made Mary Drake who married Thomas Marshall, the daughter of Mary Wolcott, when she was really Hannah, daughter of Deacon John Moore.

In Styles' History of Ancient Windsor, it is right; p. 178, John Drake, son of John Drake, married Hannah, daughter of Deacon John Moore, Nov. 30, 1648, a first settler of Simsbury, but resident of Windsor until 1657 or longer; gravestone at Simsbury, July 7, 1688, at his death aged 39. Town records mention widow Mary.

John Drake of Dorchester came with Winthrop; requested Oct. 19, 1630, to be admitted a freeman; he removed either to Taunton or Windsor not long after; at Windsor by a cartwheel running over him, was killed 17 Aug., 1659, leaving sons Jacob, Job and John, besides one if not more daughters. Savage agrees with this, 1, p. 70.

40. HICKS-TALMAN-REEDER-REEDE—CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.

The original address of the principal freeholders and inhabitants of Queens Co., N. Y., to Gov. Lord Cornbury, congratulating him on his arrival in New York City, is in the Public Record Office, London (C. O. 5, 1047). He reached the city on May 3, 1702, and the document is dated Oct. 2, 1702. It was published in 1912 in the Calendar of State Papers, Colonial Series, America and the West Indies, Jan.-Dec. 1, 1702, with which I have compared the original and note the omission of the names of Jacob Hicks, Isaac Hicks and Corn.—and the following errors: John Salmon should read John Talman, Joseph and Jacob Keeder, Reeder, and Abrah. Kecke, Reede. Are not the names Bentustener, Radle and Gaveel meant for Benthúijsen, Randle and Abeel respectively? [The printed list will be found in the Calendar, etc., pp. 621-2, at the N. Y. Historical Society.]

41. REMINGTON-CHANNING.—CORRECTION.

American Authors' Ancestry is the title of a new work by John Osborne Austin. I have not seen the complete work but the prospectus contains a sample page, being the ancestry of William

BOOK REVIEWS.

BY JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue, before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

The English portion of the work is entirely on the authority of Thomas Townsend Sherman, of New York City, acknowledged to be the leading authority on this portion of the family history. The resulting work is therefore one of exceptional excellence. In addition to the literary merit of the volume, we have to congratulate the author on its artistic presentation. In this day of active revival of interest in family history, authentic information relative to the English homes of the ancestors of Americans is most acceptable to the general public and especially so to those interested in genealogy. The author has made living pictures in the descriptions of those homes she has described and we are made intimately acquainted with the early home environment of the Washingtons, of the Pilgrims Brewster and Bradford, of William Penn, Benjamin Franklin's ancestral home at Ecton, homes of the Maryland and Virginia Cavaliers and others. The illustrations are most attractive and the descriptive text of an easy and intimate style that renders it most pleasing. This original intention of the author has been faithfully carried out, bringing to light "the ambitions, acts, and very thoughts of Payne during that period of his life,—his youth." ## NORMAN BRUCE REAM.

CONTRIBUTED BY CLARENCE WINTHROP BOWEN, PH.D.

Norman Bruce Ream, a Life Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, died in New York City on February 9, 1915, in his 71st year. He was born at Ursina, Somerset Co., Pa., November 5, 1844, the son of Levi and Highly King Ream. The name of his grandfather was Samuel. His great-grandfather, John Ream, served in the Revolutionary War. His great-great-grandfather, Andrew Ream, came to America soon after 1700 and settled in Pennsylvania. The family of Mr. Ream's mother was Anglo-Scotch and has lived in New Jersey for generations.

Norman Bruce Ream was brought up on his father's farm and received a common school education. At the age of fourteen he began to teach school and at the same time prepared for the County Normal Institute. While at the Normal School he found time to make daguerreotypes and took up photography, an art at that time in its infancy. In photography, in school teaching, as well as in his work at the Normal School, young Ream developed his character and won success. When the Civil War broke out he at once responded, the date of his enlistment being September 1, 1861. He assisted in organizing the 85th Pennsylvania Volunteers; and, though tendered a commission, became a private in Co. H. He was seventeen in 1861, and therefore anticipated by a year the legal age of enrollment.

He first went into camp at Uniontown, Pa., and after his regiment was organized moved to Washington and was assigned to Casey's Division, Fourth Army Corps. He served through the Peninsula Campaign in the Army of the Potomac and was under General George B. McClellan. He was at the Siege of Yorktown and in the Battles of Williamsburgh, Savage Station and Fair Oaks, and participated in the seven days' fight before Richmond and was in the engagement at Franklin, Va. He was afterwards in the Department of North Carolina under Major General John Gray Foster; and took part in December, 1862, in the engagements at Newburgh, Southwest Creek, Kingston, White Hall and Goldsborough. He was next assigned to the Department of the South under General Quincy A. Gilmore and took part in the Siege of Charleston in the summer of 1863. In the Battle of White-Marsh Island near Savannah, Ga., February 22, 1864, while acting as Adjutant of the regiment, he led an attack on a small fort and was so severely wounded that he was obliged to go to the hospital for three months. He returned to his regiment at Bermuda Hundred, Va., on June 17, 1864, and was wounded the same day at Ware Bottom Church. Owing to the wounds he had received since the beginning of the war he was utterly incapacitated for further service and resigned on August 31, 1864. He was honorably discharged. He had been promoted on March 14, 1863, from a Second to a First Lieutenantcy "for distinguished gallantry in the field." Lieutenant Ream's career in the Civil War was most honorable and he was justified in being more proud of it than he was of his subsequent and extraordinarily successful career in the business world.

After the close of the War, Lieutenant Ream attended a commercial college at Pittsburg and was afterwards a clerk at Harnedsville, Pa., where he remained until September, 1866. He next became a clerk in the general store of C. A. Stoner at Princeton, Ill. His first venture was with C. H. Mosshart. Stoner's interests were bought out and the store was run by Ream and Mosshart until destroyed by fire in November of 1867. The following year Mr. Ream removed to Osceola, Iowa, and engaged in grain and live stock and in the farming implement business. Owing to the failure of crops in 1870 he met with financial reverses which caused his suspension, but not a shadow was cast on his honesty or integrity. In 1871, when Mr. Ream was twenty-seven years old, he removed to Chicago and was in the live stock commission business under the firm name of Coffman & Ream. His friends in Iowa made consignments to him; and with his first money earned he settled the indebtedness caused by his failure and paid every one he owed in full with ten per cent interest added. In 1875 Mr. Ream became a member of the Board of Trade and retired from active partnership with Coffman & Ream but retained a connection with the firm until 1878. He became about this time a partner in the firm of George C. Ball & Co., and afterwards carried on an independent commission business as N. B. Ream & Co., which was continued until 1884 when the firm was changed to R. W. Clark & Co., with Mr. Ream as special partner. He was likewise connected with the commission house of H. H. Carr & Co. His ventures on the Board of Trade were most successful and he became one of the largest operators. He was the leader of the combination known as the Big Four of the Chicago Board of Trade. Mr. Ream now invested in Chicago real estate, bank and corporation stocks and in 1886 organized the company which built the "Rookery," the first of the tall buildings erected in Chicago. He withdrew from the commission business and as stockholder and Director became connected with many enterprises. In 1883 he assisted in the reorganization of the Western Fire Insurance Company of Chicago, of which he was Vice-President. In 1888 he retired from the Board of Trade and soon after removed to New York and invested in various enterprises of which he became a constructor or creator, in fact a veritable commander-in-chief. He assisted in the reorganization of the Baltimore & Ohio and of the Colorado Southern Railroads. He was in 1898, with President Adolphus W. Green, a founder of the National Biscuit Company and was one of the Board of Directors as well as a member of the Executive Committee of that corporation until his death. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Steel Company from the time of its organization until it became a part of the United States Steel Corporation when the latter corporation was formed. From the time of the organization of the Steel Corporation until his death Mr. Ream was a member of the Board of Directors and of the Finance Committee. He was also a Director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Pullman Company, the International Harvester Company, the Pennsylvania Coal Company, the First National Bank of Chicago, the New York Trust Company, the Metropolitan Trust Company, the Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance Company of New York, the Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, Chicago & Alton, the C., B. & Q., the Seaboard Air Line, Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and was likewise a Director in other railroads and corporations. He was with Robert T. Lincoln an Executor of the Estate of George M. Pullman of Chicago, and for more than fifteen years before his death was a warm friend of the late J. Pierpont Morgan and an adviser at the historic conferences in Mr. Morgan's library during the panic of 1907. Mr. Ream was also intimately acquainted with Marshall Field, Edward S. Isham, James J. Hill, Philip D. Armour, Judge Elbert H. Gary, and many others equally well known.

But while the most eminent financiers sought Mr. Ream's advice he was just as ready to give counsel to those who were but little known. He was the most approachable of men. One of the corporations with which he was connected bore this testimony: "The nature and the disposition of Mr. Ream were such as to make association with him especially attractive; he made friends but not enemies; he was considerate of the feeling of others; it was natural for him to harmonize rather than to antagonize. He had the respect and affectionate regard of all who were intimately acquainted with him."* Another corporation† with which he had been connected as a Trustee for thirteen years and as a member of the Executive Committee for eleven years spoke of his eminent qualifications, "comprising the highest integrity, moral courage and disinterested devotion to the Company's best interest." A third corporation spoke of his invaluable advice and rare judgment and was particularly impressed with Mr. Ream's "personal example of unaffected simplicity, honesty and moral courage."‡ The Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance Company of New York, of which Mr. Ream was a

Director, said of him: "His life was typical of the highest American traditions and ideals. As a young man he fought bravely for his country. Although wounded many times, he returned and returned again to the fight and the qualities of cheerful bravery and unfailing determination marked his character, through life. He began his business career lacking both in fortune and opportunity. He ended it in wealth, power and universal regard. And through a long career of struggle, conflict and success, he proved by his life that integrity, breadth of character and loyalty to friends are not inconsistent with great achievement." The Erie Railroad Company certified to "the integrity of his character, his conscientious devotion to the interests of the company, his wise and broad comprehension of its needs, his sound and just judgment and notably his kindness of heart and his unfailing courtesy, which endeared him as a colleague." The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad said of him: "His distinguished business attainments, unusually broad experience in important diversified affairs, sound common sense and high integrity made him a most capable advisor and Director." The First National Bank of Chicago, of which Mr. Ream was a Director for twenty-five years, thus spoke of him: "In his wonderful career besides achieving great success for himself he held a unique position among a nation-wide host of business friends and associates, by whom his wise counsel and sound advice were freely sought and highly valued. In business and every relation of life, Mr. Ream was upright and honorable." The Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Commandery of the State of Illinois, said: "His was a noble character. Everybody who came in contact with him, loved him as man and friend. He had a great brain and had to be active, and withal, was so solid and simple. For instance, in building the 'Rookery' in this city, and while some of his co-owners were clamoring for some high-sounding name, he insisted that 'Rookery' was good enough for him, and the name of this splendid building is still the 'Rookery.' The greatest minds in this country paid homage to him and trusted him."*

Mr. Ream was a Mason, Knight Templar and Odd Fellow, a member of the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges; and his clubs included the Union, Metropolitan, New York Yacht, Automobile of America, National Arts, Sleepy Hollow Country, Garden City Golf, South Side Sportsmen's, and the Chicago, Chicago Athletic, and Commercial Clubs of Chicago.

As Mr. Ream's first years were spent on a farm, so in his last years he spent as much time as he possibly could at his beautiful home in Thompson, Connecticut. He loved the country and was devoted to his family and was never so happy as when he had his wife and sons and daughters about him in his Connecticut home. Mr. Ream was married at Madison, N. Y., February 19, 1876, to Caroline T., daughter of Dr. John Putnam of Madison, and great-granddaughter of General Israel Putnam's cousin, Henry Putnam, who was killed in the Battle of Lexington. Mrs. Ream was likewise a direct descendant of William Bradford, second Governor of Plymouth Colony. The six children of Mr. and Mrs. Ream, all of whom are living, are: Marion B., wife of Redmond D. Stephens, of Chicago; Frances M., wife of John L. Kemmerer, of Short Hills, N. J.; Norman P., and Robert C. Ream, of New York; Edward K. Ream, of Johnstown, Pa.; and Louis M. Ream, of Worcester, Mass.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES FROM THE HIGH COURT OF ADMIRALTY EXAMINATIONS.

By J. R. HUTCHINSON.

The evidence of witnesses taken before the High Court of Admiralty, between the years 1620 and 1700, is preserved in forty registers, of large folio size and great thickness, containing, on a rough estimate, 20,000 examinations and ex parte depositions. The deponents are drawn from practically every class of society and every part of the commercial world, though seafaring men largely predominate. When litigation touched a particular colony, as, for instance, New England or Virginia, witnesses from that colony were heard as a matter of course. Every deposition thus taken is signed, nearly all state the deponent's name, occupation, place of residence and age, while many disclose that most vital of all clues—where the deponent was born. The genealogical value of the following extracts, relating exclusively to the American "plantations," is therefore obvious, but it should not be forgotten that numerous personal allusions to deponents appear in the examinations which cannot be given here owing to restrictions of space.

William Webb of London, merchant, deposes 17 July, 1620, aged 55. He has been "husband" to the Virginia Company for these seven years.

Ferdinando Sheppard of Great Rowleright, co. Oxon, gent, deposes 6 March, 1620-21, aged 22. He is brother to (?Thomas) Shepherd* and brother-in-law to John Farrer, Deputy of the Virginia Company.

Ralph Greene of East Smithfield, smith, deposes 22 Sept., 1622.†

Benjamin Gillam of Wapping, shipwright, deposes 29 Jan., 1643-4, aged 26.**

* He was perhaps father to Anthony Stoddard of Boston, N. E., linen-draper, 1639.

† A Clement Campion sold house and lands in Charlestown, N. E., 1647.

‡ Probably Edward Collins, of Cambridge, N. E., gent, 1636. In his 'prentice days, when at Amboyna at the time of the massacre by the Dutch, he had a unique experience. Three "lotts were putt into a hatt" by the Dutch officials, and deponent, Samuel Colson and Emanuel Thompson, who were prisoners, were compelled to draw them. "They that drew twoe of those lotts were to suffer death, and hee that drew the third lott was to escape." Deponent drew the third.

* He was a well known ship-master, who settled at Charlestown, N. E.

† Richard Girling was of Cambridge, N. E., 1635. There is reason to believe him to have been a son of John Girling of Debenham, co. Suffolk. He died in 1675, leaving a will by which he devised his estates in England, Ireland, the Barbadoes, Antigua, St. Christopher's and Virginia to his grandson Arthur, son of his eldest son Sir John Thompson, Bart. ## ANCESTRY OF COLONEL MARINUS WILLETT.

By E. HAVILAND HILLMAN, F.S.G., London, Eng.

---

My attention has been called to an article in the New York Times of June 20th last, entitled New York's 250th Anniversary, and I am surprised to find that a writer on historical subjects can still be found giving credence to the legend, not even a family tradition, as will be shown, that Colonel Marinus Willett, Mayor of New York in 1807, was the "great-great-grandson" (the real claim is that he was the great-grandson) of Thomas Willett, the first Mayor of that city, so hard is it to correct a genealogical error, especially one appealing to the popular imagination, once it has been made.

The reason I maintain that it never has been a tradition is based on the very logical assumption, that had it been such it would most certainly have been mentioned by one or the other of the sons of Colonel Marinus Willett, who have left us records, meagre though they are, of their family. Such an interesting item of family history as that of being descended from the first Mayor of New York, whether an established fact or tradition, would certainly not have remained unrecorded by them. William Marinus, son of Colonel Marinus Willett, and author of A Narrative of the Military Actions of Colonel Marinus Willett, in speaking of his father, says that "he was of respectable family and his grandfather, Samuel Willett, held the office of Sheriff of Queens County," but makes no claim to his having been descended from the Mayor. Surely, if he considered it of some interest to mention the fact that the grandfather of Colonel Marinus Willett, Mayor of New York, had been Sheriff of Queens County, he would have attached greater importance to the claim which has been made, that he was the great-grandson of the first Mayor of New York, and not failed to place it on record had it been known to him. He says correctly that the grandfather of Colonel Marinus was Sheriff of Queens County, but it was not Samuel (Sheriff in 1720) but Elbert Willett (Sheriff in 1705) who was the grandfather. I can only account for his ignorance in regard to the grandfather's name on a supposition which, however, by no means lessens my argument. As I will show in due course, Elbert, the grandfather, whose only son Edward was the father of Colonel Marinus, died in 1706 when Edward, his son, was but a child. I am firmly convinced for reasons not necessary to discuss now, but which I will given in a genealogy of the family of the Hon. Colonel Thomas Willett of Flushing, Long Island, I am at present preparing for publication, that Samuel Willett, Sheriff of Queens County, was also a son of Colonel Willett and brother of Elbert.

The above supposition is this, that on the death of Elbert Willett in 1706, Samuel his brother adopted his nephew Edward, and that as both his father and adopted father had been Sheriffs of Queens County, the grandchildren of Edward got the names of Samuel and Elbert confused, and consequently their exact relationship to them. This is a possible explanation.

I personally believe that the legend of Colonel Marinus Willett's descent from the Mayor originated in a very inaccurate chart, published in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register (Vol. II, p. 376), giving the names of the children of Thomas Willett, the Mayor, and also some of their descendants. The compiler had undoubtedly read the Narrative, then recently published, and without the slightest evidence, for no such evidence has ever been found, took it for granted that Samuel Willett, whom William Marinus erroneously believed the father of Edward and grandfather of Colonel Marinus, must have been the Mayor's son Samuel, born October 27, 1658, and that the latter at the age of sixty-two, be it noted, having held no previous public position in Queens County nor having lived there so far as is known, was appointed Sheriff of the County in 1720.

To show how little credence can be placed in this chart, it is only necessary to say that the compiler, in his efforts to connect the Mayor's son with the Flushing family, demonstrates his ignorance of the latter to such an extent that he makes it appear that Elbert Willett, born in 1737 or 1738 (and who removed to Albany, N. Y.), brother of Colonel Marinus, was the brother of his own father Edward, born in 1702, and the uncle of Colonel Marinus.

The other account of the family, given by Edward Marinus Willett, son of Colonel Marinus, appeared in the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. XIX, p. 76, and it is needless to say he does not mention the Mayor as being in any way connected with his family.

As a former article on the Ancestry of Colonel Marinus Willett, by E. P. B., published in the Record (Vol. XXVI, p. 171) did not furnish any very conclusive evidence that Colonel Marinus was descended from the Hon. Colonel Thomas Willett of Flushing, though the writer was inclined to accept the fact, it is with the belief that I can do so, that the present article has been written, and in hopes that it may finally settle the question of Colonel Marinus Willett's real ancestry.

The Hon. Colonel Thomas Willett of Flushing, Long Island, bapt. at the Reformed Dutch Church in New Amsterdam, November 26, 1645 (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. V, p. 87), died 1722; son of Thomas Willett the emigrant from Bristol, England, and Sarah Cornell (daughter of Thomas Cornell and Rebecca Briggs), married about 1668, Helena, the daughter of Captain Elbert Elbertse Stoothoff and Aeltje Cornelis, widow of Gerritt Wolfertzen. He had by Helena, besides other children, Elbert (born about 1677, died 1706), so named after his grandfather. This Elbert married at the Reformed Dutch Church in New York on May 13, 1701, Johanna* Van Varick (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. XI, p. 178), the daughter of the Rev. Rudolphus Van Varick and Margaret Visboom, his wife. These latter were also the parents of a Marinus Van Varick.

Lieutenant Elbert Willett was High Sheriff of Queens County in 1705. In his will dated August 10, 1706 (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., Abst. of Wills, Vol. I, p. 432), he mentions, besides his brothers Captain Thomas and Major William Willett, his wife Johanna and his two children Edward and Margaret. In a codicil dated the following day he also mentions his father, Colonel Thomas Willett of Flushing. The testator was living at the time of making his will, in Jamaica, Long Island, though "Late of Flushing in Queens County."

Edward Willett, the father of Colonel Marinus, was married at the Parish Church of Jamaica, Long Island, on May 9, 1722, to Aletta Clowes (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. XIX, p. 56), the daughter of the Hon. Samuel Clowes and Katherine Douw, his wife. Shortly after this marriage took place, Edward Willett of Flushing, the son of Elbert, on November 18, 1723, sold land to Robert Denton of Jamaica, "which tract was purchased by Elbert Willett, father of ye said Edward, by deed dated August 4th, 1706, and which tract ye sd Elbert dyed seized of & the same devolved to his *only son* & heire Edward Willett*" (Records of the Town of Jamaica, L. I., N. Y., Vol. III, p. 212). Thus we find that a year and a half after the marriage of Edward Willett to Aletta Clowes at Jamaica, Edward, son of Elbert Willett, was living in Flushing. As Flushing, distant about five miles from Jamaica, was in the latter parish, most marriages of communicants of the Church of England in Flushing were there solemnized, so it by no means follows that the contracting parties were residents of Jamaica.

In the Parish Churchyard at Jamaica, Long Island, there is a tombstone with the following inscription: "Here lyes ye Body of Elbert Willett Son of Edward and Aletta Willett who departed this Life ye 10th of August Anni 1738, Being ye 14th year of his Age." (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. VI, p. 18.) Thus this the first child of Edward Willett was born in 1723, and in the Registry Book of the Parish Church, Jamaica, are recorded the following baptisms of Edward's children: Samuel, bapt. Sept. 11, 1726; Johanna, bapt. Oct. 27, 1728; and Edward, bapt. April 22, 1731. (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, Vol. XIX, pp. 10, 11, 12.) It appears from the above that the first born son and daughter of Edward are named "Elbert" and "Johanna" respectively.

It would seem almost incredible that such a coincidence should arise, as that this first-born son and daughter of Edward Willett and Aletta Clowes, should bear in combination the uncommon names of "Elbert" and "Johanna," and that these should be the very names of the parents of Edward Willett, living in Flushing in 1723, unless this latter and Edward the father of Marinus were one and the same person, especially so as no record can be found at this time anywhere in Queens County of another Edward, than the son of * This proves that E. P. B., in his article on the "Ancestry of Colonel Marinus Willett," was mistaken in supposing that Elbert had a son Elbert.

Elbert. After the death of his first-born, Edward had another son, born in 1737 or 1738 and also named him "Elbert," showing how strongly he felt that the name should continue in the family. This son was Elbert Willett, who settled in Albany, N. Y., and died s.p. February 1, 1828, "aged 90." (Munsell's Annals of Albany, Vol. IX, p. 163.)

From an inscription on another tombstone in the same churchyard we learn that Edward Willett, the father of the above children, and of Colonel Marinus and others (there were thirteen in all), "died the 1st of December, 1794, aged 93 years. The husband of one wife 58½ years." As it is asserted in the Narrative that Edward Willett, the father of Colonel Marinus, was born in 1701, and this has been repeated by others, it is important to examine this point, for difficulty has been found in reconciling this date with the date of birth of Edward son of Elbert (if they were one and the same) who in the natural course of events could not have been born previous to February, 1702. It will be admitted as highly improbable that Edward Willett died exactly on his ninety-third birthday, and as I will show, this age is meant to be taken as only approximate, for the inscription also tells us that he was married "58½ years" and we know that this could not be so, for since the marriage took place on May 9, 1722, and his wife died on October 3, 1780 (tombstone inscription at Grace Church, Jamaica), he had really been married 58 years 4 months and 24 days. If, as we have found, "58½ years" is approximate, we have as much and more reason to believe that "aged 93 years" is to be taken in the same way. Edward, the son of Elbert, if born in February, 1702, would have been ninety-two years and ten months old, or approximately, "aged 93 years," on the date on which Edward, the father of Marinus, died. It is my opinion that William Marinus obtained the date of his father's birth from the tombstone by deducting the age "93" from the year of his death, "1794," as he does not give us the month and day of his birth.

Finally, it may be noted that the name "Elbert" is found amongst most of the descendants of Edward Willett and Aletta Clowes. I will mention only a few. Edward Willetts, Jr., of Albany, their son, named his eldest son "Elbert"; and Isaac, son of Edward Willett, Jr., also had a son "Elbert." Colonel Marinus Willett, had a son "Elbert," and a grandson "Elbert," son of Edward Marinus. The name "Marinus" was given to Colonel Marinus Willett in memory of his father's uncle, Marinus Van Varick, brother of Johanna, wife of Elbert Willett.

I think it will be agreed that sufficient evidence has been given, to prove beyond all reasonable doubt, that Edward Willett, the father of Colonel Marinus, was the son of Elbert Willett, and Johanna Van Varick his wife, and that consequently Colonel Marinus was the great-grandson of the Hon. Colonel Thomas Willett of Flushing, Long Island.

Thomas Willett was born in England in 1610 and arrived at Plymouth in 1632. He became a freeman in 1633, was assistant at the General Court 1651-1664, and was Captain of the military company at Plymouth. He was directed to accompany a Massachusetts force to Manhattan "and to be assistant unto them in advise and counsel." To him is given the credit for the bloodless surrender of New Amsterdam to the English. Colonel Nichols, commander of the invading forces, later sent him as commissioner to the Iroquois Indians, which mission was so successful that on June 12, 1665, he appointed him Mayor of the city. Twice did he "sustaine ye place," in the words of the weather-beaten footstone on his grave at Riverside, R. I., which has withstood the elements for 241 years, he having died in 1674.

The City Club of New York erected a granite boulder over his remains on October 18, 1913, and around it and enclosing the graves of Mayor Willett, his first wife, Mary Brown, whom he married in 1636, and her father John Brown, placed an ornamental fence of Westerly granite with chains. A tablet in memory of the Mayor was unveiled in the City Hall later that year.

On the northwest corner of Broad and Beaver Streets a tablet was erected, 1892, by the Sons of the Revolution to mark the site of the seizure of arms by Sons of Liberty from British soldiers, June 6, 1775. A representation of old Broad Street and Federal Hall, with a medallion head of Willett, are thereon.

George Bethune and Mary Faneuil were married Oct. 13, 1754. For their descendants and accounts of the Faneuil and Bethune families, see Records of the Families of Bethune and Faneuil, by Jane Lee Weisse, N. Y., 1866.

Much of the Bethune data in Mrs. Weisse's book is inaccurate, and should be checked by comparison with Burke's Commoners and Landed Gentry. In a footnote at page 16 of her work mention is made of various family papers which in the year 1830 were in the possession of George Bethune, son of George and Mary (Faneuil) Bethune, some of which were very old. Among these papers was a certain manuscript account of the Bethune family, bearing date of 1754, still in existence and in possession of the writer. It is of interest in that it gives an accurate and more complete account of the Beaton or Bethune family of Scotland than is to be found in either of Burkes' compilations above mentioned.

C. R. EASTMAN.

A monument to Benjamin<sup>4</sup> Faneuil is in Trinity churchyard, New York City.

SAMUEL THORNE.

BY SAMUEL THORNE, JR.

Samuel Thorne, who was elected a Life Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society on January 13th, 1914, was born on the sixth of September, 1835, at the family homestead "Thorndale," which is located in what is now the village of Millbrook among the hills of Dutchess County, N. Y., and about fourteen miles east of Poughkeepsie. It was here he early developed that love of nature which deeply influenced his character.

The Thornes were originally members of the Society of Friends. The records show that William Thorne, of the sixth generation previous, who probably came from Essex, England, was made a free-man at Lynn, Massachusetts, May 2nd, 1638. On October 19th, seven years later, he was named by Governor Kieft as one of the eighteen original patentees of the Town of Flushing, L. I., and twelve years after that he appears as one of the proprietors of Jamaica, L. I., and as residing there with his wife, Sarah. His son Joseph, married Mary Bowne, and their son Isaac, who was born in 1698, was the first of the Thornes to move from Long Island to Dutchess County. He and eight other members of the Society of Friends who organized a group known as the "Nine Partners," acquired a parcel of land, upon which they erected a building within a mile or two of the house in which his great-grandson was to first see the light of day. Isaac married Hanna Haight, who bore him ten children. His seventh child, William, through whom the direct line is traced, was born in 1742. William married Jemima Titus and became the father of six children, the third of whom was named Samuel. The latter afterward established one of the first trading posts and stores of general merchandise in the vicinity. He married Phebe Dean by whom he had two daughters and in 1801 a son, Jonathan. It was about this time that a farm of some six hundred acres, a mile or two westward from the "Nine Partners" property, was acquired. A house and outbuildings were built on a level stretch among the hills and the place was, in later years, called "Thorndale."

In spite of the attractions of "Thorndale," as Jonathan Thorne grew to manhood he felt the call to a business career and went to New York City to seek his fortune. Here he became interested in the leather trade and before many years established himself as a successful leather merchant on Ferry Street in that section of the city known as "The Swamp." He was a man of rare judgment and strict integrity. His wife, formerly Lydia Ann Corse, was famed for her gentle, loving disposition and her many deeds of charity. It was in a home surrounded with such influences that Samuel Thorne grew up. Eleven children were born to this union, but only two sisters and five brothers lived to maturity. Of these seven Samuel Thorne was the fourth in age. Combining in his nature his mother's disposition and his father's integrity and judgment he made friends easily, and once made they remained loyal to him through life.

The family first lived on Cliff Street and young Samuel was sent to boarding school in the neighborhood of what is now 36th Street, returning once a week to his family. At the age of twelve he had an experience which is rarely granted to a boy of that age and which taught him a valuable lesson in independence and resourcefulness. His father wished to visit the South in winter time and took Samuel with him to Charleston, South Carolina. While there they happened to attend a horse auction and Samuel's eye was caught by a particular pony. He begged his father to buy it. His father replied "If I buy it will thee ride it home?" to which Samuel enthusiastically rejoined in the affirmative. The pony was thereupon purchased and another friend being in the city with a son fifteen years old, it was agreed that a pony should also be purchased for him and that he and Samuel should ride home together. The journey proved not without mishaps as one of the ponies was taken ill not long after starting, but the hospitality which they received by the way and the persevering spirit of the boys overcame the difficulties and brought them safely to their destination.

While the family were growing up, all the time that could be spared from the city was spent at "Thorndale" and as the leather business prospered Samuel was encouraged and assisted by his father to follow his natural bent and develop the property as one of the foremost stock farms in the country. Jonathan Thorne finally determined upon a plan, considered quite unusual at the time, of importing blooded Short Horn cattle from England. He found in his son Samuel an enthusiastic supporter. In the early fifties, accordingly, he was sent by his father to England for this purpose. He then had the opportunity of visiting the principal herds in that country and, with the advantage of expert advice, of selecting certain animals whose fame later spread throughout the United States and back to England again. The importation of this stock at the time was looked upon as an international event. The newspapers were full of it. "Grand Duke," a wonderful animal was purchased for $5,000, but his life was short and he was succeeded as head of the herd by "Grand Duke 2nd" in 1855. "Grand Turk" and "Duchesses" also of noble pedigree, were purchased and sent to "Thorndale." Within three years Mr. Thorne had collected a herd of Short Horn cattle which, while not the largest, was unexcelled for quality in the whole world. Visitors came from far and near to see the "Thorndale" stock, but the day of greatest triumph for the owner arrived when an order for a shipment came from England to replenish the herds there.

In 1860, Samuel Thorne married Phebe S. Van Schoonhoven, daughter of William H. Van Schoonhoven, of Troy, N. Y., and a descendant of one of the oldest Dutch families of the Hudson Valley. On her maternal side Miss Van Schoonhoven was also descended from a Quaker family whose home was at Lithgow, about eight miles northeast of Millbrook, where Mr. Thorne first met her. On his wedding journey he again visited England. At this time his purchases included well bred stock other than Short Horns such as Southdown sheep and Essex swine and he took special pride in the fact that of all the animals at "Thorndale" there were none not of full blood even down to the tumbler pigeons and lop-eared rabbits. For eight years longer he successfully continued the stock farm but at the end of this time an opportunity arose for selling out the herd and as there were then urgent reasons for his moving to the city he did so. Then began his successful business career in New York where he became associated with his brothers in the leather business. Jonathan Thorne was a director of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, one of the pioneer companies in the Pennsylvania anthracite field, which controlled valuable deposits near Scranton and Pittston, Pa. It was not long before his son Samuel was also elected to that board. In 1895 Samuel Thorne was elected President of the company and held this office until the stock of the company was purchased in 1900 by the Erie Railroad. Mr. Thorne's position in the business world brought him into touch with railroad, bank and trust companies. By reason of the character and ability which he showed in his business relationships he was sought as a director or trustee upon many boards and he became a member of the following:—Bank of America; Central Trust Company; Great Northern Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. Co.; Northern Securities Company; New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, and the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company.

Beside his business activities Mr. Thorne's appreciation of outdoor life and the humanities made him a sympathetic and generous supporter of efforts to educate the general public in this line. The American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art of which he was a patron, the Botanical Gardens and the New York Zoological Society were among this number. He was Vice-President of the last named society which more than any other appealed to him and for which he gave liberally of his time and means.

In the early eighties Mr. Thorne purchased the place in Millbrook formerly owned by Mr. George H. Brown, the New York banker. This property, which Mr. Thorne named "The Crest," adjoined "Thorndale" on the Northwest. There he and his family regularly spent their summers and there, as the years went on, he was best known and most beloved, both for his public spirit and for his kindly acts. Few of his neighbors at some time or other did not see that well loved form on their doorstep with a basket of choice fruit or some other delicacy in his hand as an expression of his thought and feeling for those within. Lasting monuments to his breadth of interest in the community stand to-day in the well equipped high school building erected and given to the Village of Millbrook by him and his surviving brothers and sister in memory of their parents, and in the attractive Y. M. C. A. building, which his liberal contributions helped to make possible. Originally a member of the Society of Friends, Samuel Thorne after his marriage became one of the founders of the Dutch Reformed Church at Millbrook. Here he attended with scrupulous regularity and its pastor alone knew of the multitude of quiet deeds with which Mr. Thorne blessed and helped those about him. Later when the family moved to New York, Mr. Thorne attended the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Thorne was an ardent sportsman. In his younger days he enjoyed few pleasures more than to roam over the country with a good dog and gun. But the sport in which he took the keenest interest was that of salmon fishing. When death overtook him he was on a salmon fishing trip on the St. John's River in Canada with his old friend James J. Hill of St. Paul. With a life of seventy-nine years behind him, so strong was the spirit of his youth that on Saturday, July 3rd, the day before he died, he killed six salmon, the largest of which weighed twenty-eight pounds. The funeral, held on July 9th from his home in Millbrook, was a striking testimony to the wide esteem in which he was held.

So lived and died this Christian gentleman after nearly eighty years full of blessing, honor and usefulness. He saw, at various times members of seven generations of his family, remembering his great-grandfather and having a son's grandchildren play at his knees. In addition to his brother Jonathan Thorne, he was survived by his widow, four sons, a daughter, fourteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Frances<sup>a</sup> (Thacher) Betts, widow of Samuel Betts, married a second time —, at —, to Sheldon Griswold (as his second wife, his first wife was Mary Mead Hanford), born —, at —; died —; at —. His parentage is not known to me.

Children: None.

Walter Hanford Griswold, who married Ann Elizabeth<sup>a</sup> Thacher (No. 2236), was a son of Sheldon Griswold by his first wife, Mary Mead Hanford. Hall's Norwalk, p. 286, states that a Samuel Betts married a Mary Webb on January 3rd, 1798, and had a son, Samuel Betts, born at Norwalk, December 9th, 1798. It is possible that the son Samuel Betts, born December 9th, 1798, may have been the above Samuel Betts who married Frances<sup>a</sup> Thacher as her first husband. This suggestion is merely a conjecture not founded on any evidence.

by his wife, Lucretia (Harris) Treby, who married January 23rd, 1783, and who lived at New London, Conn.

Children: None that are known of.

Isaac Treby was a son of Samuel and Elizabeth (—) Treby, of Newport, R. I.; Lucretia Harris, his wife, was a daughter of Richard and Mary (—) Harris.

In Cedar Grove Cemetery, New London, Conn., there are stones to the memory of Captain George Treby and his wife, thus inscribed: "In memory of Captain George Treby, who died June 17th, 1836, in the 45 year of his age."

"Mary G—, relict of Captain George Treby, died January 18th, 1852, in her 58th year."

1487. GEORGE LOCKWOOD<sup>8</sup> THACHER (or THATCHER) (Partridge,<sup>7</sup> Captain John,<sup>6</sup> Captain Josiah,<sup>5</sup> Deacon Josiah,<sup>4</sup> etc.), born October 21st, 1798, at Pound Ridge, N. Y.; he lived at No. 333 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; he was a hat manufacturer and a dealer in furs in early life and subsequently Secretary of the Board of Assessors in Brooklyn; he died March 29th, 1866, at Brooklyn, N. Y., and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y. He married June 19th, 1848, at Brooklyn, N. Y., to Eliza Trappal, born February 26th, 1812, at Brooklyn, N. Y.; died March 3rd, 1900, at Brooklyn, N. Y., and was there buried in Greenwood Cemetery. She was a daughter of Michael and Lanah (Okey) Trappal, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Child: 1 (Thatcher), son.

- +2271 i. George Lockwood,<sup>9</sup> born July 25th, 1853; died —; married, first, Ellie Callanan; married, second, Catharine Estelle Andrews.

George Lockwood<sup>8</sup> Thatcher was a prominent business man in the early days of Brooklyn. He had a large hat factory which was destroyed by fire; and as he was not insured he lost all he had. He was afterwards appointed Secretary of the Board of Assessors of Brooklyn and held the position for 14 years until his death. He was a notable Mason, having been Past Master of the Hohenlinden Lodge; High Priest of the Nassau Chapter, R. A. M., and Past Commander of the Clinton Commandery Knights Templars. His funeral was one of the largest ever held in Brooklyn.

The Lockwood Genealogy, pp. 294-5, states that George Lockwood<sup>8</sup> Thatcher married Julia —? My authority for the above record is his son (No. 2271), who makes no mention to me of his father's marriage to Julia —? No. 1487's marriage to Eliza Trappal took place when he was 50 years old. It is not by any means improbable that he may have been previously married. We call attention here again to the marriage recorded in New London under date of April 11th, 1826, ceremony performed by Isaac Stoddard, minister, between George Thacher and Julia Sepson, both of New London (See Book 3, p. 25, Vital Records of New London, Conn.). We have under head of record No. 1473 assumed that the George Thacher who married Julia Sepson was No. 1473. Both Starr and Street Genealogies, however, state that No. 1473 never married. If the Starr and Street Genealogies are correct and also if Lockwood Genealogy, pp. 294-5, is correct and No. 1487 did marry a Julia, then perhaps the Julia whom he married was Julia Sepson who married a George Thacher in New London, Conn., on April 11th, 1826.

Nathaniel Woodbridge<sup>o</sup> Thatcher was named after his mother's brother-in-law, Nathaniel Shaw Woodbridge, who married his mother's sister, Elizabeth Mumford. He was generally known to his friends and relatives as Woodbridge Thatcher. He left home at an early age and went to Philadelphia to receive a business education with his uncle Daniel<sup>o</sup> Thatcher, then engaged in the wholesale drug business in that city under the firm name of Thatcher and Thompson. There he remained nine years. He then travelled in the interests of the firm and in the course of his travels visited Chillicothe, Ohio, to look after certain interests of his father. At Chillicothe he settled and married. His father gave him the capital to start there in the drug business and he was afterwards in the commission business. During the Civil War he was appointed a Government Inspector of Internal Revenue. His wife's parents were both born in West Virginia. After her father's resignation from the Army he resided permanently in Chillicothe. He was a member of the First Corps of Artillerists before the War of 1812 and at the time of his resignation was Quartermaster General with the rank of Colonel of the 8th Military District comprising the middle West from the Alleghanies to the Mississippi. The old house on the corner of Chestnut and High Streets was the old Swearingen home in Chillicothe and it subsequently became the family home of Nathaniel Woodbridge<sup>o</sup> Thatcher.

1497. LUCRETIA MUMFORD<sup>8</sup> THATCHER (Anthony,<sup>7</sup> Captain John,<sup>6</sup> Captain Josiah,<sup>5</sup> Deacon Josiah,<sup>4</sup> etc.), born September 30th, 1808, at New London, Conn., in the Nat. Shaw house on Truman Street; she died at New London, Conn., July 29th, 1895, and was buried there in the Thatcher lot in Cedar Grove Cemetery, where a monument to the memory of herself and husband stands. She married at New London, Conn., January 28th, 1828, to Nathaniel Hazard Perry, an officer in the U. S. Navy of the rank of Purser, which rank is equivalent to the present rank of Paymaster; he was born at Newport, R. I., November 27th, 1802; he resided at such places as his service in the Navy called him to and died in New York City, May 8th, 1832, and was buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery, New London, Conn., in Thatcher lot. Lucretia Mumford<sup>8</sup> Thatcher was named after her mother; she was married at the home of her parents, corner of Main and Masonic Streets, New London, and lived there after her marriage and up to the time of her death. Her funeral was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Grint, of St. James' P. E. Church, New London, of which church she had always been a communicant, and she was interred in the Thatcher family lot in Cedar Grove Cemetery. She was left a widow with one child when only 24 years of age; after the death of her father, owing to the advancing years of her mother, she assumed control of the domestic affairs of her mother and sisters and remained until her death the head of the family. She was held in the highest esteem by her contemporaries as well as by the younger generations of her native town. An obituary notice of her in appropriate and touching terms was published in the Churchman of that time. She was baptized and confirmed in the P. E. Church and all of her life she was a constant and consistent communicant of that faith. For many years she was the President of the "Cent Society" of New London, a ladies' charitable organization noted for its good works and for the high character of its members.

KINGS COUNTY, N. Y., WILLS.

CONTRIBUTED BY DAVID McQUEEN,

Supervisor of Reindeering, Office of the Commissioner of Records of the County of Kings.

Very few students of family history realize, that, although the office of Surrogate was not established in Kings County until 1787, and although many of the wills of residents of such County were recorded in New York County (prior to 1754, in the Prerogative Court and subsequent to such date, in the Court of Probate), a great number of such instruments were admitted to probate by the local Court of Sessions and Courts of Common Pleas and are recorded in the various town, and occasionally in the County records.

The following extracts are of wills recorded in Kings County and are contributed with the idea that they may be of value in genealogical research. Most of these records are in the custody of the Commissioner of Records of Kings County.

Attention is called to the fact that no extensive search has been made by the writer and the records contributed do not exhaust the field. An endeavor has been made in these extracts to give all information of genealogical interest.

The foot notes are taken from memoranda compiled by the writer.

Frederick Heber Eaton, President of American Car and Foundry Company, and who was elected a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society on May 6, 1915, died at his residence, Alwyn Court, 182 West 58th Street, New York City, on Friday, January 28, 1916. He became ill of pneumonia early in January, but progressed so favorably that his death was most unexpected. He was buried at Berwick, Pa., his early home, on Monday, January 31, 1916.

Frederick Heber Eaton was born in Berwick, Pa., April 15, 1863, a son of Ralph Hurlburt and Eliza Knapp (Dickerman) Eaton. He was descended from early Colonial stock, his first ancestors on this side of the Atlantic, William and Martha (Jenkins) Eaton, of Staples, County of Kent, England, settling in Watertown, Mass., in 1642, and later removing to Reading, Mass. Among their posterity was Jacob, born in Meredith, N. H., in 1757, who was twice chosen surveyor of highways in that town, served on a committee to draft war resolutions, was appointed to select men for the Continental army, and served in the Revolutionary army under Lieut. Ebenezer Smith, participating in the siege of Fort Ticonderoga. His son, Jacob, born in 1788, served in the War of 1812. His son, Ralph Hurlburt (father of Frederick Heber) was born in Mount Pleasant, Pa., in 1830, engaged extensively in mercantile pursuits, and finally settled in Berwick, Pa.

After completing the education afforded by the public schools of Berwick, Mr. Eaton, in 1880, became identified with the car manufacturing industry and had for many years been a commanding figure therein. He obtained his early experience as Chief Clerk in the office of the Berwick Rolling Mill Company. From 1892 to 1899 he was, successively, Secretary, Vice-President and President of the Jackson & Woodin Manufacturing Co., of Berwick. In 1899 he was an important factor in the formation of the American Car and Foundry Company, a consolidation of many of the largest car building companies in the United States, and one of the largest industrial organizations in the country to-day. Mr. Eaton served as its Vice-President until June, 1901, when he was chosen its President and Chairman of its Executive Committee, which offices he continuously held from that time until his death.

In 1896 Mr. Eaton was elected as Presidential Elector in Pennsylvania on the McKinley-Hobart ticket.

Mr. Eaton was a Director of the American Agricultural Chemical Co., American Beet Sugar Co., Columbia Trust Co., Hoyt & Woodin Manufacturing Co., National Surety Co., Seaboard National Bank, Sligo & Eastern Railroad Co.; Chairman of the Board of the American Car and Foundry Export Co., and a Trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

He also was a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Society in New York, Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, Economic Club, American Geographical Society, American Academy of Political and Social Science, Academy of Political Science, Peace Society of New York, Navy League of the United States, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and the National Security League.

Mr. Eaton was a member of many clubs, including Metropolitan Club, Union Club, Union League, Automobile Club of America, New York Athletic Association, Railroad Club, City Midway Club, City Lunch Club and India House—all of New York; and the Union League of Philadelphia.

His favorite recreations were golf and fishing, and he was identified with the Deal (N. J.) Golf Club, of which he was President; Sleepy Hollow Country Club, Oakland Golf Club, Rumson Country Club, Garden City Golf Club, Blind Brook Golf Club, Beaverkill Stream Club and South Side Sportsmen's Club of Long Island.

Mr. Eaton is survived by his widow, Elizabeth Furman Eaton, and a daughter, Mrs. Clarence G. Crispin, of Berwick.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS.

BY GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON, JR.

The following letters throw considerable light upon the administration of the Quartermaster's Department of the Continental Army in the State of New York, by Col. Hugh Hughes, D. Q. M. General for State of New York, and Colonel Udney Hay, State Agent for New York, and contain a number of names of those drafted from the Line and employed in the Q. M. General's Department hitherto neglected. All these men took an active part in securing the freedom of the Colonies from British rule, although their work in the humbler ranks of the Continental Army was confined to furnishing the material means for maintaining the fighting line in food, shelter and clothing.

For such work they were liable to arrest and imprisonment at the hands of the English Army and therefor are entitled, as much as the soldiers of the militia and the Continent, to the names of Patriots.

Fishkill, 31st Oct., 1780.

Sir:

Agreeable to your request I send you enclosed the return of Assistant State Agents, in which you will find the county allotted each ass't as well as the different articles he is instructed to purchase and their places of abode. If you should think of any other return that may be requisite please make a demand and I shall, if in my power, comply therewith and am, with respect, Sir,

Your most obedt servt

Col. Hughes.†

EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y.

Copied from the manuscript record of the late REV. THEODORE A. LEGGETT by A. HATFIELD, JR.

NOTE.

The numerous omission of dates and lack of information that will be found in the text of the genealogy is largely due to the limited time in which these records were prepared. If the various members of the Leggett family or other interested parties will forward such missing data to the compiler, care of the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Society, 226 W. 58th St., New York, it will be greatly appreciated, as the object of the hasty publication of this genealogy was primarily for the securing of such information, and not as a complete genealogy.

The numerous corrections are due partly to the difficult chirography of the Rev. Theodore A. Leggett, and partly to the fact that it was not until the record had been printed that the accuracy of the manuscript was questioned, and a careful checking and verification was required. Many of these corrections have been eliminated in the reprint which it was found advisable to make, so that it will not be necessary for the readers to be put to the annoyance of referring to the corrections.

The length of the corrections is also partly due to the additional information that came to us after each instalment was printed.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.

Vol. 44, p. 236, line 30-33, should read: .... of the manor of West Farms. Excepting a few small families which have settled in the United States at various later dates, nearly all who bear the name Leggett in all parts of this country, though particularly in the middle and western states, are scions of the old Westchester stock.

Vol. 44, p. 238, line 1-5 should read: The question of the boundary line was supposedly settled in 1683, the two provinces having agreed on a definite boundary, but the dispute was again opened later. In 1725 a survey was begun, which was completed in 1731, and the boundary then fixed remained unquestioned until 1855, when, the old survey marks having disappeared, the question of taxes and jurisdiction near the line became very troublesome. To remedy this, a new survey of the lines as fixed by the survey of 1731 was made, and was finally ratified by Congress in the session of 1880-81. (Baird's History of Rye gives an excellent summary of this dispute.)

42. CLARKE—CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.

Correcting and adding to the New York branches of the Descendants of Thomas Clarke, by Samuel C. Clark, Boston, 1869.

Compiled by Alfred L. Holman, 219 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Thomas<sup>1</sup> and Susanna (Ring) Clarke had at least five children, two of whom were William and Andrew.

WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> CLARKE, b. 1639 (sic); m. (1) March 1, 1659, Sarah Wolcott, who was killed by the Indians with several of her children in the garrison house by Eel River, March 18, 1676; m. (2) probably at Saybrook (record is on both Saybrook and Plymouth books), March 7, 1677-8, Hannah Griswold, b. Saybrook, Conn., Dec. 11, 1658; d. Plymouth, Mass., Feb. 21, 1687-8; dau. of Francis Griswold; m. (3) at Plymouth, Aug. 3, 1692, Abiah Wilder; d. Middleboro, Mass., Nov. 2, 1725, aged 69 years (g. s.).

William and Hannah (Griswold) Clarke had four children, which are given in Plymouth Vital Records, as follows:

Sarah, b. June 19, 1678.

William, b. June 7, 1682.

Nathaniel, b. June 1, 1684.

Samuel, b. Dec. 8, 1687.

(Desc. of Thomas Clarke and also Plymouth Vital Records.)

"Hannah The Wife of Mr. William Clarke Deceased on the 21st of February 1687-8 being: Entered into the 29th year of her age." (Plymouth Recs., Mayflower Desc., 15-214.)

William Clarke m. Hannah Griswold, March 7, 1677 (ibid., 13-203).

William Clarke m. Hannah Griswold, March 7, 1677-8 (Saybrook Records, Register 4-137).

I believe the foregoing Nathaniel Clarke, b. June 1, 1684, was the Nathaniel Clarke of Lyme.

There are at least two authorities who state that Nathaniel Clarke of Lyme gave a deed in 1726 to his brother Thomas Clarke of Harwich. William<sup>3</sup> Clarke of Plymouth, by his first wife, Sarah Wolcott, had one son, Thomas, who survived the massacre on Eel River in 1676, but was badly wounded and having had a silver plate inserted in his head was known as "Silver headed Thomas." I have not been able to find out where this man lived, but as the father, William,<sup>2</sup> lived at one time in Harwich I see no reason to think that this may not be the man referred to in the deed in 1726.

A deed given by Thomas Clarke, Sr., to his son William and "to my Daughter Abiah his wife" absolutely settles the question that William with wife Abiah were his son and daughter.

As to the date of birth of William<sup>2</sup> I am inclined to think that the date given as 1639 is simply a guess and that probably this William was the William Clarke who deposed on Oct. 15, 1661, aged "twenty seven years or thereabouts" (Mayflower Desc., 15-244), which would make him born about 1634-5.

The Descendants of Thomas Clarke make the Nathaniel who gave a deed in 1726 to his brother Thomas Clarke of Harwich as another man, but attention is asked to his children, which will, I think, bear me out in my contention.

The children of William<sup>3</sup> Clarke were as follows, by first wife:

Thomas, also some others who were massacred.

By second wife:

Sarah.
William.
Nathaniel.
Samuel.

By third wife:

Hannah.

The children of Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> Clarke (Andrew,<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>3</sup>) were, by first wife:

Barnabas, Elisha, Abigail, John and Isaac (b. 1723-31).

By second wife:

Elisha, Winifred, Lydia, Solomon, Enoch, Thacher and Mary (b. 1749-56).

This Nathaniel<sup>3</sup> Clarke was b. in 1692.

"He appears to have removed to Lyme in Connecticut, and to have lived there for a time, as in a deed to his brother, Thomas Clarke, of Harwich, he styles himself 'of Lyme.' This was in 1726. How long he remained there is not known, but there is reason to think he left children in that town. (Footnote: Eliza Clarke, of Lyme, who married Joseph Hull, of Derby, Conn., in 1749, and was the mother of Gen. William Hull, was in the habit of asserting her descent from Thomas Clarke, the mate of the Mayflower, who landed on Clarke's Island in 1620. She was daughter of William and Hannah Clarke, of Lyme). He, however, returned to Harwich, for an original document, in the nature of an agreement, between John Dillingham and the three brothers, Thomas, Scotto, and Nathaniel Clarke, in the year 1735 styles them of Harwich." (Desc. of Thomas Clarke.)

I feel absolutely certain that a great mistake is made in the foregoing and that it is proved on the face of it, for the Nathaniel Clarke, son of Andrew<sup>2</sup> did not have a son William, as is clearly shown by the list of children that have been given.

I therefore state without fear of contradiction that the line is through William<sup>2</sup> Clarke.

NATHANIEL<sup>3</sup> CLARKE, son of William<sup>2</sup> and Hannah (Griswold) Clarke, was b. in Plymouth, Mass., June 1, 1684, and d. in Lyme, Conn., about 1749, his will being dated June 3, 1746, and proved Feb. 10, 1748-9. In his will he mentions sons Eleazer, to whom he gives land and "use and improvement of some pasture;" Nathaniel, this same pasture land in fee "which I have herein given the said Eleazer the use of for four years after my Decease;" adding "it is to be understood that I give the Last piece of Pasture Land mentioned to my said son Nathaniel Clark upon Condition Condition (sic) that the said Nathaniel Clark Shall within Seven years next after my Decease, pay to my Grandson Nun Clark the son of Thomas Clark of said Lyme the sum of one hundred pounds old Tenner bills." "I give to my daughter Sarah (the wife of Jasper Peck of said Lyme) all my Bedding and household Goods." "I give and bequeath to all my Grandchildren that shall be living at my Decease, that is the children of all my sons and the children of my said Daughter and Including the children of the afore said Eleazer Clark the Remainder of my Estate to be Equally Divided between them after my Debts & Funeral charges are paid." "And as to my other Sons Not Mentioned here by name (viz) John Clark, Thomas Clark, Samuel Clark, and William Clark to whom I have not here Immediately given my Estate to; I have already given them their Portion in Lands and other Estate and I do hereby appoint my two afore said named sone (viz) Thomas Clark and Eleazer Clark the Executors of this my last will and Testament."

I have not been able as yet to find the name of the wife of Nathaniel Clarke.

Attention is called to the fact that by the foregoing will we have the names of the children of Nathaniel Clark as follows:

John, Thomas, Samuel, William, Nathaniel, Eleazer and Sarah, and it is interesting to note these names in connection with those of the children of William<sup>2</sup> Clarke, as follows: Thomas, Sarah, William, Nathaniel and Samuel. It must be admitted that it gives additional weight to the contention I have made.

In marriages of First Church, Lyme (Early Conn. Marriages, 3-132), are the following:

Sarah Clark & Jasper Peck, Nov. 25, 1731.

William Clark & Hannah Peck, Nov. 30, 1731.

Nathaniel Clark, Jr., & Lydia Peck, July 10, 1735.

Eleazer Clark of Lyme & Sarah Clark of Nantucket, Oct. 10, 1741.

Without fear of contradiction the foregoing persons of the Clark name may be stated to have been the children of Nathaniel<sup>18</sup> Clarke. It will be noted that here we have the William and Hannah Clark, parents of Eliza Clark, who married Joseph Hull, already referred to.

THOMAS<sup>4</sup> CLARK, son of Nathaniel Clarke, was probably born in Lyme, Conn., and he died in same place in 1766; his will being dated Jan. 23, 1766, and proved Feb. 17, 1766. He m. Nov. 25, 1730, Rebecca Watrous, b. Lyme, Feb. 10, 1710-11; d. after 1766; daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth (Bronson) Watrous. Thomas Clark in his will speaks of "wife Rebeckah;" "son Isaac Clark of Spencertown in the province of New York;" "son Watrous Clark "who sailed on a voyage to sea;" "As to my well beloved and dutyfull Son Nun Clark of Hebron, in the County of Hartford, I have already given him his portion by Deed and otherway to the full of his part or portion;" son Thomas Clark; "son Lot Clark who has gone to sea sundry ywars;" daughter Rebecca Clark.

Thomas and Rebecca (Watrous) Clark had six children, their third child being

NUN<sup>6</sup> CLARK, b. Lyme, July 3, 1736 (Lyme Vit. Recs. in Register 23-428); d. in Hebron, Conn., Nov. 26, 1766. (It can be positively stated that his name was Nun, not Nan, as stated in Register 23-428). He had wife Ann. They had at least three children, as follows:

Watrous, son of Nun Clarke & his wife, bap. Aug. 17, 1760; Hope, child of Nun Clarke & his wife, bap. April 19, 1761; Annie, Daughter of Nun Clark and Ann, his wife, Born June ye 12, 1765.

(Baptisms are from the First Church, Lyme; birth is from the the Hebron Vital Records.)

WATROUS<sup>6</sup> CLARK, son of Nun and Ann Clark, was bap. in Lyme, Aug. 17, 1760; m. Sarah, dau. of James and Sarah Sexton, b. in Sheffield, Mass., Oct. 25, 1765 (Sheffield Vital Rec.). Their marriage is said to have taken place in Hillsdale, N. Y. Their son, LOT<sup>6</sup> CLARK, representative from New York, born in Hillsdale, Columbia County, New York, May 23, 1788; moved with parents to Otsego County in 1796; pursued academic studies; studied law, and was admitted to the Bar June 11, 1816, and practiced in Norwich, N. Y., and later in Lockport and Buffalo; was projector of first wire cable bridge over the Niagara chasm; was commissioner of the United States land office in Lockport for many years; district attorney of Chenango County, 1822-1823; elected to the Eighteenth Congress (March 4, 1823-March 3, 1825). Again served as district attorney of Chenango County, 1828-1836; died in Buffalo, New York, December 18, 1862.

PALMER.....WILLIAM LINCOLN PALMER

1. William Palmer (the immigrant ancestor), b. .... (if he was the William Palmer, gentleman, who is named in the 1610 rent roll of Ormesby Manor (see N. E. H. G. Register, vol. 69, pp. 342-5), he was probably of full age on that date and hence was born as early as 1589 or previous thereto), at ..... (probably at or near Great Ormesby, Co. Norfolk, Eng.); d. .... (between 10:1:1645 (when he deeded to his daughter Martha (Palmer) Sherman) and Oct. 6, 1647) (when his son Christopher (in behalf of Ann, widow of William Palmer) deeds William Palmer's house and lands in Newbury, Mass.), at Hampton, N. H. (presumably); m. (certainly once and perhaps twice) (1) ..... at ..... to ..... b. ....; d. ....; at ..... m. (2) ..... at ..... to Ann ..... b. ....; d. ....; at ..... d. Oct. 18, 1665, at Newbury, Mass. She, Ann (.....) Palmer, widow of William Palmer, m. a second time March 21, 1647 (the published vital records of Newbury, Mass., vol. II, p. 401, states that this marriage took place in 1649, but the deed of Oct. 6, 1647, signed by Ann "Plomer" shows her to have been Francis Plumer's wife in 1647) to Francis Plumer, b. .... (about 1602, he was 71 years old at death), at .....; d. Jan. 17, 1672-3, at Newbury, Mass. Francis Plumer m. a second time Nov. 20, 1665, at Newbury, Mass., to Beatrice Canterbury, b. ....; d. ....; at .....; d. ...., at Nov. ....

Res. From the deed signed by William Palmer 10:1:1645 in favor of his dau. Martha (Palmer) Sherman. It appears that William Palmer either for himself (or as a representative of his dau. Martha) had land interests at one time in Great Ormesby, Co. Norfolk, Eng. By reference to N. E. H. G. Register, vol. 69, pp. 342-5, we see that a William Palmer, gentleman, was in 1610 a holder of a lease of land, part of the Manor of Ormesby, in Ormesby, Eng. This fact taken in connection with William Palmer's deed of 10:1:1645, leads to the strong conviction that our William Palmer came from Ormesby or thereabouts. In the published lists of passengers on the Fortune from London in July, 1621, arriving in this country Nov. 21, 1621, (see N. E. H. G. Register, vol. 1, p. 121, and vol. 31, p. 179), there was a William Palmer, whose first wife Frances ..... followed him over on the ship Ann, arriving in 1631. This William Palmer married a second wife by whom he had two children, Henry and Bridget; son William, b. by his first wife Frances ..... m. in 1631 to Elizabeth Hodgkins at Scituate, Mass. Neither this William Palmer, Senior nor junior, could have been our William Palmer of Hampton, N. H. Hotten in his published lists of Emigrants to America, pp. 104, 127 and 467, gives the following:—p. 104, William Palmer, aged 18, sailed July 6, 1635, on the ship Paula of London, Leonard Betts, master, bound for Virginia; p. 127, William Palmer, aged 17, sailed Aug. 21, 1635, on the ship Thomas, Henry Taverner, master, bound for Virginia; p. 467, William, ye sonne of John Palmer, buried Sept. 7, 1695 in ye parish of St. Georges, Barbadoes. Neither of these three William Palmers could have been our William Palmer of Ormesby, Eng., and Hampton, N. H., as the first two were born respectively in 1617 and 1618, and our William Palmer's son Christopher was born as we know in 1626; and there is no connection whatever suggested between the Barbadoes William Palmer and our William Palmer. We are compelled to conclude that our William Palmer came over to this country in some year subsequent to 1620, which year is as yet undetermined, and was of Watertown, Mass. in 1637, and of Newbury, Mass. in 1637. He was a grantee and one of the first settlers of Hampton, N. H., in 1638. In the rent roll of Ormesby Manor, Co. Norfolk, Eng., above referred to we find the following names among those who held leases or paid rent for lands pertaining to that manor in 1610, viz:—Henry Dow, William Estow, Robert and William Marston, John, Thomas and William Thomas, Robert Page and William Palmer, all of whom are believed to have arrived in 1610. Each and every one of these names appear on the lists of grantees or first settlers of Hampton, N. H., in the History of Hampton, N. H., by Dow, we see that Henry Dow had a license issued to him to emigrate to America on April 11, 1637, and he is said to have come from Ormesby, Eng. In the above quoted deed of 10:1:1645, William Palmer of Hampton, N. H., deeds all his land in Hampton, N. H., and Newbury, Mass., to his daughter Martha (Palmer) Sherman in consideration of her release to him of her interest in parcel of land in Great Ormesby, Eng. In view of the above cited facts it would seem probable that all of the above mentioned individuals left Ormesby or the vicinity thereof at or about the same time, 1636-7; and that on account of some previous agreement, or due to their former friendship one with another, they all settled on the new grant in Hampton, N. H. William Palmer was one of the original grantees of this town in 1638; his house lot was between the lot of William Estow and that of John Moulton and his house stood about where the Leavitt house stood in 1903. He was made freeman March 13, 1639, and was allotted 100 acres on Dec. 24, 1639, and three shares of common land in 1645. He was alive 10:1:1645, as shown by above referred to deed; he was dead Oct. 6, 1647, as is shown by above referred to deed of that date. William Palmer was a commissioner for minor trials and also a lot lawyer in Hampton, N. H. He contracted with the town of Hampton, N. H., in 1640, for his son Stephen to care for a herd of calves; his son Edward had land granted to him in 1641.

Children, 5 (Palmer): whether by a first wife whose parentage is not now known or by a second wife who was also his widow, i. e. Ann (.....) Palmer, we do not know; but from the fact that in the deed of 10:1:1645, his wife does not join, it is thought that his children were by another wife than Ann (.....) Palmer, viz:—(1) Martha, b. .... probably in 1620 or earlier; d. Feb. 7, 1702-3, at Watertown, Mass.; m. .... 1636-7, to John Sherman of Watertown, Mass., b. .... bapt. Great Horkesley, Eng., Sept. 3, 1612; d. Jan. 25, 1690-1, at Watertown, Mass. (2) Edward, he had land granted to him in Hampton, N. H., in 1641 and was then living there on the Exeter Road near the old Neal house. (3) Stephen, his father contracted 160 for him to tend a Shalpleigh house in Hampton, N. H., in 1641. (4) Deborah, b. .... d. .... b. ....; d. .... m. Jan. 25, 1677, to Deborah Batchelder and lived in Hampton, N. H., on his father's homestead; he bought in 1661 Martha Sherman's interest in William Palmer's estate.

2. Christopher Palmer, b. .... about 1626, at ..... Eng. (probably at or near Great Ormesby, Eng.); d. June 30, 1690, aged 73 years, at Hampton, N. H.; m. Nov. 7, 1650, at ..... to Susannah Hilton† (dau. of Edward† and his first wife ..... (.....) Hilton, of Dover and Exeter, N. H.), b. .... 1633 (or 1634), at .....; d. Jan. 9, 1715-16 (or 1716-17), aged 82 and a widow, at Hampton, N. H.

Res. Christopher Palmer came over to this country probably with his father and settled in Hampton, N. H., where he lived and died. Edward Hilton, the father of his wife, was b. .... at ..... (London, Eng., possibly, as the record seems to indicate that he was a fishmonger there); d. .... (probably in 1670 or in 1671, as the administration of his estate was granted to Edward, William, Samuel and Charles Hilton. His inventory was dated March 9 and 10, 1670-1, and amounted to £2,304 00, and was signed by Samuel Dalton, Antipas Maverick, Robert Burnham, William Follett and William Moore.—Christopher Palmer at the same time made claim to a part of the estate in behalf of two sisters of the administrators, who were also daughters of the deceased) at Exeter, N. H., probably. He came over to this country from London, Eng., in which city he was a fishmonger, and was in Dover, N. H., as early as 1621, in which town he remained until about 1639, when he removed to Exeter, N. H., where he owned a house as early as Dec., 1639. He was a leading man in Exeter, and was a selectman there 1645-1652, inclusive; he was prominent in the church affairs of the town. He m. (1) ..... at ..... to ..... b. ....; d. ....; at ..... Her parentage is not known. It would seem from the dates of birth of children, that he was given to her by her father, that he must have married first after his arrival in this country, but we have no record of his first marriage nor the death of his first wife who was the mother of his children. His first marriage and the birth of his children took place during the time that he was known to have lived at Dover, N. H. He m. (2) ..... (after July 6, 1650, as on that date his second wife was the wife of James Treworthy), at ..... to Catherine (Shapleigh) Treworthy (daughter of Alexander Shapleigh and sister of Nicholas Shapleigh and widow of James Treworthy, whom she married at Kingware, Eng., March 16, 1659), b. .... at ..... d. May 29, 1676, at Exeter, N. H.; she made a nuncupative will which was attested at the Hampton court, May 30, 1676.

GOLD..... WILLIAM ISAAC WALKER

1. Major Nathan Gold, † b. ...., at ...., Eng.; d. Sunday, March 4, 1693-4, at Fairfield, Conn., and is supposed to have been buried in the Old Burying Ground, Fairfield, Conn., along side of the grave of his son Nathan Gold, but no stone marks his grave; m. .... (subsequent to May 22, 1648, the date of death of Edmund Harvey), at .... (Fairfield, Conn., probably), to Martha (.....) Harvey (2nd wife and widow of Edmund Harvey; her parentage is as yet undetermined), b. ....; d. .... (previous to her husband it is thought, as she is not mentioned in his will dated March 1, 1693-4), at .....

Res. He came over to this country in 1646-7 from St. Edmund's Bury (or Bury-St. Edmund's), Co. Suffolk, Eng.; he purchased land in Milford, Conn. in 1647, and again in 1649. On Dec. 31, 1649 (or 1650), he sold his land in Milford and removed to Fairfield, in which town he first bought land in 1652. He was Town Clerk in Fairfield and served as a Judge of the "sea-side" courts. In 1657 he was made an Assistant and was also appointed as a Magistrate by the General Assembly. He, with Governor Wthrop and others (19 in all), joined in the petition to Charles II of England to grant the Charter to Connecticut and he was named an Assistant to the Governor in that new Charter which was granted in 1662. So he was an Assistant under the old and new charters from 1657 until his death in 1693-4. The fact that he was named an Assistant in the Charter of Charles II is ample proof of his standing in the Colony. No gentleman would have been called upon to sign the petition for the Charter, and none would have been named an Assistant in the New Charter, but those who had maintained a high reputation in England before coming to this country. In 1664 he was made Commander-in-Chief of the military forces in Fairfield County to provide against attack by the Dutch. He was a member of the Committee on War in 1665 and was made a Major in 1693 and commanded the Fairfield troops in war against the Indians in 1675. In 1684 he was one of a committee of five sent from Connecticut to New York to congratulate Governor Dongan on his arrival in New York and to settle the boundary dispute between New York and Connecticut. He made his will on March 1, 1693-4, and died at Fairfield, March 4, 1693-4, 3 days after making his will. His death is thus recorded in the Town Records of Fairfield:—"Major Nathan Gold departed this life into the mansions of rest upon the Day of Rest, on the Sabbath, it being the 4th of March, 1693-4." Almost from the moment of his arrival in Fairfield for nearly 40 years he had been a leader in political, military and ecclesiastical affairs of the town and colony. No man in the country was more respected or honored than he, and none in New England stood higher in the esteem of the Lords of the Council Chamber at Whitehall. In his will he mentions his only son Nathan, his daughters Sarah (wife of John Thompson of Fairfield); Deborah (wife of George Clark of Milford); Abigail (wife of Jonathan Selleck of Stamford), and Martha (widow of John Selleck). The will does not mention an elder daughter who in Dr. Josiah Harvey of Fairfield, as she had died childless before her father's death. No mention is made of his wife who also died before him. Schenck's History of Fairfield, vol. I, p. 370, states, "The name of his first wife is not known." If he was married previous to his marriage to the widow of Edmund Harvey there is at present no evidence of the fact; and his wife Martha (.....) Harvey-Gold was certainly the mother of his children.

Children, 6 (Gold): 1 son and 5 daughters, all probably b. in Fairfield, Conn., and all by his wife Martha (.....) Harvey-Gold: (1) a dau. (baptism name not known), b. .... (previous to March 1, 1693-4) (issue of m. Dr. Josiah Harvey of Fairfield, Conn.). (2) Sarah, b. ...., 1660 (about, see age and date of death); d. John Selleck (son of Major Jonathan and Abigail (Law) Selleck, of Stamford, Conn.), b. ...., at .... ## NOTES.

REAM.—Referring to the article on Norman Bruce Ream, Thos. J. Stewart, the Adjutant-General of Pennsylvania, reports that Mr. Ream was mustered into service of the United States on Oct. 1, 1861, for the period of three years from Nov. 12, 1861, and was appointed Sergeant Nov. 12, 1861; promoted to 2nd Lieutenant Dec., 1862; to 1st Lieutenant May 1, 1864, and mustered out as 1st Lieutenant June 15, 1864, at Bermuda Hundred, Va.

LUDLOW.—Gabriel Ludlow of Frome, Somerset, England, settled in New York in 1690. His descendants have intermarried with many New York families who have been prominent during the Colonial era of the city, as well as since.

A family history of the descendants of Gabriel Ludlow, collected from authentic manuscripts and historical records, has been prepared and is ready for publication. Since it is proposed to publish with it a number of views of family seats and portraits of prominent members of the family, this publication is necessarily expensive. It is desired that descendants of Gabriel Ludlow willing to assist financially in meeting the costs of this publication communicate with the Editor, or with

WM. SETON GORDON, 141 Broadway, New York.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

HISTORY OF THE TOWN OF PRINCETON, MASS., 1759-1915, by Francis Everett Blake. 8vo, cloth, 2 volumes, pp. 428-331+5 pp. of Notes, Additions and Corrections, illustrated, both volumes indexed. Published by the town, 1915. Price, $8.00. Checks to J. D. Gregory, Chairman of History Committee, c/o Miss Susie A. Davis, Librarian, Princeton Library, Princeton, Mass.

This is a first class town history. The first volume is devoted to the narrative history of the place and as such is exhaustive of the subject. The second volume is devoted entirely to genealogical sketches of Princeton families and it is this part of the work that naturally stimulates our praise. The genealogical work is fully and well done and will be greeted as authoritative by the genealogical public. The author of the work is to be congratulated upon the standard excellence of the volumes. Such excellence, however, was to be expected when we consider the excellent work of similar character which has previously issued from his pen. Recommended to all genealogical and historical libraries.

THE LIFE AND VENTURES OF THE ORIGINAL JOHN JACOB ASTOR, by Elizabeth L. Gebhard, of 735 Warren Street, Hudson, N. Y. 8vo, cloth, pp. 321, including index, illustrated. Price, $1.60, postage, 15 cts. Address author as above or John Wanamaker, Tenth Street and Broadway, New York City.

A valuable addition to the history of this socially prominent family in America. It is recommended to all genealogical and biographical societies.

THE HISTORY OF LUDLOW, MASSACHUSETTS, With Biographical Sketches of Leading Citizens, Reminiscences, Genealogies, Farm Histories, and an Account of the Centennial Celebration, June 17, 1874. Second Edition. (First Edition compiled by Alfred Noon, A.M., a former pastor of the town.) Printed by vote of the Town. 1912. Large 8vo, cloth, pp. 592, including index, illustrated. Price, $2.50. Address: Charles S. Browning, Town Treasurer, Ludlow, Mass.

A most interesting and valuable work. It is divided into two parts. Part I deals with the narrative history of this well known town, and Part II contains some 240 pages devoted to biographical sketches of leading citizens and genealogies of Ludlow families and histories of the farm ownership of the localities. The work is heartily recommended to all historical and genealogical libraries.

THE COMINS FAMILY, Descendants of John Comins of Woburn, Mass., by Watson Burdette O'Connor. 1915. 8vo, cloth, pp. 30. Price, 90 cts. Address: Mrs. W. B. O'Connor, 473 Hammon Street, Bangor, Me.

Full of much valuable information concerning this branch of the family. Recommended to genealogical libraries.

WILLARD GENEALOGY, Sequel to Willard Memoir. Materials gathered chiefly by Joseph Willard and Charles Wilkes Walker. Edited and Completed by Charles Henry Pope. Printed for the Willard Family Association, Boston, Mass. 1915. 8vo, cloth, pp. 768, including copious index, illustrated with 3 reproductions and 18 portraits of family interest. Price, $7.00, postage, 10 cts. Address: publishers, Murray and Emery, Kendall Square, Cambridge, Mass. Price of "Willard Memoir," the predecessor of this work, $5.00, postage, 10 cts. Address: Miss Susanna Willard, No. 2 Berkeley Place, Cambridge, Mass.

The above described work, which is a sequel to the Willard Memoir published in 1858 (and of which a second edition has been published), is a worthy successor to its well known predecessor. It is a first class genealogical production constructed along standard lines and contains the English Ancestry of the family back to Richard Willard of Brenchley, who made his will September 18, 1558, and of the immigrant ancestors Simon<sup>1</sup> and George<sup>1</sup> Willard and their American descendants to the 10th generation, inclusive. It is also enriched with an appendix containing notes on Willards as yet not satisfactorily located in the general family tree. Both the "Memoir" and Genealogy should be on the shelves of all genealogical libraries, to which they are most heartily recommended.

GENEALOGY OF THE FOX FAMILY, compiled by William A. Fox. Chicago. Privately printed, 1915. 8vo, cloth, pp. 31, copyrighted. Address: author, No. 120 West Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

An interesting and well constructed genealogy of the descendants of John (1754-1823) and Catherine (1758-1843) (Hummer) Fox, of Amwell, Hunterdon Co., N. J. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

HISTORIC VIRGINIA HOMES AND CHURCHES, by Robert A. Lancaster, Jr. Quarto, cloth, pp. 327, including index, with 316 illustrations. 1915. Philadelphia and London. J. B. Lippincott Co. Price, $7.50, carriage extra. Address: publishers, Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pa.

This work includes practically all of the principal Colonial homes of historic interest in the State of Virginia now standing, and also many which have been destroyed, together with churches and other buildings of historic interest. It is a positive pleasure to know that we have at our hands a volume in which there is presented to the eye pictures of so much, that is of interest historically in Virginia. From a genealogical standpoint the volume is of immense interest, as it will become a valued book of reference in genealogical compilations, as a work wherein the original homesteads of many of noted Virginia families may be found pictorially presented. Recommended to all historical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

The author of this valuable contribution to the library of genealogies of American families has served such an apprenticeship in genealogical writing that we are in no way surprised to see emanate from his pen this standard genealogical work, which in all particulars is of uncriticisable excellence. The Quinby family is much indebted to the author for this work, and the author himself must feel justified pride in the accomplishment of what has been a laborious task, even if it was at the same time a congenial occupation. We likewise call attention to the excellence of the paper, press work and general get-up of the volume, which is a credit to the publishers. The importance of the volume is such that we urge its purchase by all genealogical libraries here and in England.

GENEALOGY OF THE HALL FAMILY, compiled by Omar O. Hall, M.D., of Milford, Ill. 1914. 8vo, paper, pp. 11. Price not stated. Address: author, Milford, Ill.

This is a small contribution to the Hall genealogy giving a few lines of descent from William Hall, who married — Smith, and who is said to have come to this country with Braddock's Army and fought with him at Fort Duquesne in 1755. Recommended to genealogical libraries.

THE HISTORY OF MONTGOMERY CLASSIS, REFORMED CHURCH IN AMERICA, to which is added sketches of Mohawk Valley men and events of early days, the Iroquois, Palatines, Indian Missions, Tryon County Committee of Safety, Sir William Johnson, Joseph Brant, Arendt Van Curler, General Herkimer, Reformed Church in America, Doctrine and Progress, Revolutionary Residences, etc., by Rev. W. N. P. Dailey. 8vo, stiff paper cover, pp. 198, illustrated. Price, $1.06, postage prepaid. Address: author, No. 129 Van Vranken Avenue, Schenectady, N. Y.

A book bound to appeal not only to the constituency of the Reformed Church of the Classis of Montgomery, but equally as interesting to all who are in any way interested in the history of the Mohawk Valley. Aside from the ecclesiastical details the work will prove to be an illumination of the many important events and persons who were a part of the early development of the valley of the "Mohagues." Many illustrations abound throughout the work of the churches old and new and of the ministers of yesterday, etc. The 6 chapters of the work contain 95 pages on Montgomery County and Classis; General Montgomery; illustrated history of each the thirty-five churches now in the Classis; 25 pages on the history of fifty extinct churches and fifteen "Wyckofite" churches; a chapter on the churches of Cayuga and Geneva Classes, once affiliated with the Classis of Montgomery; a chapter on the Biography of Four Hundred Ministers, covering the dates 1723-1915; a chapter on the Historical Notes: Church Emblem: Dutch Church in Mohawk Valley; the Palatines; the Iroquois; Missions among Mohawk Valley Indians; Committee of Safety of Tryon County; Border Wars of the Mohawk; Battle of Stone Arabia; "True Reformed church"; Arent Van Curler; Sir William Johnson, etc.; and a final chapter on the churches listed alphabetically, chronologically, etc., copious indices to all the chapters.

It has taken Mr. Dailey about 5 years to complete this work. In that time he has accomplished more than the illustrious Dr. Corwin did, although his Manuals were over 40 years in process of writing and publication. This history will supersede Dr. Corwin's Manual as the recognized authority of the history of the Classis of Montgomery. The author would, if possible, have produced even better results if he had depended more upon documentary sources of information, such as the classical records at New Brunswick, N. J.

It is a work of notable excellence and is recommended to all historical and genealogical libraries.

THE STORY OF OLD FORT PLAIN AND THE MIDDLE MOHAWK VALLEY (New York). A review of Mohawk Valley history from 1609 to the time of the writing of this book (1912-1914), treating particularly of the central region comprised in the present Counties of Herkimer, Montgomery and Fulton. Especial attention is given to western Montgomery County and the region within a twenty mile radius of the Revolutionary fortification of old Fort Plain, including the Canajoharie and Palatine districts of then Tryon County, written, compiled and edited by Nelson Greene. 8vo, cloth, pp. 399, with 5 maps and table of contents. 1915. Price, $1.50. Address: publishers, O'Connor Brothers, Fort Plain, N. Y.

This is the only Mohawk Valley history now in print, which fact in connection with the excellence of the work itself, will render it most welcome. It contains military statistics of the French and Indian Wars, the Revolution, the War of 1812-14 and of the Civil War. The section on Mohawk Valley chronology is the most interesting, as is also the section devoted to biographies of noted Mohawk Valley men including famous Revolutionary figures. Recommended to historical and genealogical libraries.

FOX FAMILY NEWS, edited by Howard Fox, No. 616 Madison Avenue, N. Y. City. Vol. IV, 1915. 8vo, cloth, pp. 30. No price stated.

The third volume of this series we had the pleasure of noticing in the April, 1915, issue of the RECORD. The volume continues the work and as before stated will, we hope, in the future form the foundation of a published standard Fox family genealogy. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

A HISTORY OF WATAUGA COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, with sketches of prominent families by John Preston Arthur (author of History of Western North Carolina). 8vo, cloth, pp. 364, including index, illustrated, published 1915, by the Everett Waddey Co., Richmond. Price, $1.50 net, postage prepaid. Address: author, Boone, N. C.

A noteworthy contribution to North Carolina history, giving full history of this particular section of that State, to which is added some 78 pages devoted to sketches of the prominent county families, which are replete with biographical and genealogical information. Recommended to all historical and genealogical libraries.

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA, A History, from 1730 to 1913, by John Preston Arthur. 8vo, cloth, pp. 710, including index, illustrated, published by the Edward Buncombe Chapter of the Daughters of the D. A. R., of Asheville, N. C. 1914. Price, $3.00 net, postage prepaid. For sale by the author, Boone, N. C., or W. L. Bryan, Boone, N. C.

A most excellent and exhaustive history of the western section of this old Southern State, well told in a most readable narrative style, yet without omitting none of the essential facts of a statistical compilation. The traditional narrative relative to Nancy Hanks and Abraham Lincoln to which some 13 pages are devoted is most interesting to the general reader, as is likewise the section devoted to the "Trail of Daniel Boone." The description of Kirk's "Camp Vance" raid throws new historical light upon the Union sympathies of North Carolina during the Civil War. A thoroughly satisfactory and readable volume. Recommended to all historical and general reference libraries.

PAULL-IRWIN. A Family Sketch by Elisabeth Maxwell Paull, of 171 N. Walnut Street, Blairsville, Pa. 8vo, cloth, pp. 198, with table of contents (but no name index), with 53 illustrations of family interest. Privately printed, 1915. Limited edition of 100 copies, copyrighted. Price, $5.00 to members of the family and libraries.

This work is more in the nature of chronicles of the family and its connections than a regular genealogy. It gives a sketch of the family of Admiral John Paul "Jones," and then the record of Hugh Paull, the first American ancestor, and records of his descendants, both biographical and genealogical, and notes upon the allied families of Findlay, Smith, Van Lear, Ramsey, Cochran and Brown. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

THE DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE HUSE SHINER (born June 20, 1797, near Winchester, Frederick Co., Va.; died August 27, 1856, near Lyndon, Whiteside Co., Ill.), compiled and typewritten at Kansas City, Mo., by Harry Lawrence Shiner, Passenger Agent, Union Pacific R. R., Topeka, Kan. Manuscript (typewritten), 8 x 11 inches, pp. 31.

A most excellent compilation and should be put in printed form and issued for the benefit of the public at large. We are much pleased to possess the work in its manuscript form. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

HISTORY OF THE HUBBELL FAMILY, containing genealogical records of the ancestors and descendants of Richard Hubbell from A. D. 1086 to A. D. 1915, by Walter Hubbell. Second edition, quarto cloth, pp. 406, illustrated with family portraits, cuts of Hubbell Arms and other illustrations of family interest, fully indexed. Published by the author, New York, 1915. Price, $10.00. Address: George W. Hubbell, General Counsel, N. Y. Life Insurance Co., 346 Broadway, N. Y. City.

This is the second edition of the work published by the same author in 1881. The first edition was an authority on the Hubbell Family up to now, when it is superseded by this new work, which is much amplified and brought down to date. It contains some 193 pages devoted to history of the family in England and America and some 166 pages devoted to genealogical records of eleven generations of the Descendants of Richard<sup>1</sup> Hubbell of Fairfield Co., Conn. (1626-1699). The Appendix contains a record of Benedict Hubbell of Germany and his descendants and much additional material of genealogical interest. Recommended heartily to all of the Hubbell blood and genealogical libraries.

A SURVEY OF THE SCOVELS OR SCOVILLS IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA; Seven Hundred Years of History and Genealogy by Homer Worthington Brainard. 8vo, cloth, pp. 586, including 63 pages of name and place indexes and 16 illustrations of family interest. Price, $6.50, postpaid. Address: author, No. 150 Warrenton Avenue, Hartford, Conn.

The first two chapters (132 pages) of this work are devoted to the English history of this family and is the result of original investigation. Chapter III (354 pages) is devoted to the genealogical record of John Scovell (the emigrant ancestor) and his descendants to the 9th generation, inclusive. Chapter IV (10 pages) is devoted to records of unconnected families. Chapter V (15 pages) contains additional English notes on the family and five generations of male descendants of Arthur Scovell of Boston, Mass.

The volume owes its existence to the interest and generosity of the late Frederick John Kingsbury of Waterbury, Conn. The fact that Mr. Brainard was engaged to edit the volume was, in advance, an assurance of the production of a standard work, and as such we recommend it most heartily to all genealogical and biographical libraries.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL MISCELLANY, Early Settlers of New Jersey and their Descendants. John E. Stillwell, M. D. New York. Vol. IV. 1916. Quarto, cloth, pp. 410. Price, $5.00 per volume, express prepaid. Address Harrison McNear, 9 West 49th Street, New York City.

The appearance of the above book adds another volume to Dr. Stillwell's monumental work. What Savage is to New England and Austin is to Rhode Island, Dr. Stillwell will be to New Jersey, New York, Long Island and Staten Island. Two years have gone by since Volume III of his Miscellany was issued and the short time which has elapsed between the last issues encourages the belief that the other forthcoming volumes will follow in rapid succession. Dr. Stillwell takes up in detail, and quite exhaustively, the families of Morford, Morris, Mott, Mount, Murphy, Osborne, Potter, Salter of Monmouth Co., and New Hampshire, Seabrook of Monmouth Co., South Carolina and Maryland, Shepherd, Spicer, and Stout. There is likewise a valuable addendum and a very copious Index. The fullness and accuracy with which Dr. Stillwell sets forth his historical and genealogical facts make these books particularly valuable to societies and students of family history. References and extracts from his books are accepted as final authority by registrars of historical and genealogical societies, which is conclusive proof of the painstaking effort that Dr. Stillwell has taken and their high estimate of his accuracy. No assertion he makes is ever likely to be contradicted. That Dr. Stillwell should have been able to produce these volumes in the midst of great professional activity, with only the assistance of his friend, Harrison A. McNear, is illuminating evidence that the best physicians are those who ride a hobby. Considerable new material has been contributed to every family of which he writes, perhaps more notably to Morris, with its New York affiliations, to Ogborne and to Stout, with its interesting Indian tradition.

FORTHCOMING PUBLICATION.

OYSTER BAY TOWN RECORDS, Vol. I, 1653 to 1690, with an Appendix containing an Historical Sketch by Geo. W. Cocks, and various important public documents. Published by order of the Town under the supervision of Frederick E. Willits, Daniel Underhill and Edward T. Payne, Committee. Compared, annotated and indexed by John Cox, Jr. 8vo, cloth, about 750 pp. Ready for delivery about May 1, 1916. Price, $10.00. Tobias A. Wright, Printer and Publisher, 150 Bleecker Street, New York.

The importance of these records as an addition to our increasing knowledge of the beginnings of our civil and political liberties, will be seen on the appearance of this first volume. The great quantity of land transfers, even down to 1800, show the Puritan influence of Home Rule, which has kept the like documents in the Town records of Connecticut to the present time. The editor's annotations are more in the matter of the civil and political activities of the Town. Great praise is due to the public spirit of a Town which will "rise above the multifarious perplexities of the present to consider and perpetuate the fading records of its past."

VOL. XLVII.

NEW YORK, JULY, 1916.

No. 3

JAMES JUNIUS GOODWIN, LL.D.

BY CAPTAIN RICHARD HENRY GREENE.

Mr. Goodwin, a Life Member of this society since 1890, a member of the Board of Trustees from 1893 to 1909, and a Donor, was born in Hartford, Conn., Sept. 16th, 1835. His early life was spent in his native city. After attending private schools he entered the Hartford High School where he graduated in 1851. He then took a clerkship, after which he went abroad for a year and a half. Returning to the United States in 1859 he became an employee of William A. Sale & Co. of New York City, who were engaged in the Chinese and East India trade. While there he was invited to join the firm of his cousin, John Pierpont Morgan, son of Junius Spencer Morgan, who had left E. D. Morgan & Co. of this city and having gone to England, became a partner in the great banking house of George Peabody & Co. of London. Mr. Goodwin remained with them until the firm was reorganized in 1871 under the title of Drexel, Morgan & Co., at which time he retired from active business. He was engaged, however, in many enterprises where his advice and exertions were always conducive toward the best interests of every undertaking in which he participated.

His ancestry was entirely English and of New England stock. Ozias Goodwin, the emigrant ancestor, came from East Anglia to New England, probably soon after his elder brother, William, who came to Boston on the Lyon in 1632. Ozias<sup>1</sup> was born about 1596 and became one of the first settlers of Connecticut in 1639. He married Mary, daughter of Robert Woodward; their son Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> Goodwin, married Elizabeth, daughter of Daniel and Hannah Warner; their son Ozias<sup>3</sup> Goodwin married Martha Williamson, daughter of Caleb and Mary Cobb, and had Jonathan<sup>4</sup> Goodwin, who married Eunice Alcott, daughter of Joseph and Eunice Collyer. The next generation was James<sup>5</sup> Goodwin, the husband of Eunice Roberts, daughter of Captain Lemuel and Ruth Woodford, he was Captain of the first company of the Governor's Foot Guard at Hartford; their son, James<sup>6</sup> Goodwin,

James<sup>5</sup> Goodwin, like his father, was a military man and served as Major of the Governor's Horse Guards. In his early life he was General Manager of the Hartford Stage Lines running east from the city and, when the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad terminated this enterprise, Goodwin became one of its directors. Mrs. James Goodwin was a sister of Junius Spencer Morgan and their eldest son is the subject of this sketch.

In the ancestry above given Ruth Woodford was a descendant of Rev. John Lothrop of Barnstable, Mass., and also of Governor Thomas Welles of Connecticut; Eunice Collyer was descended from Matthew Grant of Windsor, Conn., the ancestor of General Grant; Sally Spencer traces her lines to Richard Treat, through Honour and John Deming.

James Junius Goodwin had an honorable ancestry, upright and faithful in every position where they were placed, and none of them stood higher or served more usefully than he. He married June 19th, 1873, Josephine Sarah Lippincott of Philadelphia, Pa., daughter of Joshua B. Lippincott and a descendant of Richard of Dorchester, Mass., 1640, Boston, 1644, Plymouth and Rhode Island, who removed to New Jersey where he was a patentee of Shrewsbury in that Colony. Mrs. Goodwin was a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants of New York, being a descendant of Governor William<sup>1</sup> Bradford, Major William<sup>2</sup> Bradford, William<sup>3</sup> Bradford, Jr., John<sup>4</sup> Bradford, Samuel<sup>5</sup> Bradford, Abigail<sup>6</sup> Bradford, who married Caleb Stetson, Mary<sup>7</sup> Stetson, who married Isaac Lobdell, Mary Gray<sup>8</sup> Lobdell, who married Joshua Shaw, Angeline<sup>9</sup> Shaw, who married Seth Craige, Josephine<sup>10</sup> Craige, who married Joshua Ballinger Lippincott. These were Mrs. Goodwin's parents.

Mr. Goodwin was largely identified with Hartford, where he was a member of the Connecticut Historical Society, and its Vice-President for twenty-two years; the Hartford Club; the Society of Colonial Wars; the Sons of the American Revolution; Director of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Hartford Fire Insurance Co.; Holyoke Water Power Co.; Conn. Trust and Safe Deposit Co.; and for many years a Trustee of Trinity College, which in 1910 gave him the degree of LL.D.

His residence in this city was at 11 West 54th Street, and here he was also a member of the New York Historical Society; the Union, City, Century, Metropolitan and Church Clubs. He was a communicant and Warden of Christ Church, Hartford, and both Vestryman and Warden of Calvary Church, N. Y.

They had three children:

Walter L. Goodwin (Yale, '97).

James L. Goodwin (Yale, '05).

Philip L. Goodwin (Yale, '07).

Two cities, many families and a large number of friends will feel a great loss in the death of this man whose life was so modest, quiet, and unassuming, and withal influential.

It is interesting to recall that at the time the Trustees of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society were looking for a new location Mr. Goodwin became interested with the writer in the selection of the present building and offered to contribute towards its purchase. As it proved, the necessity of accepting his aid did not present itself, but opposition to the idea of purchasing was silenced by a quiet word or two on his part. He was a far seeing, judicious, helpful man; no one ever had a better friend. Would there were more such unselfish men to bless the world!

SARATOGA COUNTY, N. Y., EPITAPHS.

GREEN RIDGE CEMETERY, SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.

Communicated by CORNELIUS EMERSON DURKEE, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

This is the largest cemetery in the Town of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and is situated on the southerly side of South Street in the Village of Saratoga Springs.

The northeast corner of the enclosure was originally set apart for the exclusive use of the Roman Catholic element, but it proving insufficient and the lots therein being quickly taken up, a new ground was obtained and dedicated by them, lying on the southwest part of the village. The occupants of the Roman Catholic part of Green Ridge being mostly of Irish birth and not particularly identified with the history of the Village or County, no attempt has been made to gather the inscriptions to be found there, and none from that portion are inserted, except four of the Walworth family.

When Green Ridge was opened as a cemetery, many removals were made from the First or "Sadler" and "Putnam" grounds into the more modern and tasteful enclosure. This fact will account for the existence of many stones in Green Ridge bearing dates long prior to the existence as a cemetery. All of the epitaphs have not been copied into the following list, those of young children having been generally omitted. With this exception the list is complete.

The epitaphs were copied by Mr. E. D. Harris and Mr. C. E. Durkee, October, 1870, Mr. Harris copying the greater part.

GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON.

CONTRIBUTED BY JOHN R. TOTTEN.

George Austin Morrison, son of Alexander and Christian (Lyll) Morrison, was born on Saint Andrew's Day, November 30th, 1832, at "Mondynes," Parish of Fordoun, Kincardineshire, Scotland.

The ancestral home of his forbears was on the Island of Lewes, in the Western Hebrides of Scotland, where families of the Morrison name have flourished since the earliest time. The Morrisons also form a small sept of the great Highland clan of MacDonald of Glengarry, and in spite of their limited number, still preserve a distinct clan tartan and arms.

On the distaff side, Mr. Morrison was related to the ancient families of "Austin," and "Lyll," of Aberdeenshire, and to the "Crab," "Falconer," and "Burns" families of Kincardineshire. He was the great-great-great-great-grandson of James Burnes of Glenbervie, who was also the great-grandfather of Robert Burns the Poet, and thus he and the Scottish bard may claim a common ancestry.

His early education was obtained in the parish schools of Fordoun and Aberdeen. His maternal uncle, George Lyll, of Aberdeen, after whom he was named, desired him to adopt commerce as a vocation. He was consequently apprenticed for five years to the dry goods business of the Lyalls, who had an establishment in Aberdeen and a general store and warehouse at Montego Bay, Jamaica, West Indies.

Owing to this enforced choice of a mercantile career, he was obliged to devote his energies in this direction rather than to applied mechanics, for which he possessed a marked bent. There is every indication that Mr. Morrison would have been a successful civil engineer had his fortune been cast for that profession.

During this period he lived at his Uncle's home, No. 99 Union Street, Aberdeen, subject to the long hours and strict business requirements of the time and the rigid rules of a bachelor's establishment, as administered by a typical Scotch housekeeper, whose tyrannies had to be absolutely endured without right of appeal. Although occupied in business from seven o'clock in the morning until eight o'clock at night, his mechanical and artistic tastes were not entirely dormant and many solitary but pleasant hours were spent in the attic in mechanical studies, drawing, painting and modelling. He constructed at this time, with the aid of a turning lathe, a number of machines and models, some of which still exist and are prized by the members of his family in Scotland. Many of his early drawings, also, have been preserved, evidencing much skill and finish as a draughtsman, and indicating strong artistic talent.

Ambitious of advancing his business career and desiring to widen his knowledge and experience, when twenty years of age, he obtained his Uncle's consent to go to London, and in the Autumn of 1852 took up his residence in that city. There he entered the wholesale dry goods house of Groucock, Copestake Moore & Co., Bow Church Yard, Cheapside, London, a firm holding a high position among British mercantile houses and controlling the English market for certain lines of white goods. Here he spent three and a half active years, and always considered the discipline, training and information obtained during that period to be the foundation of his success in after life.

In 1856 he accepted the offer of a position to take charge of a department in the firm of Cochran & Co., of New York, and setting sail from Glasgow, landed in New York on 4th July, 1856. His sound experience and thorough business training enabled him to at once take the position of European buyer for his American employers and in that capacity he for many years went abroad twice annually—crossing the Atlantic over 110 times. At the outbreak of the Civil War all business came to a standstill and his firm was compelled to discharge many of their salesmen. Sending for Mr. Morrison they informed him that they desired to retain his services, but would be obliged to decrease his salary. Mr. Morrison, hereupon, displayed that singular foresight and strength of character which later made him a leader in the wholesale dry goods world. He informed Messrs. Cochran & Co., that he had saved enough money to enable him to live for a few years and that during the continuance of the hard times he desired to remain with them, but they need pay him no salary. This attitude at once won for him the strong interest of the head of the house, and his salary was never reduced. Later, realizing that the War must some day end and that there would be an immense revival of trade Mr. Morrison went to Mr. Thomas Cochran, the Senior partner, and asked that he be allowed to go abroad, stock up with goods and thus place the firm in a position to avail themselves of the boom at the termination of the War. This sound business sense resulted in the firm securing large profits in 1864 and he was admitted to partnership in 1865. He remained with the firm until 1869 when they merged their business with that of McLean & Stotsbury, under the firm name of Cochran, McLean & Co. He then declined to remain a partner of the new concern and with Mr. John Herriman, a business friend and associate, established the firm of Morrison, Herriman & Co., which did a large and profitable wholesale lace, linen and white goods business for twenty years, until both partners retired in 1889.

Mr. Morrison then became interested in various corporations identified with Wall Street and banking. In 1890 he entered the Board of Directors of the American Cotton Oil Co., soon attaining the office of President and Chairman of the Board, positions he held for over eighteen years. He finally retired from the active control in 1911, but remaining a member of the Executive Committee in an advisory capacity and a member of the Board until his death.

Mr. Morrison's interests were many and varied during this period of his business career, and he held positions of trust and responsibility in a number of successful corporations.

He became identified with the Liberty Insurance Company, of which he was President, and a Director in the Northern Pacific Railroad, the Atlas Portland Cement Co., the Third National Bank and the Hudson River Bank (until it was merged into the Corn Exchange Bank).

He was also at one time President of the N. K. Fairbank Co., of Chicago, President-Commissary of the Holland-American Cotton Oil Co., Vice-President of The Washington Trust Co., Trustee of The Greenwich Savings Bank and a Trustee of the Terminal Warehouse Co. He was a Trustee of the New York Life Insurance Company for twenty years, being for four years a member of the Executive Committee and for sixteen years a member of the Agency and the Finance Committees, acting upon the latter Committee until the date of his death.

After a residence in New York of twenty-seven years he became a citizen of the United States, but like all Scotsmen never ceased to take a lively interest in his native land and in the charitable relief of his less fortunate fellow-countrymen in this City. He was for fifty-two years a member of Saint Andrew's Society of the State of New York, an association established in 1756 to relieve poor Scotsfolk in want and distress, serving as a Manager for many years and eventually becoming its President from 1893-1895, the highest honor in the gift of Scotsmen in this country.

Mr. Morrison was also a Life Member of the New York Historical Society; and the American Hackney Horse Society; a Fellow of the National Academy of Design; a member of the Chamber of Commerce; the Metropolitan Museum of Art; the American Museum of Natural History; the New York Botanical Garden; the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society; the St. George's Society; the Century Association; the Metropolitan Club; the Lawyers Club; the Player's Club; the New York Yacht Club; and the Chicago Club, of Chicago. At his death he was the second oldest member of Holland Lodge of the State of New York.

He died at his residence, No. 151 Central Park West, in this City, on February 26th, 1916, in the eighty-fourth year of his age, revered and esteemed by all who were privileged to claim his friendship.

Throughout his long and successful business career Mr. Morrison was noted for absolute integrity and fairness, for exceptional commercial sense, for tenacity of purpose and for mature and sound judgment in solving the financial problems which came before him. He was a close observer of the character of those with whom he came into contact and an exceptionally able judge of men and their abilities. Although somewhat austere in bearing and reserved in manner, his nature was sensitive and his sympathies warm for those who became his intimates and entered the circle of his home life. He was essentially a merchant, rather than a promoter and he handled those individual companies with which he was connected with a commercial, rather than a speculative policy.

His many trips abroad gave him opportunities to cultivate a naturally artistic taste and he became a shrewd and discriminating critic of painting, sculpture and ceramics, and adorned his home with many objects of art secured in his travels in Europe.

Many tributes were written at his death and the following portions of resolutions adopted in several of the corporations with which he was principally identified serve to emphasize his sterling traits of character and perpetuate his memory:

"He ever exhibited the Scotch traits of character, thrift, honesty and tenacity. Throughout his business career he showed careful attention to detail, good executive ability, and that knowledge of human nature which marks the successful business man of these days."

"His good judgment, sagacity and courage united to make him one upon whom his fellow directors could rely for sound counsel and good advice."

"His wide and accurate knowledge of business conditions, his familiarity with administrative details and his mastery of financial problems made him a wise and valued counselor."

"He was a man of many interests and of catholic spirit and gave freely of his time and means to the advancement of science and art. In his death the company has lost a capable and conscientious advisor and the State and Nation a citizen of unusual character and worth. He was a man of warm sympathies and generous friendships."

"His long and broad experience in commercial and financial affairs was applied to the service of this Company, with devotion and singleness of purpose. In private life Mr. Morrison was active, useful and broad-minded, giving liberally in money and service to philanthropic purposes. He made and retained a broad circle of friends."

"He was a useful citizen, a courtly gentleman, a kind friend and a loyal Scot."

He married on May 26th, 1863, Lucy Anne King, daughter of Esek Clarke and Sarah Coe (McCullen) King, of New Lebanon, New York, and is survived by two sons, George Austin Morrison, Jr., and Charles King Morrison.

THE MILLARD ANCESTRY OF PRESIDENT FILLMORE.

BY FRANKLIN H. GIDDINGS, LL. D.

A degree of historical as of genealogical interest attaches to the names of two Thomas Millards and two John Millards who came to Massachusetts before 1650.

Thomas Milward, otherwise Millard, mate of the Hector, who was called to account in June, 1636, for saying that the Massachusetts colonists were "traitors and rebels" because they did not have "the king's colors" flying at the fort after John Endicott had cut the cross out of the British Ensign (Records of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, Vol. I, page 179), was probably, as Currier (History of Newbury, page 35) assumed and notwithstanding Savage's "doubt," the man who later on was of Gloucester and who removed from there to Newbury.

Related to him perhaps was the John Millard who in 1647 witnessed a deed from Edward Gilman of Hampton, to Thomas Savage of Boston (Ipswich Deeds, Vol. I, page 133), and who bought land, shop and dwelling at Salem in 1652 which, in 1657, he sold to George Corwin, representing the selectmen, to be converted into "a house for the minister" (Essex Deeds, Vol. I, page 44, and Vol. III, page 70; and Essex Institute Historical Collections, Vol. XXXIX, page 220).

Thomas Millard of Boston, 1637-1669, owned the land upon which, in the course of time, the Province House was built, and a part of the "Century Hill" land on which the Massachusetts State House stands. From his kinsman John Millard of Rehoboth, 1643-1673 or later, was descended the mother of Millard Fillmore, thirteenth President of the United States.

A good deal that is inaccurate has been printed about these New England Millards. The descendants of John<sup>1</sup> Millard of Salem, and of John<sup>1</sup> Millard of Rehoboth, have been confounded, and the maternal ancestry of President Fillmore has not hitherto been worked out. It may therefore, be worth while to bring together the chief data in a systematic way.

It is not certainly known from what county of England any Millard before 1650 came to Colonial America.

From 1540 to 1640 the name "Millard" occurred more frequently in Gloucestershire than elsewhere; but it was found also in other Western counties, in the Midlands, along the Channel coast from Devonshire to Kent, and in London. In the Eastern counties it was rarely met with. It was derived in many instances, perhaps in all, from "Milward," and often the same individual was known as "Milward," "Millard," or "Miller" indifferently, or occasionally, as "Milner." As "le Meleward," spelled also "le Muleward" in the same document, the name is of record in 1312, when Richard le

Meleward of the parish of "Selburne," Hants, witnessed a grant of land. ("Charters of Selborne Priory," pages 84, 85, Hants Record Society), and perhaps it was from the Hampshire family that the stock spread into Somerset, Sussex, Middlesex and Herts, and to Eaton-Dovedale, Derbyshire. The spelling "Millward" is found as early as August, 1334, when Walter le Millward, in a will dated London, bequeathed to his wife Agnes, and his son Robert property in Petit Wales, a part of Thames Street, London. (Calendar of Wills, Court of Husting, London, Part I, page 418.)

The only hint that has been found relative to the English connections of Thomas Millard of Boston, and John<sup>1</sup> Millard of Rehoboth, is wholly inconclusive. Rev. Dr. Ebenezer<sup>4</sup> Miller, of Milton, Mass., descended from John<sup>1</sup> Millard of Rehoboth (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John<sup>2</sup>), left to his family a silver tankard presented to him by English friends, on the occasion of his marriage, bearing arms identical with those of the Millers of Wrotham, Co. Kent. (Heraldic Journal, Vol. I, Boston, 1865, pages 39-42; and Herald and Genealogist, Vol. III, London, 1866, pages 258-259). A systematic search of the Miller names in the Wrotham parish register has failed to bring to light any Thomas that can be identified with Thomas Millard of Boston, or any John that can be identified with John Millard of Rehoboth.

Thomas Miller, otherwise Millard, of Boston (the name is spelled both ways in the Suffolk Deeds and elsewhere), probably came to New England before 1637. (Early Court Files, Case 1092; testimony of John Jackson, that Millard came over in the same ship with Jackson's wife).

A parcel of land that Millard owned on Century Hill "was the whole of the State House lot except the gore which had been bought of (Robert) Turner." (Fifth Report of the Record Commissioners of the City of Boston, second edition, page 148.)

"Thomas Millard is the source of title to the State House and land west of it." (Ibid., page 104.)

His house lot and garden were the plot on which after 1713, was built the Province House, the royal governor's official residence. (Second Report of the Record Commissioners, Part II, page 83.)

Thomas Millard died in 1669, at the house of John Lake. (Early Court Files, Case 1092.) William Hudson, Peter Oliver, John Jackson, Abigail Jackson, and John Waite testified that Millard wished a large part of his estate to go to his cousin John Millard, of Rehoboth; and Waite testified that Millard said, "I have no other kindred in the country, nor certainly do know that any other is alive." (Suffolk Probate Records, Administration Case 517, and Vol. VII, page 18.) Apparently, a sister was living, and apparently a written will came to light (no record or copy of which has been found), for the nuncupative will was contested by Samuel Shrimpton "Attorney of Alice Swift, Sister and Executrix unto the Last Will and Testament of said Thomas Millard Deceased." (Suffolk Deeds, Liber VIII, folio 309.) On June 27, 1673, John Millard of Rehoboth, tanner, in consideration of all the household goods and movables and money that Thomas died possessed of, and twenty pounds in money additional, deeded the real estate to Samuel Shrimpton. (Ibid., Liber VIII, folio 309.)

John<sup>1</sup> Miller, otherwise Millard, kinsman and legatee of Thomas Millard of Boston, appears in Rehoboth in 1643. His name occurs often in the records in connection with land allotments and transfers.

The sources commonly relied on for Rehoboth genealogy are, The Vital Record of Rehoboth, 1642-1696, as printed by James N. Arnold, and the History of Rehoboth, by Leonard Bliss, Jr. Unfortunately, there are errors in Arnold's invaluable work, both of transcription and of interpretation of difficult lines, and Bliss made mistakes, which Savage and others followed. Corrections here introduced are made from the original manuscript records, still preserved at Rehoboth, from Bristol County wills and deeds recorded at Taunton, and from the Early Court Files of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Assessed under "a rate made the 22 of 10th month 1657" were "John Miller, Jun.," "John Miller, Sen.," and "Robert Miller." (Original Records of Rehoboth, "Town Meetings," page near end, number gone.)

In the list of drawings of lots at Rehoboth, June 22, 1658, occur the names, "Joh Millard, Jun.," and "John Millard, Senior" (Ibid., page 31). The second name is unmistakably "Millard," not "Willard," as printed by Arnold and others. The initial M is written like a "lower case" printed m, and not in the form that could possibly be mistaken for a W.

On page 101 of the same book the names are written, "John Millard, Jun.," "John Millard, Senior," and "Robert Millard."

On May 26, 1668, lots were drawn for the meadow lands in the North Purchase. The list contains the names of "John Miller, Senior," "John Miller, Junior," and "Robert Miller." (Ibid., page 85.) Arnold, following the blunder of Bliss (History of Rehoboth, page 67), as Savage also did (Genealogical Dictionary, Vol. III, pages 209, 210), omits the name of John Miller, Junior, and in place of it prints "Ichabod Miller." There is no Ichabod in the original record, and the name of John, Junior, is plainly written "Joh."

It is by no means certain that the Elizabeth Miller who died at Rehoboth in 1680 was the wife of the first John Millard, Senior, as Savage (Vol. III, page 210), and other writers have assumed. The Colony record reads: "Elizabeth Miller, the wife of John Miller, Senior, was buried the 18th of Aprill." (Plymouth Colony Records, Vol. VIII, page 74.) But this entry is admittedly a copy from the town record at Rehoboth, and the original reads: "Elizabeth Miller wife of John Miller Buried 18 Aprill, 1680." (Original Records of Rehoboth, Vol. I, page 55.) The Colony record may have been a correction, but also John<sup>2</sup> Millard, called "junior" in 1657, and for many years afterwards, may have been John "Senior" in 1680.

There is no proof beyond circumstantial evidence that the John Miller, Junior (or John Millard, Junior), here called John<sup>2</sup> Millard, and the first Robert Millard, here called Robert<sup>2</sup> Millard of Rehoboth, were sons of the first John Millard, Senior, here called John<sup>1</sup> Millard; but neither is there the slightest reason to doubt that they were.

Samuel married July 20, 1682, Esther Bowen (Arnold, pages 257, 909), and second, Esther Jenckes of Providence. (Intention, June 1, 1700; Arnold, page 478.) His will, dated Sept. 29, 1718, proved Oct. 3, 1720, names wife Esther, son Samuel, daughters Estor West, Allis Chaffee, and Margaret Millard, and Brothers-in-law, Richard Bowen and John Bowen. (Bristol County Wills, Vol. III, page 687.)

Of Joseph nothing more is known, except that he was a proprietor in Rehoboth in 1690.

Benjamin was a proprietor in Rehoboth in 1690. Perhaps he may be identified with the Benjamin Millard, tanner, of Norwich, Conn., before 1694, and of Windham, Conn., before 1698, with wife Lucy Reynolds. (Larned, History of Windham County, Vol. I, pages 73, 77, 80, 85.)

John<sup>2</sup> Millard may have been the "John Miller, Junior," who was buried at Rehoboth June 6, 1685. (Original Records, Vol. I, page 56; Plymouth Colony Records, Vol. VI, page 142.) Almost certainly he was not the "John Miller, Junior," who was slain in the Indian fight of March 26, 1676. (Original Records, Vol. I, page 54.) That the latter was John,<sup>3</sup> and a son of John<sup>2</sup>, is made substantially certain by the fact that Samuel Miller of Milton, undoubtedly a son of John<sup>2</sup> of Rehoboth, received in 1733, two years before his death, a grant of land in Narragansett township No. 5, now Bedford, on account of the services of his brother John in King Philip's War. (Bodge, Soldiers in King Philip's War, page 432.)

The children of John<sup>2</sup> Millard recorded at Rehoboth were: Elizabeth, born July—, 1659; Rebeka, born Nov.—, 1661, and Samuel, born Sept. 1, 1664. (Original Records, Vol. I, page 30; and Arnold, page 684.)

Elizabeth married, perhaps March 2, 1682, Samuel Mason (Ibid., Vol. I, page 47; and Arnold, page 257), or perhaps Dec. 12, 1684, John Bragg. (Ibid., Vol. I, page 48; and Arnold, page 257.) There were two Elizabeths, one the daughter of Robert<sup>2</sup> Millard, and the record does not tell us which one married Mason and which one Bragg.

Rebeckah married June 4, 1686, Nathaniel Doggett. (Ibid., Vol. I, page 48.) Samuel married June 25, 1690, Rebeckah Belcher. (Ibid., Vol. I, page 94.) He was the founder of the distinguished Miller family of Milton, Mass.

Robert<sup>2</sup> Millard married "24th, 10th mo.," 1662, Elizabeth Sabin, daughter of William (Arnold, page 257). He died March 16, 1699, aged 67, and was buried in Kikemmit Cemetery at Warren, R. I. (New England Historical Genealogical Register, Vol. XLVIII, page 443.) The widow Elizabeth married January 12, 1700, Samuel Howard of Mendon. (Original Records of Rehoboth, Vol. I, first page of a group of marriages near end of book; and Arnold, page 255.) She died Feb. 7, 1717, and was buried at Rehoboth. The gravestone in the cemetery at Newman Church, Seakonk, bears the inscription: "Here lyeth the Body of Elizabeth daughter of William Sabin wife of Robert Milar late wife of Samuel Howard aged 75 year & dyed Feb. ye 7 1717-18."

The children of Robert<sup>2</sup> Millard by wife Elizabeth, recorded (with the except of Ephraim) at Rehoboth were: Elizabeth, born 5, 12 mo., 1663; Robert, born June 12, 1666; Nehemiah, born June 8, 1668; Josiah, born July 26, 1670; Nathaniel, born March 31, 1672; Solomon, born March 6, 1674; Ephraim, born —; Mary, born June 14, 1680; Sarah, born Sept. 26, 1684; Experience, born May 20, 1687 (Arnold, page 684).

The birth of Ephraim is not recorded, but he is self-identified as a son of Robert<sup>2</sup> by a deed that he gave January 20, 1712-3, to his brother Nathaniel. (Bristol County Deeds, Grantees, Vol. 25, page 455.)

Nehemiah,<sup>3</sup> son of Robert<sup>2</sup> and Elizabeth (Sabin) Millard, born at Rehoboth, Mass., June 8, 1668, died July 22, 1751, unless this was a later Nehemiah (Arnold, page 853), married, first, July 14, 1691, Judith Mason, daughter of Samuel of Hingham (Arnold, page 255). Their children were: Nehemiah, born April 12, 1692 (Arnold, page 681), died May 14, 1696 (Arnold, page 852); Abigail, born November 15, 1693 (Arnold, page 681); and Josiah, born July 14, 1694 (Arnold, page 681), died April 14, 1697, (Arnold, page 852). The wife Judith died May 28, 1696 (Arnold, page 852), and Nehemiah<sup>3</sup> Millard married, second, March 3, 1696-1697, Phebe Shoar. (Original Records of Rehoboth, Vol. I, extra page 95, near end of book; and Arnold, page 255.) She died March 11, 1717-18 (Arnold, page 853). It is impossible to say with certainty whether the original record at Rehoboth should be read "Shoare," or "Shoave." Arnold prints it "Shove," but no other record of a Phebe Shove has been found, while Phebe Shoar, daughter of Jonathan of Lynn, by wife Priscilla Hawthorne, who was remembered in the will of her grand-father, John Hawthorne, was born April 20, 1674, and was therefore of the right age to become the wife of Nehemiah<sup>a</sup> Millard. Family tradition says that she was Phebe Shoar. The children of Nehemiah<sup>a</sup> Millard and wife Phebe were: Judith, born Feb. 1, 1698 (Arnold, page 681), died April 14, 1698 (Arnold, page 852); Jonathan, born March 7, 1698-9 (Arnold, page 681); Elizabeth, born August 23, 1700 (Arnold, page 681); Robert, born April 20, 1702 (Arnold, page 681), and Ebenezer, born March 1, 1703-4 (Arnold, page 681).

Robert<sup>a</sup> Millard, son of Nehemiah<sup>a</sup> and Phebe (Shoar) Millard, born at Rehoboth, April 20, 1702, died, probably at Pawling, N. Y., in 1784 (family records, now or lately in the possession of Mrs. William H. Watson, of Utica, N. Y.); married at Norton, Mass., March 7, 1725-6, Hannah, daughter of Eleazer Eddy, descended from Rev. William Eddy of Cranbrook, Kent (Arnold, page 257). He removed with his family, of whom nine sons and four daughters lived to maturity, to Pawling, Dutchess County, N. Y. He was a Baptist minister, and preached until he was eighty years of age (family records, Mrs. Watson). The children of Robert<sup>a</sup> and Hannah (Eddy) Millard were: Robert, born April 8, 1727-8 (Arnold, page 682, and agreeing family record); Lucretia, born Sept. 8, 1728 (Arnold, page 682, no family record); Joshua, born March 3, 1729 (Arnold, page 682, and agreeing family record); Hannah, born Sept. 27, 1731 (Arnold, page 682, and agreeing family record); Eleazer, born May 28, 1732 (Arnold, page 682, and agreeing family record); Charity, born March 11, 1733-4 (Arnold, page 682, no family record); Solomon, no date (family record); Timothy, born June 22, 1735 (Arnold, page 682, and agreeing family record); Jehoida (family record), Benajah (on the Ledgers of the Merritt Store, 1771-72, still preserved at Quaker Hill, N. Y., he is identified as a son of Robert); Abiathar, no date (family record and Ledgers of the Merritt Store); Jonathan, born March 27, 1748 (family record).

Abiathar,<sup>a</sup> son of Robert<sup>a</sup> and Hannah (Eddy) Millard, born probably at Pawling, N. Y., date not known; died at Penfield, Ontario County, N. Y., 1811; married at Amenia, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1761, Tabitha, daughter of Ebenezer Hopkins, of Harwinton, Conn. (Marriage Records of Amenia, N. Y., New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, Vol. 33, page 46, and Caverly, History of Pittsford, Vermont, page 226.) He lived probably for a time at Amenia, N. Y., subsequently perhaps at Williamstown, Mass., certainly at Pittsfield, Mass., at Bennington and at Pittsford, Vermont, and at Penfield, N. Y. On various local records he is called "Dr." or "Doctor" (Caverly, page 226). The children of Abiathar<sup>5</sup> and Tabitha (Hopkins) Millard, as given by Caverly (loc. cit.) were: Abiathar, born May 6, 1762; Tabitha, born March 4, 1765; Lydia, born Oct. 14, 1768 (this birth is recorded at Williamstown, Vital Records of Williamstown, page 58); Huldah, born March 5, 1773; Sarah, born Jan. 18, 1775; Olive, born May 5, 1778; Phoebe, born Aug. 12, 1781; Jesse, born Oct. 6, 1784, and Almon H., born April 19, 1788.

Millard<sup>6</sup> Fillmore, thirteenth President of the United States, son of Nathaniel<sup>1</sup> and Phebe (Millard) Fillmore, born at Locke Township, Cayuga County, N. Y., February 7, 1800; died at Buffalo, N. Y., March 8, 1874 (Caverly, page 226, and Walker).

* Probably the Capt. Dobson who set out from Boston, N. E., in 1646, to trade to the eastward, and was captured by D'Aulnay.

† John Stratton of Salem, gent, 1631. He was of Shotley, Suffolk. Genealogy by Miss Hesba Stratton, from data collected by the compiler of these notes.

‡ He was of Charlestown, N. E., 1638, but returned to Old England, where he died, 1642.

§ Perhaps that Thomas Shrive who was of Plymouth, N. E., 1643.

|| May be the "Davy" Johnson who settled at Dorchester, N. E., in the same year.

¶ He commanded the Anne of London, 1631, and was of Charlestown, N. E., 1638.

** He is probably that Thomas Mathew of Boston who died there 1641 and whose wife, Margery, was a Clement of Wokingham, Berks.

‡‡ His age agrees remarkably with that of Thomas Hardy of Haverhill, N. E., who was 72 in 1677.

|| A George Bennett was at Charlestown, N. E., with wife Faith, in 1647.

Augustine Lyndon of New England deposes 13 Feb., 1654-5, aged 35.

Thomas Hutchinson of Boston in New England, where he was born, merchant, aged 22, deposes 2 Feb., 1696-7, concerning the St. Jago, a ship purchased by deponent's late master, John Foster, of Lady Phipps, relict of Sir William Phipps, late governor of New England.

Nicholas Lawrence of Dorchester in New England where he was born and has lived from his birth, deposes 20 Oct., 1697, aged 33.

* This deponent is almost certainly that Major William Holmes of Plymouth, N. E., who led the colonial forces in the Pequot war of 1637—an enterprise for which his acquaintance with the Indians, acquired in the course of trade, eminently qualified him. Kirk, his principal in the Canadian voyages, is the Capt. David Kirk who wrested Fort St. Lewis (Quebec) from Champlain, the French governor.

† May be that Edmund Hall, gent, who was of Boston, 1640.

‡ May be that William Hannam who was of Dorchester, N. E., 1635.

§ He is the Thomas Witherley, mariner, to whom such frequent reference is made in Lechford's "Note-Book." Savage confounds him with Wetherall. In 1630 he figured in a sea-drama which brought him into the H. C. A. in the capacity of defendant. Early in that year Sir Ferdinando Gorges, Mr. Isaac Allerton of New England, and Mr. Thomas Wright of Bristol, set out the Swift of Bristol, Stephen Reeks of Poole master, for New England, laden with passengers and provisions. These were in due course landed at "Sacho and Cuscoe," where Reeks reloaded with "fishe and trayne oyl" for St. Michael's, one of the Azores or Western Islands. He could speak a bit of French; so, in accordance with his owners' instructions, and in order to outwit enemy privateers, he called his ship the St. Peter and himself Phillip Alley. The ruse would doubtless have succeeded had not Capt. Witherley, then in command of the Warwick letter of marque, swooped down upon him, while he still lay in Damerell's Cove, on the New England coast, and made him a prize. On reaching London Reeks confessed his deception in Witherley's presence, at the house of Capt. John Mason in Fenchurch Street, but whether he recovered his ship is not apparent. (James Nicholls, 18 Oct., Stephen Reeks, 30 Oct., Thomas Millard, 1 Nov., 1630.)

|| Probably that Thomas Bredcake who had a commission from the General Court of Massachusetts, 1644, to take Turkish pirates. A John Bredcake, perhaps this deponent's father, had a command in the fleet set forth in 1614 by the Fellowship of English Merchants for the discovery of New Trades.

THACHER-THATCHER GENEALOGY.

BY JOHN R. TOTTEN,

Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and New England Historic-Genaeological Society.

Nathaniel Hazard Perry served twelve years in the U. S. Navy, and at the time of his death held the rank of Purser, which rank is the equivalent of the present rank of Paymaster. The greater part of his Navy service was in the Mediterranean Sea on the U. S. ships North Carolina, Erie and Fairfield, in which last named vessel he visited Trieste, Austria, his ship being the first U. S. man-of-war to visit that port. He also served in the West Indies, where he contracted the yellow fever, the effects of which ultimately causing his death. He joined the Masonic Order of Gibraltar and became a Royal Arch Mason, his diploma for such degree being preserved by his son. He came of a family justly celebrated in the honorable records of the U. S. Navy, and, but for his untimely death, would undoubtedly have added to a career of honorable service a lustre equivalent to that of his illustrious father and brothers. The services of his father in the U. S. Navy were of a most distinguished character and need not be mentioned here. A portrait of Captain Christopher Raymond Perry and his wife Sarah Wallace Alexander may be seen in the volume entitled the Perrys of Rhode Island, published in 1913, and written by the Rev. Calbraith Bourn Perry. Nathaniel Hazard Perry was a brother of Oliver Hazard Perry, Commodore U. S. Navy, of Lake Erie fame; a brother of Raymond Henry Jones Perry, Lieut. Commander U. S. Navy; a brother of Sarah Wallace Perry, who died not married; a brother of Matthew Calbraith Perry, Commander U. S. Navy, celebrated for having opened the ports of Japan and whose daughter subsequently became the wife of August Belmont, one of the leading bankers and financiers of the United States; a brother of Anna Maria Perry, who became the wife of Commodore John Rodgers, U. S. Navy; a brother of Jane Tweedy Perry, who married Dr. William Butler, Surgeon, U. S. Navy, and became the mother of U. S. Senator Matthew Calbraith Butler, of South Carolina; a brother of James Alexander Perry, Midshipman, U. S. Navy, associated with his brother Oliver Hazard Perry at the Battle of Lake Erie, and to whom a sword of honor was voted by Congress in consideration of his services.

John Christophers* Thatcher married a second time September 21st, 1863, at Vincennes, Ind., to Mary Tyler Graves, born at Nashville, Tenn., December 15th, 1841; before her marriage she lived in Davidson Co., Tenn., and in St. Louis, Mo. John Christophers* Thatcher on coming of age went to Bridgeport, Conn., where for some years he was in business with Henry Shelton as his partner. He sold out his interest in this firm about 1838-9 to his brother George Thompson Thatcher. In 1844-5 he was in business in New York City as a member of the firm of Hubbell, Thatcher and Green, Commission Merchants at No. 40-42 Bond Street. After some years of prosperity the firm met with financial losses and closed out. He some time afterwards went West and was connected with various enterprises there until his death.

Y.; Galena, Scalesmound and Chicago, Ill. He was a merchant and was Postmaster at Thatcher Post Office, Illinois, and was afterwards connected with the Chicago Street Railway system in a position of trust; he died at Chicago, Ill., May 24th, 1895, and was buried in Rose Hill Cemetery in his own lot there, gravestone. He married at Scalesmound, Jo Daviess Co., Ill. (about 15 miles from Galena), October 21st, 1852, to Harriet Amanda Lichtenberger, born at Scalesmound, Ill., April 4th, 1833; died at Denver, Colo., April 30th, 1911, and was buried in Rose Hill Cemetery, Chicago, Ill., by the side of her husband. She was a daughter of Conrad and Julia Ann (Kimmel) Lichtenberger, of Scalesmound, Ill.

Children: 6 (Thatcher) sons, first 4 born at Scalesmound, Ill.; last 2 in Chicago, Ill.

was buried in family lot in Rose Hill Cemetery, Chicago, Ill., gravestone. He was manager of a wholesale coal office in Chicago. He was a member of the Ashland Club and of the Long Lake Rod and Gun Club, of Chicago, Ill.

- 2313 vi. Perry Edwards,<sup>9</sup> born January 30th, 1877; died —; he had not married up to 1914. He lived for some years in Chicago, where he was connected with a wholesale coal company and subsequently removed to Denver, Colo., with his mother, where he became associated with the Colorado Coal and Iron Co., with an office at 803 Boston Building, home address No. 1322 East Colfax Ave. After his mother's death he removed to Pueblo, Colo., in the employ of the same company and lived at Casa Vivienda in that city.

At the age of 17 years (in 1833) George Thompson<sup>a</sup> Thatcher went as a clerk for his brother John Christophers<sup>a</sup> Thatcher to Bridgeport, Conn., in the dry goods business and remained with him for five and a half years; he then bought out his brother's interest in the firm and was a partner in the firm until about 1843-4, when on account of his father's ill health he sold out to his partner and returned to New London, where he remained until after his father's death. His father gave him his capital to purchase his interest in Bridgeport. After his father's death he went to New York City as a clerk in a wholesale dry goods house for six months, when an opportunity presented itself for him to go to Galena, Ill., and become the partner in the dry goods business of Mr. Porter of Bridgeport, Conn. This partnership did not suit him and he opened a store for himself which he continued for some three years until the panic of 1848-9, when he was compelled to close out as he could not collect his bills due him. At that time he owned a farm of 262 acres in Scalesmound, Ill., to which he moved and opened a general store suitable for country trade. He was there appointed Postmaster, the position being created for him and the Post Office named Thatcher Post Office by the influence of E. B. Washburne, Secretary of the Treasury. He was there fairly successful in business and bought 80 acres of land for a farm and closed his store and Post Office and lived on the farm for about three years, when he made a profitable sale and removed to Chicago, Ill., on April 27th, 1863. At that time several men of capital had moved from Galena to Chicago who were friends of Mr. Thatcher, among them J. Russell Jones, U. S. Marshal, and they bought the West Division of the Chicago Street Railway system. Mr. Jones at once gave Mr. Thatcher the position of Receiver of Fares and he retained that office for three years and was then appointed Purchasing Agent for the Company, in which capacity he served three years and was then made Mr. Jones' private secretary, which position he held until the Company sold out to a Philadelphia syndicate. When Mr. Jones was made Minister

*The silhouettes of General (then Captain) James Totten and his wife Julia Hubbell (Thatcher) Totten which illustrate this record were cut at Saratoga, New York, in August 1844, by August Edouart, the celebrated silhouettist of France and England, who was the appointed silhouettist to the Royal Family in France.

In 1839 Edouart visited the United States and here remained 10 years during which time he cut between three and four thousand silhouettes of well known Americans and their wives and families. It was the custom with this artist when cutting the silhouette to cut it in duplicate, one copy he delivered to his patron and one he kept himself upon which copy he had his patron place his signature and the date of the sitting, to which the artist himself added a note as to height, weight and color of eyes and hair of the patron; this retained copy the artist placed in his scrap book for future reference. In 1849 Edouart sailed for home on the Ship Oneida and on the return voyage to France on December 19th, 1849, the vessel was wrecked off the coast of the Island of Guernsey, and while most of the baggage was lost, Edouart's chests containing his scrap books were saved and brought ashore. Edouart himself was taken into the home of an inhabitant of the island and most hospitably treated after his tragic experience; and on leaving presented to the daughter of his host, Frederica Lukis his entire collection of silhouettes which had been so fortunately saved. This collection passed from Frederica Lukis to her grandson who in time sold it to Mrs. F. Nevill Jackson of London, Eng., and many of the English silhouettes found their way into museums and galleries in England; and in 1913 the American silhouettes of the collection (the last that Edouart ever cut) came to this country and were displayed for sale by Arthur S. Vernay.

Notice was sent to me by Mr. Vernay of the existence in the collection of these two portraits of my parents, of the existence of which I was in complete ignorance, as the originals had disappeared during the varied army career of my father and mother; and I visited the gallery very skeptical as to the authenticity of the portraits. I was at once convinced of their genuineness by the marked resemblance to herself of my mother's portrait, and by her undeniable signature on the back of the silhouette, and also of the validity of my father's portrait from his signature which was the same in 1844 as at the time of his death in 1871. In both cases the physical description written by Edouart on the back of each silhouette tallied with Point Military Academy in 1841; he was born September 11th, 1818, at Cincinnati, Ohio, and died October 1st, 1871, at Sedalia, Mo., and was there buried. He was a son of William and his first wife Jane (Browne) Totten, of Little Rock, Ark. William Totten was for many years connected with the Medical Department of the U. S. Army and was subsequently an Ordnance Store Keeper at the Arsenal at Little Rock, Ark.

General James Totten was appointed to West Point from Virginia while his father was on duty at Fortress Monroe, Virginia; he graduated at West Point in 1841 and was assigned to the 2nd Artillery, serving in that Regiment as 2nd and 1st Lieutenant and as Captain; he served in the Seminole Indian War in Florida and in the Mexican War and from 1850 to 1855 on Coast Survey duty from Florida Coast to Coast of Maine; served in quelling the Kansas Disturbances 1857-8; served in Civil War, receiving the Brevet ranks of Major, Lieut. Colonel, Colonel and Brigadier General in the U. S. Army. He also held the rank of Major in the 1st Missouri Volunteer Artillery and Brigadier General of Missouri Militia in the service of the United States. He was promoted as a Major and Assistant Inspector General and Lieut. Colonel in the Inspector General's Department and died at Sedalia, Mo., October 1st, 1871. His widow after his death made her home in New London, Conn., in the old Thatcher homestead until it was sold and torn down, and subsequently in Mrs. Graham's boarding house, corner of Federal and Union Streets, New London, until her death. She received a pension for life on account of her husband's military services.

- i. Isabelle,<sup>9</sup> born July 17th, 1861; died ———; not married up to March 24th, 1916; inmate since January, 1904, of a Sanitarium at Rochester, N. Y. This daughter was an adopted child, it is said, and not the daughter of Martha T——<sup>9</sup> Swift-Gibbs. Her mother was Mattie R. Perry, See No. 1513, whose husband's name I do not know.

The Gibbs' family lot in West Genoa Cemetery at King's Ferry, N. Y., has in it only three gravestones: those of Henry Gibbs, Welthen Gibbs and Nancy Thatcher. Henry Gibbs died June 17, 1868, aged 85 years (hence born 1788). Welthen Gibbs died April 9th, 1880, aged 92 years, 4 mo. and 20 days (hence born November 19th, 1787). Henry and Welthen Gibbs may have been the parents of Roland Thacher Gibbs. Nancy Thatcher was the aunt of Mrs. Roland Thacher Gibbs and was the daughter of Jethro<sup>8</sup> Thacher, see Record No. 325 and also Record No. 886. I presume that Welthen Gibbs really means Wealthy Ann Gibbs and that she was the wife of Henry Gibbs, as the dates of their births and deaths are such as to suggest that they were husband and wife. It is possible that Henry Gibbs was the grandson of John Gibbs of Sandwich, Mass., who married Jerusha<sup>8</sup> Thacher, see record No. 339.

MYLES STANDISH.

CONTRIBUTED BY CLARENCE WINTHROP BOWEN.

Myles Standish, the well known mining engineer of this city and a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society died in New York City on June 30, 1915, in the 69th year of his age. His home was at No. 14 East 74th Street. He was born in New Bedford, Mass., August 16, 1847, and was a direct descendant of Capt. Myles Standish of Plymouth Colony. Mr. Standish attended the Friends' Academy in his native town and was later graduated from the Institute of Technology, Boston. He afterwards came to New York where he lived until his death. In 1890 he married Katharine McClure Howard Steuart Lanier, youngest daughter of the late James F. D. Lanier of this city, one of the founders of the banking house of Winslow, Lanier & Co. His wife survives him.

Mr. Standish was a member of the New England Society, the American Geographical Society, the Society of Colonial Wars and for many years was a well known member of the Century Association and of the Metropolitan Club. His other clubs were the Lawyers, City and Garden City Golf Clubs. His country home was at Millbrook, N. Y. Mr. Standish's father was John Avery Standish and his mother's maiden name was Emeline Bourne. His ancestor, Captain Myles Standish who landed at Plymouth in 1620 was the first commissioned military officer in New England and was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Plymouth Colony. He was the first emissary from America to England in 1625. Myles Standish was called the "bulwark of the Pilgrims." The line of descent from so distinguished an ancestor cannot fail to be of interest. The pedigree of our fellow member Myles Standish is therefore given as contributed by Mrs. Clarence L. Westcott.

Myles<sup>1</sup> Standish of New Bedford was the son of John<sup>2</sup> (See Standishes of America) who was the son of Levi<sup>3</sup> (Standish Genealogy) who was the son of Shadrach<sup>4</sup> Standish and Mary Churchill, who were married in 1771.*

Shadrach<sup>4</sup> Standish was born in Plympton, Mass., May 12th, 1745, and died in New Bedford, in Nov., 1837, and was the son of Ebenezer<sup>5</sup> Standish and Averick Churchill, who were married in Plympton in 1739.†

Ebenezer<sup>5</sup> Standish was born in Plympton, Oct. 16th, 1721, and died in Plympton, Nov. 28th, 1747, and was the son of Zachariah<sup>6</sup> Standish and Abigail Whitman, who were married in Plympton, Oct. 13th, 1720.‡

Zachariah* Standish was born in Plympton, Oct. 12th, 1698, and died in Plympton on March 30th, 1770, and was the son of Ebenezer† Standish and Hannah Sturtevant.*

Ebenezer† Standish was born in Duxbury, Mass., in 1672, and died in Plympton, March 19th, 1755, and was the son of Alexander‡ Standish and Sarah Alden.†

Alexander‡ Standish was born in Duxbury, and died in Duxbury in 1702, and was the son of Myles° Standish and Barbara, his second wife, who came from England in the ship Anne in 1623.†

Myles° Standish was born in Lancashire, England, in 1584 and was, as his will asserts, a great grandson of the House of Standish of Standish.§

"From a Commission appointing Standish to a Lieutenantcy in her Majesty's (Queen Elizabeth's) forces on the continent, the date of his birth was found to be 1584.||

"Myles Standish was the first commissioned Military Officer of New England."¶

"The Pilgrims, at the outset, made him Captain-in-chief and that post he held till his death."**

He led the first exploring expedition from the Mayflower, Nov. 14th, 1620.†† He was military leader and Treasurer of Plymouth Colony, and emissary to England in 1625.‡‡ "In 1654, he was appointed Commander-in-chief of troops sent (from Plymouth Colony) to subdue the Dutch of Manhattan."§§

"For a long period as Military Commander, he had far more power than ever was given to the Governor. As Captain and Magistrate, as Engineer and Explorer, as Interpreter and Merchant, as a tender nurse in pestilence, a physician at all times and as the Cincinnatus of his Colony, he showed a wonderful versatility of talent and the highest nobility of character. It is quite evident that the legal proof of his birth and descent has been destroyed to secure a fraudulent transfer of his inheritance."|||

From a letter received from Mrs. Clarence L. Westcott:

"Alexander Standish, the oldest son of Myles Standish, married Sarah, the daughter of Priscilla Alden, whose own reputed romance, as described by Longfellow, and so often quoted, has no historic foundation and should not be perpetuated.

I have visited in Lancashire, both Standish and Duxbury Hall, where the present owners have shown me much of historic family interest. Sir Henry Standish, the present proprietor of Standish Hall, married a daughter of the Duc de Cars, and now resides permanently in Paris. Duxbury Park has passed out of the family, but in England, its title is not considered clear, while there are still living lineal descendants of Myles Standish. I have been shown the much discussed parish records and have been given a photograph of the mutilated page. Standish Hall, a photograph of which is shown, was the seat of the family, before the Reformation caused the split that settled the Protestant branch at Duxbury Park. It was at Standish that the famous Lancashire plot was hatched. From Standish Hall went forth Ralph Standish to fight with Henry V at Agincourt. The hall has undergone some changes since the time of Queen Elizabeth but the old family chapel attached stands as it was and is still controlled by the Church of Rome, the present owner, Sir Henry Standish, being a Roman Catholic. Four little sycamore trees have been sent to me direct from Standish Hall, with the request that one should be placed by the grave of Capt. Myles Standish and this I shall have done when in 1920 the Tercentenary of the Pilgrims is to be observed. Another will be planted near the grave, in New Bedford, of Myles Standish, the last Standish of his line, and a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society."

BOURNE PEDIGREE

Ebenezer Bourne, who married Abigail Newcombe, lived to be 100 years old.

Their son, Abner Bourne, married Mary Torrey. He was a Captain in the Revolutionary War (b. 1747; d. 1806) and was buried in Middleboro.

Their son, Joseph Bourne, married Sophia Bates.

Their daughter, Emeline Bourne, married John Avery Standish.

Their youngest son, the last Standish of his line, was Myles Standish, a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS.

BY GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON, JR.

The following list is of unusual interest as it brings to light the names of many officers and seamen serving in the so-called Continental Navy, as well as seamen serving in the mercantile marine of the early colonies and states. The descendants of these men who were taken prisoners in the "Vessels armed for War" are clearly eligible for membership in the several patriotic Societies of the War of the Revolution, and it may be possible that descendants from the officers of such vessels, constituting the first ships of a United States Navy would be eligible to the Society of the Cincinnati.

"A List of American Prisoners taken in Vessels arm'd for War, and in merch<sup>t</sup> Vessels under the care of Mr. Charles Waller, Commissary of Prisoners at Rhode Island, and released upon request of Major General Sullivan's Letter of the 24th November, 1778, for an equal number and of the same rank to be returned in Lieu."

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED
GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

43. BRASIER—CORRECTION.

In the Breser or Brasier Family in vol. xxvii of the RECORD, at page 38, I find there are four children of Garret and Catharine Hardenbrook Brasier earlier than the nine named, to wit:

Bruyn Hendricxz and Lysbeth Janz Osterhout had:

1. Geertie, bapt. March 21 or 23, 1683.
2. Annetie, May 11, 1684.
3. Catharine, Jan. 31, 1686.
4. Hendrick, Nov. 6, 1687.

Hoes in the Kingston Records, calls the seventh child Ariaantje instead of Anneke.

CAPT. RICHARD HENRY GREENE,

44. HIGGINS-WHITEHEAD—CORRECTION.

Referring to my articles, appearing in the RECORD in the issues of October, 1915, and January, 1916, entitled "Richard Higgins of Plymouth and Eastham, Mass., and Piscataway, N. J., and Some of His Descendants," and particularly to a statement which appeared on page 21 of vol. 47, relative to Isaac Whitehead, Sr., to the effect that he was born in 1648. This was an error which crept into the printer's copy in some way and was overlooked in the proof-reading. The letter "b" should not have been inserted in the parenthetical date reference "(1648)." The latter was intended to indicate a date at which Isaac Whitehead, Sr., was a settler of New Haven Colony, Conn., and not as the date of his birth. As a matter of fact, he took the Oath of Allegiance to the laws of that colony at the General Court in New Haven, 1 July, 1644, and he was probably at that time of responsible age. It is reasonable to assume from the births of his children that Isaac Whitehead, Sr., was born circ. 162-. The compiler is indebted to Rev. Stephen Ward Righter for calling this error to his attention.

45. LUDLUM—CORRECTION.

See Cock, Cox Genealogy, First and Second Editions, p. 34, fourth generation. The statement that Elizabeth, wife of Joseph Ludlum was the daughter of Thomas Ryder of Southold, L. I., has been found to be incorrect and it is reasonably certain that she was a daughter of Henry and Eliphal (Wright) of Oyster Bay, N. Y.

The above mistake led to an examination of the Ludlum record and justifies some correction of that part of it given by Miss Julia Parish Ludlam, as published in A Genealogy of the Descendants of William Ludlum of Southampton, Long Island, 1896, see p. 16 et seq.

46. STEVENSON—WHITEHEAD—FIELD—ADDITION.

It is stated in Thomas Stevenson and His Descendants (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. xiii, p. 119) that according to tradition, Charity, the wife of Edward Stevenson, third son of Thomas of Newtown, Long Island, was a Jennings, a sister or very near relative of Samuel Jennings of Burlington Co., N. J. John, son of Edward and Charity Stevenson, in his will dated Feb. 9, 1727, mentions his uncles Robert Field and Jonathan Whitehead. We know that Robert Field married the 24th day of the twelfth month, 1689, Phebe (Titus) Scudder, and that Jonathan Whitehead married by license dated July 23, 1697, a Sarah Field. This latter is spoken of as of unknown parentage in Daniel Whitehead and Some of His Descendants (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. xxxiii, p. 102). No better evidence, it seems to me, is necessary than the will of John Stevenson (Abst. of N. Y. Wills, N. Y. Hist. Soc., vol. xi, p. 64) to prove that Charity, his mother, was the sister of Robert Field, his uncle, and likewise of Sarah Field the wife of Jonathan Whitehead, his uncle by marriage. Consequently, Charity, wife of Edward Stevenson, and Sarah Field, wife of Jonathan Whitehead, were sisters, daughters of Robert Field of Newtown, and Susannah, his wife.

47. TIEX—SIEX (SIKES)—CORRECTION.

In the RECORD for 1888 (p. 55) is found the following item:

(From Rev. Payn's record.)

I spent considerable time in attempting to trace the ancestry of Elizabeth "Tiex." At my request Mrs. Frost of Brooklyn examined the original manuscript. She made a "study" of Rev. Payn's handwriting and concluded that the first letter is an "S" and not a "T." The copy of Rev. Payn's records in the Long Island Historical Society, prepared by Henry Onderdonk, gives the name as Siex. In explanation he wrote "Sikes." I am unable to learn who she was. I have not found any family by that name on Long Island at that early date or in Gloucester Co., N. J., where John Roe resided before his marriage. I have wondered if you would care to call attention to the error in transcribing Rev. Payn's records.

Res. He is said to have been a commission from Queen Elizabeth in the English Army before 1603 and served in the Netherlands against the Spaniards; and after the truce in that war he remained in Leyden, Holland, where he became acquainted with the Puritans and came over to this country on the first voyage of the Mayflower; he was the sixth signer of the Mayflower Compact; he was made the Captain of Plymouth, and during his life held the command of the military defenses of the Colony; he lived at Plymouth until about 1630-32 when he removed to Duxbury, which town received its name out of respect for Captain Standish whose ancestral family seat was at Duxbury Hall, Duxbury, Lancashire, Eng., the Protestant branch of the family whose principal seat (Roman Catholic) was at Standish, Lancashire, Eng. He made his will (March 7, 1655, O. S. for March 17, 1656, N. S.), and it was proved May 4 (O. S.), or 14 (N. S.), 1657. In it he left to his "son & heir apparent Alexander Standish all my lands as heir apparent by lawfull Decent in Ormistick Borsacon Wrightington Maudsley Newburrow Crawston and the life of man and given to mee as right heir by lawfull Decent but Surruptuously Detained from mee my great Grandfather being a son<sup>or</sup> or younger brother from the house of Standish of Standish." He was on commission in 1642 to consult with Massachusetts Colony relative to plans for common defense of the two colonies; and this duty probably accounts for his not having served as Assistant 1643 and 1644.

NOTE.

JOHN HUTCHINSON OF LINCOLN.—Vol. xx of the New England Historic Genealogical Register contains an article by the late Col. Joseph Lemuel Chester entitled "The Hutchinson Family of England and New England and its Connection with the Marburys and Drydens." In this article Col. Chester says some very unkind things about the humble origin of the Hutchinson family, but when we consider that the first generation he traced to contained two mayors of Lincoln, to wit, John and William, and a parson, Christopher, vicar of South Leasingham, it would appear that their father must have been a man of some means and not quite so humble as Col. Chester supposes. Accordingly one cannot fail to have a suspicion that Col. Chester's personal relations with the late Peter Orlando Hutchinson may have led him to use the severe language he did concerning the origin of the family. I, for one, have always felt certain that the father of John, William and Christopher Hutchinson, was a person of some means and I have recently been rewarded in my searches by finding that a John Hutchinson of Lincoln was taxed in the subsidy of 1523-4.

Quite recently the publication of the early Lincoln wills by the Lincoln Record Society (1271-1526) gives us more data concerning this man. The will of Edward Browne, jeweller of Lincoln, dated 10 Feb., 1505, proved 23 Feb., 1506, leaves to John Hochonson, shomaker, vi shillings viii pence, and the will of Adam Dowson, baker, dated 23 Nov., 1508, proved 28 Dec., 1508, is witnessed by John Hogenson of Lincoln, shomaker. The will of William of the Chamber, a citizen of Lincoln, dated 30 June, 1506, makes John Hutchynson, corysior, one of his feofees to trusts, and John Jobson of Lincoln, fishmonger, in his will, dated 28 June, 1525, makes John Huchenson of Lincoln, an executor.

These references evidently refer to the man who is beyond all doubt the father of the two mayors and show him to have been a solid and respectable citizen of Lincoln and not a person so humble as to have left no record as Col. Chester supposed.

10. VALENTINE—ODELL—VAIL.—Wanted: the descendants of, or information about the following persons, all born in Yonkers.

Frederick Valentine, b. Jan. 19, 1759; d. May 26, 1842; m. Freelove —.

Mary Valentine, b. Jan. 20, 1761; m. Robert Upton.

Michael Valentine, b. July 31, 1766. He had at least one son, Caleb.

Jarvis and Basheba Valentine, b. July 8, 1775. Basheba m. Lewis Odell.

Also wanted the family name of Mary, the second wife of Matthias' (Col. Benjamin's) Valentine.

Also the first name and ancestry of — Odell, the second wife of Col. Benjamin Valentine.

And the ancestry of Thomas Vail who d. in Scarsdale, 1785, also of his wife Sarah (possibly Barker.)

Wanted to purchase a copy of a small genealogy of the Westchester County Valentine family that was published many years ago, possibly about 1860. (Not Thomas W. Valentine's Valentines in America.)

MISS LILLIAN REED, 6 Iowa Circle, Washington, D. C.

11. COOMBS—BLACKWELL—KISSAM.—Riker's Annals of Newtown, p. 81, footnote, states "Elizabeth Coombs, dau. of Francis of Newtown, m. Robert Blackwell." Can authority be given for this?

Riker, p. 81, says: Francis Coombs in 1679, a cooper, received a grant of land to come and settle and practice his trade. He was a patentee there in 1686. Had two sons, Francis and Thomas, who removed to Hopewell, N. J. He was dead in 1700.

Riker, p. 355, says: Robert Blackwell came to Newtown from Elizabeth, N. J., a widower, with son Robert in 1676. Robert (1st) married there again. The son Robert, whom he says married Elizabeth Coombs, removed to Hopewell, N. J., and died there 1757, having had children named Robert, Francis, Thomas, Jacob, Mary, Ann, Elizabeth. (His father by his 2nd wife had children named Bridget, Thomas, Francis, Walter, Henry, Lydia, Sarah, Susannah, Jacob, Mary.)

Savage's Genealogical Dictionary says: A Francis Coombs was of Plymouth in 1666 and there receiving land in his father's (John) right. Probably the same Francis was of Middleborough in 1676 with wife Mary. Probably the same Francis was of Newtown 1679.

The Kissam Family, by Edward Kissam, 1892, says, p. 11, that Daniel Kissam of Great Neck, b. 1669; d. 26 Dec., 1752; m. Elizabeth Coombs; she b. 1673, and d. 1736.

The Jones Family of Long Island, by John Henry Jones, 1907, says, p. 252, that Daniel Kissam, b. in Flushing, 1669, m. Elizabeth Coombs (b. 1673; d. 1736), dau. of Francis Coombs.

Is it not possible that either Daniel Kissam or Robert Blackwell m. a widow Elizabeth Coombs, perhaps second wife of Francis?

Robert Blackwell may have taken the widow and her two sons, Francis and Thomas, to Hopewell. Robert Blackwell's children's names are Coombs names, as also Blackwell names. Did Francis Coombs perhaps have a sister Elizabeth?

The names of the children of Daniel Kissam and his wife Elizabeth Coombs were Elizabeth, Martha, Hannah, Daniel Joseph and Levina.

HENRY SNYDER KISSAM, 25 Madison Ave., N. Y. City.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue, before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

OYSTER BAY TOWN RECORDS, Volume I, 1653-1690. With an appendix containing an Historical Sketch by George W. Cocks and various important documents. Published by order of the Town, by Frederick E. Willits, Daniel Underhill, Edward T. Payne, Committee. Compared, annotated and indexed by John Cox, Jr. New York, Tobias A. Wright, Printer and Publisher, 1916, 250 copies, 8vo, cloth, pp. 754, plus XII, including index, frontispiece and folding map. Price, $10.00.

The records of the eastern Towns of Long Island are of great interest and value in the Colonial history of the continent. These Towns were settled by an advanced wave of the New England movement, lacking none of its pioneer spirit but shedding much of its austerity in crossing the Sound.

In 1650 the Dutch of Nieuw Amsterdam compromised their claim to the territory with the English of New England by agreeing on a line across the Island near the west line of Huntington. In 1653 the First Purchase was made and a settlement begun at the village of Oysterbay. The Dutch protested but did nothing further and the settlement grew to be one of the independent Townships.

It offered to accept a Dutch patent in 1657, but the matter seems to have gone no further, probably owing to the growing desire for closer affiliation with New England, culminating in the Setauket petition of 1659 to the General Court of Hartford. Oysterbay does not seem to have had anything to do with that petition, and flourished as an independent self governing community until the English capture of the Province in 1664, having in the meantime performed such public acts as declaring "to all people and nations whom it may concerne," their disapproval of smuggling tobacco through the harbor to avoid the Dutch customs at New Amsterdam.

On the advent of English government the deputies of the English Town attended the Gravesend conference with the Royal Commissioners, and joyfully returned with the impression that they were to help make and enforce the laws. This roseate dream dispelled, they remained loyal Towns, but in 1681 a general agitation resulted in a convention at Huntington which sent five men to the Court of Assizes with a petition. This was promptly rejected by the Court, whereupon Oysterbay laid down the principle of "no taxation without representation," and the General Assembly was established in 1683.

The volume just published shows these things and more, in the text, or in the Appendix, where the Editor has collected from many sources documents relating to the Town, its people and records. This matter of the Appendix is worth more than a passing word, and it is an example for future publications of the kind. The records of the "Musketo Cove Proprietors," though never in the Town's possession, is of great value in the history of land titles. Of equal importance are the records of Robert Williams' plantation, which are to appear in the next volume. The extracts from the records of the Court of Assizes are from the copy formerly in the Town's possession, but which has disappeared. The copy of this, of the Musketo Cove record, of several other original documents in the Appendix, and the whole of the Book of Purposes and Book A, was carefully prepared in 1898 by George W. Cocks, and very fortunately, as some of the original have since disappeared.

The book is an admirable example of the proper way to publish such records. The text is given literatim et verbatim et punctuatim, words or letters worn away being restored in brackets.

The town was planted by a Congregational minister, but has never had a Congregational Church. The Quakers of 1657 were welcomed, many of the principal Citizens joined their ranks, and the Quaker Meeting appears as the only religious organization in the Town down to the end of the Seventeenth Century. The Quaker influence is shown more between the lines than in them. That was why the Town secured permission to elect its Overseers without oaths, and declined to pay the extra tax to support a minister.

In this volume, dealings with the Indians, notably land purchases, fill a considerable portion. Abundant evidence in the lines and between them shows the amity between the races, and the absence of those wrongs which were the foundation of the troubles in other settlements.

The Town Meeting was, as in New England, a little parliament, the community remaining a pure democracy, self dependent and little affected by the vicissitudes of the Provincial Government during the period embraced in this volume. The business of the Town Courts show few litigious citizens.

To indicate the extent and value of the index, it may be stated that it contains over 10,000 items and mentions, to cover 700 pages of text and thirty years of time.

The map of the Township, folded into the volume, shows the present appearance, with old names and places indicated, and a descriptive text giving something about each locality. This is a most useful addition to such a work. The First Purchase deed is reproduced as a frontispiece.

This work is needed in every library in the land that makes any attempt at Colonial history or genealogy. As the edition is only 250 copies, it will be a rare book in a few years.

FORTHCOMING PUBLICATION.

A volume under the title of "SKETCHES OF ALLIED FAMILIES KNICKERBACKER-VIELE" will shortly appear. The book will be of general interest, for it will deal quite exhaustively with the Schaghticoke branch of the family, whose name with the alteration of one letter has become the synonym not only for early Dutch settlers in New York City but in the person of "Father Knickerbocker" for the city itself. The Knickerbackers themselves, sturdy pioneers and Indian fighters, living for two hundred years on the same broad acres, not far from the banks of the Upper Hudson, also command attention as a representative Dutch family, retaining much of its old country atmosphere, one hundred and fifty years after Dutch rule had ceased in the Colony. The author has had exceptional opportunity to gather together authentic records of this family and has also with much pains sifted out some puzzling and contradictory statements which had attached themselves to the name, till a fairly lucid and absolutely reliable family history is here presented. An account of the origin of the allied family of Viele is added which has been evolved out of a series of interesting genealogical discoveries both here and in Holland and also includes an historical environment of some general interest. An appendix will be added containing family data, copies of original wills, Bible records and other old papers which involve connection with other families. It cannot fail to be a good book of reference. Edition limited to 60 copies. Price, $5. Address: Miss K. K. Viele, 357 Park Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the contemplated publication in the near future by Messrs. Wharton Dickinson and J. O. Fowler of a book (as a continuation of and supplemental to "Fowlers of America and Europe," published some years ago) with especial reference to the descendants of Henry Fowler (FF) of Providence (1634) and Mamaroneck. Branches of allied families will also be included (as for example Odell, Dyckman, Underhill, Ward, Warner, Coles, Elliott, etc.) to some extent. Persons having genealogical data in relation to the above pedigree are invited to communicate with J. O. Fowler, care of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

BENJAMIN HAZARD FIELD.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

The subject of this biography was the son of Hazard Field of Yorktown, N. Y., and was born there May 2, 1814. He received his early education at home and finished his studies at the North Salem Academy under the Rev. Hiram Jelliff, an Episcopal minister. Having a decided preference for commerce he entered the office of his uncle, Hickson W. Field, and in 1832 became a partner. This firm continued until 1838, at which time his son undertook its management. In 1865 the firm took the latter's name and became Cortlandt de Peyster Field & Co., the father retaining his membership.

Mr. Field married in the city of New York, June 19, 1838, Catharine M. Van Cortlandt de Peyster, daughter of Frederick de Peyster. Some of the most distinguished lines in American family history are among her ancestors, two of which are included in her name. The Livingstons, Beekmans and van Rensselaers are more or less connected. Two children were born to them, viz.: Cortlandt de Peyster Field, who married Virginia Hamersley, daughter of John W. Hamersley, and Florence van Cortlandt Field, the wife (1) of David Wolfe Bishop, and (2) of John Edward Parsons, a life member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, whose obituary appeared in the April, 1916, number of the RECORD.

Among the institutions of which Mr. Field was an officer were the old Fulton Bank and the Bank for Savings, the original savings bank in New York. He was a trustee of the New York Dispensary, of the Chamber of Commerce, the first Vice-President of the N. Y. Eye and Ear Infirmary, and President of the Home for Incurables at West Farms. After serving as Vice-President of the St. Nicholas Society for fourteen years he became its President, and as a member of the New York Historical Society, of which he was Treasurer from 1860 to 1877, and second Vice-President from 1878 to 1884, he was active in the movement whereby it obtained its fire-proof building on Central Park West. Besides the above honorable positions his duties were extended to a trusteeship of Greenwood Cemetery and of the American Museum of Natural History. He was also an incorporator and a trustee of the Sheltering Arms and joined the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society in 1885, becoming a Life Member in 1893.

Mr. Field was a benefactor to his native town in which he erected a school and spent much time and money in educational work among the children of the neighborhood. Not satisfied with the above indications of regard for the public welfare, he acted as a director of the New York Institution of the Deaf and Dumb for some twenty years and was likewise a trustee of the Society Library at the time its building was being erected in University Place, serving besides on the building committee.

Notwithstanding all these conspicuous activities Mr. Field was averse to attracting attention by ostentatious display and lived his life in works of benevolence to his kind. He was careful of his friendships, had a natural reserve, was heartily fond of children, and his motives and impulses were such as are honored by all men. He died in this city March 16, 1893, with the commendation of the community he had so much adorned.

SOME NOTABLE DEPOSITIONS FROM THE HIGH COURT OF ADMIRALTY.

By J. R. HUTCHINSON.

- (i) Andrew Hume of the Precinct of St. Katherine, aged 32, William Forde of Limehouse, aged 36, William Deeping of St. Mary Monthawe, aged 27, John Johnson of St. Botolphs Aldgate, aged 45, respectively master's mate, gunner, surgeon and cook of the William of London, and Jacob Jacobson Elkins of Amsterdam, aged 42, factor for the merchants freighting the said ship, severally depose on the 5th, 6th and 7th of November, 1633, that William Clodberry, David Morehead and John Delabarr, merchants of London, did in December, 1632, lade the Willam, whereof William Trevore was master, with divers goods to be transported to Hutson's river, between Virginia and New England, there to be traded and trucked away to the natives for beaver skynns and other skynns and furs. Having called at Plymouth in New England to land divers passengers, the shipp, about the 13th of April last, arrived at Hutson's river, where was a fort belonging to the Dutch, called Fort Amsterdam, or Munhaddon's Fort. Here Deeping, the surgeon of the shipp, was sent on shore to entreat the governor, Walter Vertrell, to come aboard; who refused so to do, insisting that the Englishmen should come to him, and bidding Deeping ask them: "Did they know the Prince of Orange?" The whole ship's company, led by Elkins the factor, accordingly went ashore, excepte one boye, who was left to minde the shippe. The governor demanded wherefore they had come. "To goe vpp further into the river," replied Elkins, "there to trade with the natives, for the lande was the King of England's lande, and they would trade there; and if the governor would not suffer them to passe, yet would he goe vpp the river though it cost him his life." This the governor forbade him to doe if he valued his necke, at the same time commanding his gunners to shoot off three pieces of ordnance for the Prince of Orange, and to spreade abroad the Prince's colours vppon the castle; whereupon Elkins, going on board the William again, spread the English colours, shot off three pieces for the honour of the King of England, and weighing anchor proceeded vpp the river some fortye leagues. Here, to his dismay, he found a second Dutch fort, called Fort Orania or Orange, Hance Jorison Houton governor. Fearing to passe it, yet bent on accomplishing the purpose of his coming thither, he made a landing a mile below, set up a tente, and began to truck with the Indians. He had previously lived amongst them for fower yeares, and knew their customs, wants and language. Could he stay but one moone, the salvages assured him, a nation called the Maques would come down and bring with them fower thousand beaver skynns, and another nation called the Mahiggins would bring three hundred skynns more.

At this interesting juncture, just when the factor and ship's company—each of whom carried some small adventure in his cheste to helpe out his wages, as was customary—were congratulating themselves upon the fact that everye merchantable beaver skynn was worth twenty shillings at the leaste in London, up the river came a pinnance, a carvell and a hoye laden with Dutchmen armed to the teeth with halfe pikes, swords, musketts and pistols, while from the vpper forte there dropped downe vppon the traders a shallop, similarly manned and armed, whose occupants, after the approved Dutch fashion, did drinke a bottle of strong waters of three or fower pints to whet their courage, whilst their trumpeter sounded his trumpet in a triumphinge manner over the English. Uniting forces, the two parties landed, threw down the tent, beat the Indians who had come to trade, drove or carried the interloping English aboard their shipp, and there hove up her anchors, so that to keepe her from drivinge on shoare her company were faine to putt her under saile and sayle downe the river, the Dutch remaining with them untill they reached the open sea and there passed beyond the governor's jurisdiction. The voyage of the William was thus wholly overthrowne, and the merchants that sett her forth sustained losse and damage to the value of fower thousand pounds sterling.

- (ii) Comfort Starr of Ashford in the county of Kent, chirurgion, aged 45, deposes 11 February, 1634-5, that about the latter end of November last John Witherley of Sandwich, mariner, did buy at Dunkirk a certain Flemish built shipp lately called the St. Peter, now the Hercules of Sandwich, for the sum of £340 the first penny, which shipp now lies at Sandwich, and is of the burthen of 200 tonnes. Examineate, being noe seaman, cannot tell of what length, breadth or depth she is, but he guesseth her to be about twelve foote broad above the hatches, fowerscore foote longe, and sixteene foote deepe. She belongs to this examineate. John Witherley, Nathaniel Tilden and Mr. Osborne, and William Hatch is to have a parte in her with this examineate.

The above deposition, taken on the eve of the Hercules' departure for New England, incidentally corrects Pope who dates the voyage 1634, and confirms Savage, who assigns it to 1635. Starr, Tilden and Hatch, with their respective families, all crossed in the ship whose purchase is here described.

- (iii) Thomas Harrison of Redriffe in the county of Surrey, mariner, aged 50, deposes 7 March, 1636-7, that he was sent to Dunkirk, on the 6th of January last, by Mr. George Price of London, merchant, to buy a ship for his use. He bought of the officers of the Admiralty of Dunkirk, by publike outcry, a Holland-bottom shipp then called the Lambe, burthen two hundred and threescore tonnes, and paid for her 7,000 guilders the first penny. He arrived with the shipp in the river Thames, neere Redriffe church, on Sunday last, being the fifth of this present month. The shipp, now called the Successe of London, is to be sett forth for Danzick in Prussia, there to lade masts. Deponent's son, Thomas Harrison, is to goe master of her, if hee come from Holland before the shipp be ready; but if hee come not, then deponent's brother in lawe, Daniel Paule of Ipswich, shipwright and mariner, is to goe master.

Daniel Paul next appears at Boston, N. E., where 24 August, 1640, he formally empowers John Cole of Ipswich, shipwright, to sell his lands, tenements and personal possessions in Ipswich, England, and to pay over the proceeds to Elizabeth his wife. In 1643 he is of New Haven, Conn., and later of Kittery, Me. (Leckford's Note-Book, p. 293.) In face of this evidence connecting him with Ipswich, it is remarkable that no trace of him can be found in the Apprenticeship Indentures or Freeman's Rolls of that ancient borough, records of which the writer possesses a complete abstract. He may, however, have been a son of that John Paul who was baptised at St. Mary Key, Ipswich, in 1584.

His association with Kittery is doubtless explained by the allusion, in Harrison's deposition, to the Dantzic mast-trade. The supply of masts and spars for the British navy and the British mercantile marine had from time immemorial been drawn from Norway, Prussia and Muscovy, a precarious source of supply in time of war. The settlement of New England, and the subsequent exploiting of the northern forests of that diffuse territory, introduced white pine as a desirable substitute for the heavier, less resilient and more easily barred product of the Baltic provinces. In Paul's time the trade was yet in its infancy. A generation or two later it had grown to such proportions that it became necessary, in the interests of the royal navy, to restrict its ravages upon the forests of Maine and New Hampshire.

The charter of William and Mary accordingly reserved all white pine of a certain diameter for naval uses, while an Act of Parliament of later date expressly forbade, under heavy penalties, the cutting down of King's Woods. The inhibition was the first seed of the American Revolution. Logically regarding the felling of timber as a natural right, the colonists resented bitterly this unwarrantable interference with their liberties. Elisha Cook, a somewhat truculent member of the Massachusetts Bay Council, acting as the people's spokesman, in a caustic letter addressed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives roundly declared that "the King had no woods there;" a piece of plain speaking for which the General Assembly publicly thanked him. Bridger, the first Surveyor General of the King's Forests, escaped public odium and personal injury only because he "seldom visited the woods, but often sold 'em;" whilst David Dunbar, the irascible Scotsman who succeeded him, incurred both in full measure for enforcing the law, as he did on frequent occasions, "with a crow-barr." The people clamoured for his recall, but Dunbar sat tight. So tenacious was he of the sweets of office, indeed, that Gov. Belcher, his inveterate enemy, maliciously said he would believe Dunbar had really gone when some inward-bound skipper reported having sighted him "to the eastward of George's." (Colonial Office Papers, passim.)

(iv) John Tarleton, of the parish of St. Olaves in the Borough of Southwark, brewer, aged 46, deposes 30 December, 1631, that in July last he, at the entreaty of Susan Hooker, wife of Thomas Hooker of Waltham in the county of Essex, preacher of God's word, now resident at Delph in Holland, did lade aboard the Jacob of London, Robert Jacob master, one small truncke of apparrell containynge, as he hath bene informed by the sayd Mr. Hooker's wife, one stufte gowne, one stufte cloake, one cloth cloake, three shirts, twelle handkerchiefs, seaven white capps, three ruffe bands, two falling bands, three payre of ruffes, one payre stockins, one payre of garters, one payre of shooes and one or two sutes of apparrell, and two letters, wth truncke of apparrell this deponent, by the direction of the sayd Mr. Hooker's wife, did consigne to be delivered to one Mr. Peters, a minister dwelling at Rotterdam for the accompte of the sayd Thomas Hooker. And he also sayeth that the said Hooker went into Holland in or about the month of June last, and his wife and family still dwell within the parish of Waltham in Essex.

Apart from the allusion to Hugh Peters, Tarleton's deposition is noteworthy as fixing the date of Hooker's flight into Holland. They who fled from the wrath of Laud stood not upon the order of their going. He therefore travelled light, and the trunk, with its delightfully simple contents, was sent after him. It never reached its destination. Some accident of the sea claimed it, and Mistress Hooker sued the owners of the Jacob for its value. Of Tarleton we know nothing more than is told in the caption of his deposition; but the name is found in Leicestershire, Hooker's native county.

- (v) 12 Martij, 1643—(4), Heugh Peters of London, minister, aged 41, yeares or thereabouts, sworne before the Judge of his Ma<sup>ties</sup> Highe Courte of the Admirality, sayeth & deposeth vpon his oath That about fourteene dayes since this exam<sup>ts</sup>, beeing at the Brill in Holland, saw the shipp called the Signett friggott, comanded by Capt: Whetstone, riding at an anchor below the Pitts, about fower miles from Brill, and about a Cables length from her there lay a Scarboroughe shipp of the burthen of about 70<sup>or</sup> tonns, newly runn a grounde vpon the shoare, & hearing that the M<sup>r</sup> of that vessell had complained to the Burgimaster of the Brill against Capt: Whetstone, this exam<sup>ts</sup> went to that Burgimaster, who is alsoe Comissary of the shippes, and advised him to doe nothing in that matter without very good order, and that since they would doe the Parliam<sup>t</sup> noe good, that they should doe them noe hurt, & theruppon that Burgimaster tooke a boate and went downe to Capt: Whetstone, towrds the Cignett friggott, & by the way mett Capt: Whetstone & spake with him, & this exam<sup>ts</sup> alsoe tooke another boate & went aboard Capt: Wetstone & lookt vpon his Comission & Instrucccons to see how farr hee might thereby bee borne out in that action, w<sup>ch</sup> Capt: Whetstone then related to this exam<sup>ts</sup> to bee thus, vizt. That hee, seeing the Scarboroughe vessell at sea, & not beeing able, as the winde then was, to goe out with his shipp to her, sent out his boate, who haling her, & expecting a roape from her to haue gon aboard her, shee perceiving them to bee in the Parlim<sup>t</sup> service, tackt about & rann herselfe a shoare in the place weere this exam<sup>ts</sup> saw her w<sup>ch</sup> was not farr from the first tonn, w<sup>ch</sup> was about five English miles from the Brill, where shippes doe not Vse to harbour or ride except yt bee for a tide or soe, to goe forth or vpon extreimity; and theruppon the next tide the said said Whetstone sent his menn aboard the said Scarboroughe vessell, as shee lay agrounde in the place aforesaid, & fetcht her off & moored her neere his owne vessell, there beeing then aboard her (as yt was said) fower thousand pounds in money, wooll, cloth & ledd to the value as yt was said of fower thousand pounds more, consigned to S<sup>r</sup> Heughe Cholmly, to S<sup>r</sup> William Davenett at Rotterdam, & the proceed thereof to bee returned in armes to the North of England, as partly appeared by letters in that vessel w<sup>ch</sup> this exam<sup>te</sup> saw & perused; & forthwith this exam<sup>te</sup>, returning to the Brill, founde two of the States shippes of 30 or 40 peeces of Ordnance each making ready, & the next day they went off from the Brill & rodd by the Cignett ffriggott, & vppon the Lords day followeing Admirall Trumpe came to this exam<sup>te</sup> lodging in the Brill & brought with him Capt: Whetstone, whom hee had brought ashoare, & told this exam<sup>te</sup> that he was carrying him to the Hage; but with much importunity the said Trumpe gaue Whetstone leaue to goe to church at the Brill with this exam<sup>te</sup>, yet in the middle of the Sermon sent for him out of the Church; but Whetstone staying out the Sermon, this exam<sup>te</sup>, after the Sermon was done, went with him to Van Trumpe, then standing in the Streets at the Brill with multitudes of people about him, & Trumpe then expressed much anger for the long stay of Whetstone; and then this exam<sup>te</sup> demanding of Trumpe his Commission for the stay of Capt: Whetstone & his shipp, soe much to the prejudice of the Parliam<sup>t</sup>, they hauing but one shipp then in the Maze, the s<sup>d</sup> Trumpe gaue him thereto noe aunswere, but asked him yf hee did not know what hee was, to w<sup>ch</sup> this exam<sup>te</sup> replied that hee knew him well when hee was Deacon of the Church at Rotterdam, but was afraide that his preferment had much changed him; vppon w<sup>ch</sup> the said Trumpe grew much in passion, & this exam<sup>te</sup> then in the name of the Parliam<sup>t</sup> requiring to know of him whether hee came by the order of the Prince of Orange, the States, or the Admiralty at Rotterdam, or of himselfe, the said Trumpe gaue noe other aunswere thereto, but said You know what I am; I am vppon Holland ground, & yf Whetstone will not goe, I will presently goe fight with his shipp, for that is my order; & soe carryed Capt. Whetstone away with him to the Hage, & the Skarboroughe vessell was fetcht into the haven of the Brill by the Dutch, & the Thursday following in this exam<sup>te</sup> sight they carried the Cignett ffriggott into the Brill haven alsoe, & hee hath since bin advertised from thence that her sailes were taken from the yard & Capt: Whetstone detained at Rotterdam, soe that there is now noe shipp in the Maze to hinder any body goeing in or out there, notwithstanding to his knowledge there is great store of amunition lyes ready at Rotterdam to bee shipt for the North of England. And this exam<sup>te</sup> further sayeth That at this departure from Holland hee was informed by very good hands that thus they intend to deale with Capt: Zachary, who lyes at the Texell wayting vppon Brocome Bushell, who was then coming from thence with tenn thousand armes, 26 brasse feild peeces and other amunition for the Earl of Newcastle. And this hee affirmeth vppon his oath to bee true.

For a man of precision, as he undoubtedly was, Hugh Peters here states his age with singular looseness. As a matter of fact he was in his 46th year when he deposed, having been baptized on the 11th of June, 1598, in the parish church of Fowey, Cornwall, where he is registered as the son of Thomas Dickwood, an opulent merchant of that borough, who most commonly passed under the alias of Peter or Peters. His mother, Martha Treffry, was a daughter of John Treffry of Fowey, Esq.; and at Place, the ancestral home of the Treffrys, a contemporary portrait in oils of the famous divine is still to be seen.

The deposition now first given to the world is eminently characteristic of the man. It is egotistic, theatrical, meddlesome, the quintessence, in short, of Hugh Peters, the evil genius of the Commonwealth. In it we see him playing with a high hand the game that later on made him the most cordially hated, the most vilely execrated man in all England—the game of audacious intermeddling in matters that did not concern him. The scene between the choleric Dutch admiral, livid with passion and outraged dignity, and the cool, hectoring little busybody of a parson, is worthy to live in history. Peters was not slow to perceive the possibilities of the encounter. He no sooner reached England, which he did with all speed, than he proceeded to use it as a means of currying favour with the Parliamentarians, thus laying the foundation of that sinister influence which ultimately brought both his king and himself to the scaffold. He began his disastrous political career by plucking Van Tromp's beard. He finished by plucking straws, fatuously, from the hurdle whereon he rode to judgment.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS.

BY GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON.

The following list was discovered among a mass of miscellaneous documents of the Quarter Master General's Department of the Army of the Continent and is of unusual interest because of the indication of the work performed by those employed on the roll. It will be noted that many names are given without indication of their actual military rank. The list numbers 139 names, of whom twelve appear to be of commissioned rank and there are nine Overseers, Directors or Superintendents of Artificers mentioned. The fact that all these men worked at stations located on or near the Hudson River and in all probability were born and bred in the adjacent counties of Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Columbia, Albany, Orange and Ulster, makes this pay roll of peculiar interest to possible descendants. A brief examination of New York in the Revolution discloses that a majority of these men did military service in either Continental or State Regiments and in the then militia.

Pay Roll of sundry Persons employed in the public Service by Hugh Hughes, Deputy Quarter Master for the State of New York, from the first of January to the last of December, 1782. (Jacket, 5: Miscellaneous, Quarter Master General's Dept., 1779-1782. War Department, Washington, D. C.)

THE SALMON RECORDS.

BY WILLIAM A. ROBBINS,

Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and Long Island Historical Society.

The Salmon Records are a private register of marriages and deaths of residents of the Town of Southold, Suffolk County, New York, or of persons more or less closely associated with that place.

The lists extend from 1696 to 1811, and were commenced by William Salmon of Southold, a son of John and Sarah (Barnes) Salmon of said town, and a grandson of William Salmon, who was born in England in 1610, whence he emigrated in 1635, and settled soon afterwards at Hashamomack in Southold, where he married, for his first wife, Katherine, widow of Matthew Sunderland, and, for his second wife, Sarah, widow or daughter of Caleb Curtis.

William Salmon, who started this register, was born August 12, 1684, and died May 10, 1759.* The record was continued by members of the Salmon family.

The manuscript was presented by the late Gideon Salmon to the late Rev. Jonathan Hunting, from whom it descended to his youngest son, Henry Hunting, Esq., the first treasurer of the Southold Savings Bank, who presented it to Nathaniel Hubbard Cleveland of Southold. From the latter it, together with an incomplete copy and an index made in 1860 by Joseph H. Petty, has recently come into the possession of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society through purchase.

Several copies of these records are said to be in existence. One, in particular, known to have been made by the said Henry Hunting, Esq., himself, is described by the late Stuart Tuthill Terry of Southold, as "a beautiful and exact copy," from which he made his copy in 1869. But this Hunting copy is not complete, the marriages ending with the entry of October 16, 1746. It is probably the one recently acquired by the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

The Terry copy is complete, the marriages between October 16, 1746, and November 25, 1762, having been copied direct from the original, although the spelling was not followed, and those subsequent to the latter date having been copied from the copy made by said Joseph H. Petty, which was said to be "very exact, showing every blot, erasure, and mark."† The Terry copy is now in the library of the Long Island Historical Society of New York, which Society has also another copy made a few years ago by the late Robert B. Miller, which is alphabetically arranged and taken partly from the original manuscript and partly from the portion of the records printed in the Suffolk county newspapers. Between June 27, 1879, and October 2, 1881, the Long Island Traveller printed the marriages through the letter "P," and, beginning in January, 1882, the Suffolk Weekly Times took up the publication where the Traveller had left off. The list, however, seems never to have been completed.

The Salmon Records are a mine of genealogical wealth, and was, doubtlessly, used by Moore in his compilation of Indexes of Southold.* The manuscript appears originally to have consisted of two separate registers, one of deaths, containing a few marriages, and the other of marriages. The pages of each register were originally only partly numbered. In, or sometime prior to 1860, these two registers were bound together into one volume of duodecimo size. The original part of the manuscript comprises 91 sheets of paper, or 182 pages, varying in size from 6 x 3¼ inches to 6½ x 4 inches. Apparently about the time of rebinding in or before 1860, the pages were renumbered consecutively throughout in carmine ink, and this is the paging which has been followed in the copy now printed. The original numbering of the pages in the record of deaths commenced with the record proper, or with page numbered 3 in carmine ink.

Originally, at the foot of each page, was written the number of entries on the page. Some of these numbers have disappeared, lost through wear and tear. The number is given in the copy printed wherever it remains in the original or appears in said manuscript copy.

Age has made the paper dark and very brittle, and caused the ink to fade; while the margins of the pages containing the earliest entries are so worn, that many of the records are now either missing or illegible. These places are indicated by a dot or dots, thus: .....; or, whenever possible, are supplied from the said manuscript copy within brackets, thus: [ ]. A line thus, —, in the dating means that the date was omitted and the space left blank in the original.

The dates have been transposed, being placed first in the copy now printed instead of last, as in the greater part of the manuscript. With this exception and the omission of a few entries which have been struck or crossed out, no change is made from the original.

Arnold's Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. X, p. 529, states that No. 1644, was baptized at Trinity P. E. Church, Newport, R. I.,

December 28th, 1802, which statement is obviously incorrect as his parents were not married until October 1st, 1808. The family records state that he was the oldest child according to Miss Mary Ingersoll Locke, so I have placed his date of birth as 1809 or 1810 for the reason that the second child of his parents died August 4th, 1811, and hence must have been born on or previous to that date.

1673. EMILY M—<sup>8</sup> SEARS (Abigail Fearing<sup>7</sup> Thacher, Lot,<sup>6</sup> Rev. Roland,<sup>5</sup> Col. John,<sup>4</sup> etc.), born September 2nd, 1827 (or October 2nd, 1828, according to age at and date of death), at Rochester, Mass.; died April 21st, 1889, aged 60:6:19, at Rochester, Mass.; married January 5th, 1847, at Rochester, Mass.; to Charles Mendall Blackmer, born July 29th, 1821, at Rochester, Mass.; he was a farmer and lived at Rochester and Acushnet, Mass.; died December 10th, 1868, aged 47 years, 4 months, 11 days, at Rochester, Mass. He was a son of Sawlsbury and Lucy (Mendall) Blackmer.

Children: 2 (Blackmer), 1 son and 1 daughter.

- i. Edward L——, <sup>9</sup> born November 4th, 1847; died August 8th, 1862.
- ii. Emma Elwood, <sup>9</sup> born September 4th, 1850; died January 30th (or March 1st), 1880, aged 29:4:26; married, first, James Oscar Douglas, at Rochester, Mass., February 10th, 1870. He was a son of Barnabas and Phebe N—— (Swift) Douglas. She married, second, March 1st, 1880, at Rochester, to George W—— Palmer (son of William and Mary (——) Palmer), born in England; he was aged 58 years and 7 months at marriage (hence born August —, 1821) and was a farmer. This second marriage of Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> (Blackmer) Douglas is so recorded in the Mass. Vital Records at the State House, Boston.; but, the record seems to conflict with the record of the marriage of George W. Palmer (son of William and Mary (——) Palmer) with Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland, which is recorded as having taken place September 4th 1870; he being then 47 years old (born in New York City) and a physician of Stoughton, Mass.; hence born 1823. As Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland-Palmer lived to marry a third time, October 30th, 1881, to George Waterman, it seems impossible that this George W. Palmer (son of William and Mary (——) Palmer) could have married Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> (Blackmer) Douglas on March 1st, 1880, unless he was previously divorced from Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland previous to that date, or unless again on the basis of the fact that there were two George W. Palmers, both sons of a William and Mary (——) Palmer, one born in 1823 in New York City and one born in August —, 1821, in England. The records seem confused. I give them for what they are worth. Also note that if Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> (Blackmer) Douglas married on March 1st, 1880, she married on the day of her death according to one authority as to her death. Again if she died January 30th, 1880, she could not have married on March 1st, 1880, as on that date she was dead.

Tripp, Justice of the Peace, at —, to Hannah M—— Tripp, of Westport, Mass., born —, 1837 (she was 17 years old at marriage), at Westport, Mass.; died —, at —. 1676. ABBIE FEARING<sup>8</sup> SEARS (Abigail Fearing<sup>7</sup> Thacher, Lot,<sup>6</sup> Rev. Roland,<sup>5</sup> Col. John,<sup>4</sup> etc.), born March 4th, 1838, at Rochester, Mass.; died —, at —; married, first, April 12th, 1856, at Rochester, Mass., by Rev. Joseph I. Whittemore, to Charles A—— Howland (son of Thomas H—— and —— (——) Howland), of Fairhaven, Mass., born —, 1832, about (he was 24 years old at marriage); she married, second, September 4th, 1870, to George W—— Palmer (son of William and Mary (——) Palmer) as his second wife, born —, 1823 (he was 47 years old at second marriage), he lived at Long Plain, Mass.; she married a third time, October 30th, 1881, at —, to George Waterman as his third wife (son of Barnabas Waterman by his wife Sally<sup>7</sup> Thacher, see No. 975), born —, 1805; he was 76 years old at his third marriage, see No. 1634; his first wife was Lucy Ditson (or Delano); name of second wife not known. She, No. 1676, is said to have married a fourth time. I have, however, no record of this fourth marriage.

By reference to record No. 1673 it will be seen that Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> Blackmer, the second child of Emma M——<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Blackmer, is recorded as having married as her second husband, on March 1st, 1880, to George W—— Palmer (son of William and Mary (——) Palmer), who was 58 years and 7 months old at this marriage and hence was born about August 1, 1821. The George W. Palmer who married as stated above on September 4th, 1870, to Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland as her second husband is also given as a son of William and Mary (——) Palmer, and as he was said to have been 47 years old at this second marriage, he was born about 1823. On the face of it, it looks as if the George W. Palmer who married Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland, September 4th, 1870, as her second husband, was the same George W. Palmer who married Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> Blackmer as her second husband on March 1st, 1880. This, however, could not be so (unless some divorce or separation permitted it) as Abigail Fearing<sup>8</sup> (Sears) Howland-Palmer is said to have lived to have married a third time, October 30th, 1881, to George Waterman as his third wife. This entire record of No. 1676 I have endeavored to clear up, but, I am by no means satisfied with the result of my investigations and give my notes thereon for the benefit of those who may come after to clear up. It is apparent that there were either two George W. Palmers (each a son of a William and Mary (——) Palmer) or else that the year date of the marriage of George W. Palmer to Emma Elwood<sup>9</sup> (Blackmer) Douglas is incorrectly recorded. See remarks under head of record No. 1673.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

48. SAMUEL WARD KING—CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.
N. Y. G. & B. Record, vol. 39, p. 78, April, 1908.

Since writing the biography of Samuel Ward King, 13th Governor of Rhode Island, I have attempted to verify the assertions and traditions given by his descendants as to his service in the War of 1812, and only recently discovered the following facts:

Dr. King sailed from Providence, R. I., as Surgeon of the privateer Providence, a schooner of 94 tons, with 6 carriage guns, Captain Nicholas Hopkins, 1st Lieutenant Isaac Arnold, and a crew of 60 men. The "Commission of Letter of Marque" was issued in the District of Providence in the State of Rhode Island, 8 Aug., 1812, to Henry Smith, Samuel James and Samuel P. Allin, owners. The sureties were Christopher Ellery and Samuel Metcalf. Given at the Collector's Office, District of Providence, Thomas Cole, Collector.

The names of the other officers are not given.

On a List of Prisoners at Barbadoes in charge of Lieutenant John Barker, R. N., it is stated that "Samuel W. King, Surgeon, was taken by H. M. schooner Dominica, 11 Sept., 1812, off St. Bartholomews on the privateer Providence. Received into custody 4 Oct., 1812, from H. M. S. Vestal. Discharged 24 Oct., 1812, to America on parole, per order of Captain Reynolds of H. M. S. Tribune."

Edgar S. Maclay in his History of American Privateers states:

"The Dominica was a three masted schooner, carrying twelve short 12 pounders, two long 6 pounders, one brass 4 pounder, and a short 32 pounder on a pivot. She was manned by eighty-eight men and boys.

On Sept. 4, 1812, this cruiser captured the 8 gun armed schooner Providence, Captain N. Hopkins of Providence. The Providence is not credited with any prizes, being taken shortly after leaving port. In the chase of ten hours Capt. Hopkins had thrown overboard all his guns on the leeward side."

The Navy Department at Washington states that "Dr. King may have returned to America on the cartel Perseverance, 10 July, 1813, as did a number of men on the same list," but the following item in the Columbia Phenix or Providence Patriot of Saturday, 21 Nov., 1812, shows the fact of his return as follows:—

"Marine and Naval Intelligence:

Dr. King, the surgeon of the Providence privateer recently captured and carried into Barbadoes, arrived in a cartel at Newport on Saturday last. He states that Capt. and first Lieut. were paroled in Barbadoes and the other officers and crew on board the prison ship. All in good health and tolerably well treated."

The above corrects the erroneous dates given by descendants as to Dr. King's sailing and capture and gives full details of the privateer he sailed in, etc.

Taking up the tradition that Dr. King on his return re-enlisted as Surgeon on the U. S. ships Wasp and Hornet and was on board the latter when she captured on 18 Oct., 1812, the British sloop of war Frolic off the coast of North Carolina, only to be taken in turn by the British a few weeks later, a careful search and examination of the records at Washington shows that Dr. King never served as Surgeon or Surgeon's Mate of record in the U. S. Navy, and at the date of capture of the Frolic by the Wasp, 18 Oct., 1812, Dr. King was a prisoner of war at Barbadoes, W. I.

A brief statement about the two vessels in U. S. Navy named Wasp in War of 1812 may however be of interest.

The first U. S. sloop of war Wasp, Captain Jacob Jackson, left Delaware on 13 Oct., 1812, with a crew of 135 men, carrying 16 thirty-two pound carronades, 2 long twelve pounders, and 2 small brass cannon in her tops. On 18 Oct., 1812, she met and fought the British sloop of war Frolic, mounting 16 thirty-two pound carronades, 2 long six pounders, and 2 twelve pounders, commanded by Captain Thomas Winyates and crew of 108 men.

The Wasp won the battle, but was so disabled that she, in turn, was captured two hours later by the British sloop of war Poictiers of 74 guns, Capt. John Poo Beresford. The Wasp was taken to Bermuda, where the American prisoners were exchanged and departed home. The Wasp was later repaired, used by the British and lost at sea.

The second U. S. sloop of war Wasp, Capt. Johnston Blakely, left the harbor of Portsmouth, N. H., on 1 May, 1814. She captured the British sloop of war Reindeer, Capt. William Manners, on 28 June, 1814, and then sailed for L'Orient, arriving there 8 July, 1814. A gold medal was voted to Capt. Blakely by Congress to commemorate this victory.

The new Wasp left L'Orient on 27 Aug., 1814, and fought the British sloop of war Avon, 18 guns, Capt. Arbuthnot, but was obliged to abandon her prize. She next captured the British ship Atalanta near the Azores on 21 Sept., 1813. On 9 Oct., 1814, the Wasp was spoken by the Swedish barque Adonis making her way to the Spanish Main, and took on board two officers of the Essex, viz:—Acting Lieut. McKnight and Master's Mate Lyman, who were passengers on the Adonis. This was the last that was ever heard of the Wasp and she is supposed to have perished with all her crew in some tempest.

As to the tradition of Dr. King being on the U. S. Hornet, Capt. James Lawrence, this also is erroneous for Dr. Cotton was the American Surgeon on the Hornet when she captured the British sloop Peacock, Capt. William Peake, on 24 Feb., 1813.

The fact that Dr. King named his son "James Lawrence King," might indicate that he served under Capt. James Lawrence, U. S. N., but the Naval Records at Washington contain no reference as to such service.

As to the tradition that Dr. King was an "eye witness of the fight between the U. S. frigate Chesapeake, Capt. James Lawrence, and the British sloop of war Shannon off Boston Harbor in June, 1813, and was called on board to assist the American ship's Surgeon in attending upon Capt. Lawrence, and heard the commander's historic words of 'Don't give up the ship,' the improbability of such fact is self evident. Any communication by the British ship with the shore would have been improbable and resulted in the detention of any boat's crew sent into Boston Harbor,—unless under a flag of truce.

What Dr. King did from 21 Nov., 1812, to the end of the War of 1812, is still unknown, but it is evident that he did not serve in the U. S. Navy and probably did not serve on any other privateer.

49. JONES—TREADWELL—WILLETT—THOMAS—CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.

In The Jones Family of Long Island (1907), by the late John H. Jones, Esq., it is stated (p. 63) on the authority of Thompson's History of Long Island, that Judge David Jones (1699-1775), m. as his second wife Margaret, the widow of John Treadwell; that she was the dau. of Col. William<sup>4</sup> Willett of Westchester (Hon. Col. William,<sup>3</sup> Hon. Col. Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>), by his wife Alice (1725-1763), dau. of Lieut. Gov. Colden, and therefore a niece of his first wife Anna (1704-1750), dau. of Col. William<sup>3</sup> Willett.

These three statements are incorrect, as proved by the wills of the Rev. John Thomas (Rector of Hempstead), dated March 17, 1724-5; prob. Dec. 3, 1726 (N. Y. Surrogate's Office, Wills, Liber 10, p. 186); Samuel Treadwell of Rye, prob. April 11, 1748 (N. Y. Surrogate's Office, Wills, Liber 16, p. 242), and of William<sup>6</sup> Willett, Jr., of Rye, son of Col. William<sup>4</sup> Willett of Westchester, dated Nov. 28, 1755; prob. Dec. 30, 1765 (N. Y. Surrogate's Office, Wills, Liber 25, p. 215).

The Rev. John Thomas, who died between March, 1725, and Dec., 1726, mentions in his will his wife Margaret (the dau. of Col. Richard Floyd and Margaret Nicoll), a son John (not of age) and two daughters Margaret and Gloriana. He bequeathes £150 "for the building of a house at Rye" for his "widow to live in." This is mentioned to show that in all probability, his widow and his three children, removed to Rye shortly after his death.

The daughter Margaret married, not John, but Samuel Treadwell of Rye, as proved by the latter's will, in which he mentions his wife Margaret, also their children, and appoints his brother-in-law John Thomas, as one of the executors.

William<sup>b</sup> Willett, Jr., of Rye, mentions his father William<sup>a</sup> Willett of Westchester, his brother John Thomas and sisters, Margaret, wife of David Jones, Esq., and Gloriana, the wife of Edward Stevenson, Gent. Also his brother Gilbert Colden Willett (not of age).

Since William Willett, Jr.'s, will is dated Nov. 28, 1755, he must have been born not later than Nov., 1734, to be of age at the time of making his will, consequently he could not be the son of Col. William Willett, by his wife Alice Colden (born in 1725). It follows therefore that he was the issue of a former wife. His will leaves us in no doubt as to who she was, inasmuch as he describes as brother and sisters, the children of Margaret Floyd by her first husband the Rev. John Thomas. They were in fact his half brother and half sisters, he being the son of Col. William Willett by his first wife, Margaret (Floyd) Thomas. In the same way Gilbert Colden Willett was his half brother, both having the same father but different mothers. Thus the three statements in The Jones Family of Long Island are proved to be incorrect.

Incidentally, these three wills, taken together disclose, what has not been generally known, judging from published accounts ("Colden Family," N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. iv, 161-183; Some of the Beginnings of Westchester Co. History, by ex-Gov. Alonzo Cornell, etc.) that Col. William Willett's wife "Margaret" was the daughter of Col. Richard Floyd and widow of of the Rev. John Thomas, that he married her between 1726 and 1733, and that they had issue, William Willett, Jr., who died s. p.

51. WILLIAM THORNE AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS—

CORRECTIONS.

N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vols. xix and xx.

Vol. xix, p. 157. The children of Samuel<sup>a</sup> Thorne of Flushing (William<sup>b</sup>), are given as follows:

Samuel<sup>b</sup> (I conjecture).

Benjamin.

Keziah, m. James Hinchman.

The compiler suggests at this place that the Samuel<sup>a</sup> may have been the Samuel who with wife Ann, had children Joseph, Thomas, Nathaniel and Samuel. Also that wife Ann, may have been a Townsend. He later saw his error, but without calling attention to it, describes him correctly as Samuel<sup>4</sup> (Joseph,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>), who on Dec. 9, 1715, m. Ann Stevenson. It is also made to appear that Deborah, the dau. of the above Benjamin,<sup>3</sup> was the wife of Robert Farrington, when in reality it was Deborah, a dau. of Samuel<sup>2</sup> and sister of Benjamin<sup>3</sup>, who was the wife.

These errors are apparently due to the fact that the compiler had an incorrect copy of Samuel<sup>2</sup> Thorne's will, for he quotes it as mentioning two grandchildren of the latter, "grandson Samuel of Success," and "granddaughter Deborah, wife of Robert Farrington." By examining the will (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., Abst. of Wills, vol. iii, pp. 71, 72), we find that he mentions "daughter Keziah, wife of James Hinchman;" [she was the widow of Col. Thomas<sup>3</sup> Willett (Col. Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>);] "son Samuel Thorne of Success; daughter Deborah, wife of Robert Farrington," and "son Benjamin."

The genealogical description of Samuel Thorne and family should be as follows:

SAMUEL<sup>2</sup> THORNE of Flushing (William<sup>1</sup>), born about or previous to 1654 (of age in 1675); died probably shortly after Feb. 28, 1731 (date of his will); married Susannah —. (She died before 1731.) Children (order as in Flushing census):

- i. Benjamin,<sup>3</sup> b. —; d. 1739-40; m. after 1698, Bridget, the dau. of James Clement of Flushing.
- ii. Samuel, b. —; d. —; of Success.
- iii. Nathan, b. —; living in 1698; prob. d. before 1731.
- iv. Jane, b. —; living in 1698; prob. d. before 1731.
- v. Keziah, b. —; d. —; m. (1) July 2, 1723, Col. Thomas<sup>3</sup> Willett of Flushing (Col. Thomas,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>); m. (2) Jan. 25, 1727, James Hinchman.
- vi. Deborah, b. —; d. after 1751; m. Robert Farrington.

He was in service at the Battle of Bunker Hill and was there wounded. The Dewey Genealogy, p. 404, states that the above Gershom Clark m. Ruth Thacher. This statement is incorrect. ## BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue, before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

A noteworthy contribution to the history and genealogy of this noted family of Scottish descent. It is constructed along standard genealogical lines and carries the genealogical record down to include the eleventh generation. The author (Mrs. Osborne) deserves high commendation for presenting to the public a work of such evident merit. The work is also most valuable in showing the important collateral connections of this family, which contain many of the Robeson name who have conferred honor upon the country of their adoption. The name of the publishing house is a sufficient guarantee of the volume's excellent make-up in all respects. Recommended to all genealogical libraries and to those of the Robeson and allied blood.

This genealogical review of this family is enlivened by narrative literature which will render it most readable to the general student of family history. It is divided into three parts. Part I deals entirely with the over-sea history of this Scottish clan and is most enlightening. Part II deals with its immigration to this country and pioneer history of the family and the settlement here in 1772 of William Cochran, with his genealogical record and that of his sons, Thomas, Robert and James, and the descendants of James and Betsy Cochran. Part III deals with genealogy of other branches of this family, with notes on the McCord, Davis and Krebs families. It is heartily recommended to all genealogical libraries.

HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS OF THE SALISBURY (CONN.) ASSOCIATION, INCORPORATED, Vol. II. Arranged and published by the Association, 1916. 8vo, cloth, pp. 208, including indexes, illustrated. Price, $2.00 in paper, $2.50 in cloth, carriage prepaid. Address: Treasurer of the Association, Lakeville, Conn.

We had the pleasure of reviewing most favorably the first volume of this collection and it gives us pleasure to note that this volume is well up to the standard of the first issue. It would be a boon to students of genealogy if other Connecticut towns would follow the progressive spirit of Salisbury. This volume from a genealogical standpoint is welcomed, for it records the Vital Statistics of the town from 1768 to 1800; for its record of the inscriptions in the "New Cemetery," and for its digest of Vol. I of the Land Records of that town together with other matter of genealogical interest, including record of errors noted in Vol. I of the Collections. Every genealogical library should have this series on its shelves.

MANUAL FOR THE GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS, 1916. Published by the State. 12mo, cloth, pp. 700.

The author (daughter of Dr. William Julius and Mary Rebecca (Long) Polk, of Columbia, Tenn.) gives a charming description of ante-bellum days in Tennessee and a vivid description of her experiences in the Civil War as wife of a Colonel in the Confederate service. FIRST CHURCH CHRONICLES, 1815-1915. Centennial History of the First Presbyterian Church of Rochester, N. Y., by Charles Mulford Robinson, Clerk of the Sessions. 1915. 8vo, boards, pp. 206, including name index, illustrated. Copyrighted, 1915. Price, $1.00. Address: Greenleaf Stewart, in care of the Rochester Trust Company, Rochester, N. Y.

This is a most excellent historical survey of the career of this church from its incorporation in 1815 to its centennial in 1915, and may be said to be exhaustive of the historical side of the question. It is to be hoped that the progressive spirit of this body may induce them in the near future to publish a second volume containing a record of the births, baptisms, marriages, deaths and burials as recorded in their church registers. This supplementary work would be of great genealogical value and its sale would undoubtedly refund the church for its cost of preparation and publication.

NOTES FOR A FAMILY RECORD (1604-1916) of the Webster, Ingersoll, Moss, King, Hawley and McHarg Families, by William N. McHarg, with

The above is the title of the delightful Reminiscences of Hon. Charles Miner of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 1780-1865, the author of the "History of Wyoming, Pa., 1845." His life as a printer, editor, author, member of the U. S. Congress, 1825-1829, and statesman and far-seeing man of prophetic gift, whose historical and literary work graces many libraries of the United States will be a valuable addition to the libraries (public or private) of the United States.

The appearance of this work in individual form will be welcomed. It is recommended to all historical libraries.

A HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, founded by John D. Rockefeller. The first quarter-century by Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed. 8vo, cloth, pp. 522, with copious index, fully illustrated. Address: Author, c/o University of Chicago. No price stated.

A most timely work as now, at the expiration of the first twenty-five years of its existence, the author presents this early history of this young but renowned university, with which he has been connected since its origin, at a time when the facts as set forth are fresh in the minds of all concerned. This is exceptionally fortunate, as many times such first histories are written when lapse of time has obliterated the keen vision of contemporary writers. The work is most excellently presented and the illustrations convey to the mind graphically what great work has already been done in this growing university of the Middle West. Recommended to all historical libraries.

"MANHATTAN, 1624-1639," by Edward Van Winkle, Recording Secretary of The Holland Society of New York. Quarto in size; printed on Van Gelder op zonen hand-made paper; illustrated with photographic copies of the Vingboom Map, 1639, and Van Rensselaer Manuscript of 1630. A large map, 26½ inches x 18¼ inches, on linen cloth is bound in the book. Privately printed at 90 West Street, New York City. Address: The Author. Price, $10.00.

The texts for this notable publication are Vingbooms famous map of Manatus of 1639 and a newly discovered Van Rensselaer manuscript dated May, 1630. The map is one of the earliest and certainly completest extant. It clearly delineates Manhattan and the surrounding territory, giving them their Dutch names. The study of it will appeal to the cartographer and historian as well as to the poet and novelist. Beginning furthest east, far, far away from Fort Amsterdam, the then centre of civilization, in the land of the Kekachau, indicated under number 36, are two plantations and four bouweries of Wolfert Gerritszen Van Couwenhoven and his partner, Andries Hudde. Owing to its furthest distance from Manhattan this locality was appropriately named Achtervelt, meaning Rear tract, at present Flatlands, L. I. Couwenhoven and Hudde, with their people, were the earliest white settlers on Long Island, their joint grant of Achtervelt going back to June 10, 1636. Further west, passing by the wigwams of the Kekachau, and the Techkonis, we reach Conyne Eylant, jutting out into the Bay as a peninsula; while north from there, after having passed the lodges of the Wick Quawanck, we reach Red Hoeck which, on the map, is not a peninsula but an island. Right in front of Red Hoeck is 35, described as Pannebackery with three plantations and two beginnings, probably of tile kilns. Passing by the Council House of the Mareckewick Indians (Brooklyn) we arrive at 37 and 38, four plantations of Joris Jansen Rapalie (Rapelye, Rapelye) at the Wallebout, Brooklyn. A few miles further north are 39 and 40, a plantation and a farm of Claes and Dirck Norman, the earliest settlers of Williamsburgh on Long Island. Across from there, by way of Hell gate was 20 on Wards Island, named "Twiller's Farm in the Hell Gate," while further north on the Mainland, marked 43, was the "Commenced Farm of Jonas Bronck," the scholarly Dane, at whose home a famous treaty of peace was concluded between Indians and Dutch. From here, crossing the North River, by way of the Great Kill, we arrive at Achter Coll where we first land at Weehawken, 32, then occupied by Maryen Adriaensen, while further south, marked 28, 27 and 29, were the Hoboken, Hasymus and Communipaw farms, occupied, respectively, by Hendrik and Cornelis Van Vorst and Jan Evertsen Bout. Due east, jutting out into the North River as a peninsula, is Poulus Hoeck, credited with three plantations, the holdings of Verplank, Blauw and Cooper (Kuyper). Still further south is plantation 30 on Jan de Lachers Hoeck, at the time occupied by Egbert Wautersen (Watterson). The location of Brighton, S. I., is indicated by 33, a plantation of Captain David P. De Vries. Noten (Governors) Island boasted a saw mill where now Fort Jay stands. About midway between Fort Amsterdam and the Harlem River, marked F, opposite Blackwell's Island, were the quarters for the blacks. It is not possible in a brief review like the present to discuss the many farms, plantations and other features on Manhatas. For this the map must be studied, the book must be read. Very few of the early settlers, prior to 1638, are known. The manuscript besides containing various other matters of extreme interest considerably extends our list of early settlers on Manhattan. The publication of the map and manuscript, as well as the printed text, are valuable contributions to early colonial history.

The book, besides being artistically gotten up, is made for service in perpetuity. The practical manner in which the large cloth map is bound in the work is a special feature that appeals to bookbinders and connoisseurs. Typographically it is very pleasingly arranged, which may have been expected by anyone familiar with the artistic Year Book and Collections of The Holland Society, which Mr. Van Winkle has edited since 1908; seven of said Year Books being published by him in as many months.

It is interesting to note that, at later dates, the method of designating the bouwerijs by number was continued and that there were more than one series of them. Besides those along the street called the Bowery, there were others on the West Side. After the destruction of the former in the Indian war of 1642-3, it was not found possible to lease them anew without improvements and they were offered for sale. No. 1 was bought in 1651 by Jan Jansen Damen; the Schout's in 1646 by Gerrit Hendricksen; Bylevert's in 1645 by Leendert Aerden; No. 4 in 1646 by Gerrit Jansz van Oldenberg; No. 5 in 1645 by Cornelis Claesen Switz; No. 6 in 1647 by Cornelis Jacobsen Stelle, and Wolfert Webber's in 1650. (Calendar Dutch MSS., pp. 54, 370, 373.) The series of bouwerijs and plantations on the West Side began with the farm granted to Damen in 1644 by Kieft, which was bounded on the south by the palisades at Wall Street.

As a student of Manhattan history the reviewer has been well pleased with this work, which has been performed in the thorough manner to be expected of its compiler, and it is heartily recommended to all historical and genealogical libraries as a work of permanent value. H. S. M.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF CLEMENT CORBIN, of Muddy River (Brookline), Mass., and Woodstock, Conn., with notices of other lines of Corbins. Compiled by Rev. Harvey M. Lawson, Ph.B., B.D. 8vo, pp. 378, illustrated and indexed. Address: The author, North Ashford, Conn. Price, $5.00 for half Russia binding and $4.00 for full cloth.

The compiler assumes that the pioneer of the name, Clement Corbin, who was born in England in 1626, was a Welshman, from reliable family tradition, although other branches of the family think, from equally strong tradition, that he was of French Huguenot origin. He is said to have come to the new world in 1637. No authority for this conclusion has been unearthed except that there was a Robert Corbin in Massachusetts at that date, and as Clement would have been but eleven years of age and must have accompanied an older relative on the trip, so this cousin Robert is awarded the palm. Nothing, however, is known of the latter, and so the work starts out with no definite decision on this important point. But then that is a matter that does not count so long as we are dealing with the descendants of a Clement who was undoubtedly an early settler in New England. He married, in 1655, Dorcas, the daughter of Thomas Buckminster, a Welshman, and the fact of the latter's birthplace would lead one of an analytical mind to ally this circumstance with the above assumption and credit Clement Corbin with the same origin.

Starting then with this Clement, the compiler has succeeded in building up a work of commendable research. Eight generations of substantial and God-fearing people have followed his blood and descendants have spread through a large area of the country. The New England states are represented by Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and Connecticut, and branches are found in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and California. The text is profusely sprinkled with illustrations, principally portraits, but of greater interest are the reproductions of headstones of the first Corbins in America, as found in the old cemetery at Woodstock, Conn., the dates on which are 1696, 1721 and 1727, respectively. Then there appears a representation of the homestead of Philip Corbin at Union, Conn., which he built in 1797-8. The appendix treats of Mysterious Early Corbins in New England, Corbins other than Descendants of Clement, The Corbins of Dutchess County, New York, Western Connecticut and Vermont, and those unplaced. Among the latter is enumerated Margaret Corbin, to whose memory the Mary Washington Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution have erected a tablet in the Holy Rood Episcopal Church in New York City, testifying to her bravery at the Battle of Mount Washington, November 16, 1776. Those of the name who served in King Philip's War, the Colonial Wars, the Revolution, War of 1812 and the Civil War end the chapter. While commending this work to genealogical students we would advise all libraries to acquire a copy.

THE HAMILTONS OF BURNSIDE, NORTH CAROLINA, and Their Ancestors and Descendants, by Patrick Hamilton Baskervill, A.M. (U. of Va.). pp. 158, cloth, 8vo, illustrated and indexed. Address: The author, at 20 North Laurel Street, Richmond, Va.

This neatly printed and well-proportioned work does not pretend to be a history of the family of that name. As the writer well says, the Hamiltons may be compared to the drops of water in the ocean or to the grains of sand on its shores. A treatise including them all would of course be an impossible task. So, wisely, the work is limited to that branch of the name which settled in North Carolina. The pioneer was Patrick Hamilton, the seventh and youngest son of William Hamilton of East Quarter, Burnside and Parkhead, Scotland, and his wife, Euphemia Alston, of Muirburn. According to the plan of numbering adopted in the text, Patrick was of the fifth generation. Born at Burnside, May 31, 1789, he came to America at the age of seventeen (1807) and settled in Granville County, N. C., around the town of Williamsboro. He, with probably several of his brothers and certainly by his cousin, Thomas Alston Brown, who accompanied him to this country, bought estates and established branches of mercantile business. By marriage with Mary Eaton Baskervill, December 14, 1812, he connected himself with a noted Virginia family and lived in Granville County about forty-three years. Just when he removed to Burnside, N. C., is not known, but there he died June 28, 1850, a man of high type and of intellectual and moral character and education, bearing the respect of his neighbors and the community. His descendants are fully treated to and including the eighth generation. Collateral families are given considerable space, among them the Alstons and the Morrisons. A number of illustrations are reproduced and charts aid in clarifying the text. The author has done well his part. To all genealogical societies the work is highly recommended. H. S. M.

MAKERS AND ROMANCE OF ALABAMA HISTORY, Embracing Sketches of the Men Who Have Been Largely Instrumental in Shaping the Policies and in Molding the Conditions in the Rapid Growth of the State, Together with the Thrilling and Romantic Scenes with which Our History is Resplendent, by B. F. Riley, D.D., LL.D. Cloth, pp. 618. Price, $2.50. Address. Dr. Riley, 2033 Thirteenth Avenue, South, Birmingham, Ala.

The work before us—a new history of this virile, industrial state—is constructed on a new plan. It traces its initial conditions through the successive dominations of the Indian, Spaniard and French to that of the conquering Saxon, by presenting an array of the stirring events of each period. Covering the space of four hundred years, the evolution of a great commonwealth from a condition of native wildness to that of a proud station in the galaxy of American states, is no small task. The facts embodied were liable to be entirely lost and many of them were gathered from old records and decaying papers. Dr. Riley is to be congratulated. As expected from an author of such repute, the work has been well performed and will be of lasting value and an epoch-bearing event for the future historians of the state. While not a work of genealogical lore, it contains much of a biographical nature and is heartily recommended to all libraries. It is a defect that no index accompanies the text.

TAPPAN-TOPPAN GENEALOGY, Ancestors and Descendants of Abraham Toppan, of Newbury, Mass., 1606-1672, by Daniel Langdon Tappan. pp. 164, 200 copies, privately printed, 1915, with index. Address: The author, 269 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington, Mass.

Mr. Tappan, at the outset, may be congratulated in being able to assert that he has been successful in establishing for all the Tappans and Toppans mentioned in this book, an unbroken line of descent from Robert Topham, of Linton, Yorkshire, England, as he justly states, such a record, with every connection made, is most unusual in genealogical research. The mere statement of such a result evidences a labor of unexampled continuity and justifies the family of which the book treats in feeling pride in its pedigree, especially when so many individuals thereof have borne an honorable part in the upbuilding of this country of ours. Four illustrations embellish the work, the most interesting to students of local history being the photographs of the ancestral homes, namely, those built by Dr. Peter<sup>2</sup> Tappan in 1697, and by Abraham<sup>1</sup> Toppan in 1670, respectively, both of which are now standing, in splendid preservation, the first in Toppan's Lane and the other on High Street, in Newburyport, Mass.

EARLY RECORDS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF ALBANY AND COLONY OF RENSSELAERWYCK, Vol. 2, History Bulletin No. 9, New York State Library, 1916, issued by the University of the State, Albany, N. Y. pp. 438, voluminously indexed.

From the State Library we are in receipt of Vol. 2 of the Early Records of Albany and Rensselaerwyck, which is of such value that we hail it with pleasure. The work contains the translation from the original Dutch of Deeds, covering the period from 1678-1704, and when we state that the translation had been done by such a competent hand as the late Prof. Jonathan Pearson and that it was revised and edited by A. J. F. van Laer, nothing can be added to satisfy searchers that the task has been accurately and thoroughly performed to their and our gratification. Students of the early history of the State owe a debt of thanks to the compilers. It is indeed fortunate that these records have been saved from a succession of ill-favored events, such as the fire in the Albany City Hall in 1880, the disappearance of the translations of the earliest records and the destruction of some, after preparation for publication, in the State capitol conflagration of 1911.

THE VINELAND HISTORICAL MAGAZINE, devoted to History, Biography, Genealogy, Vol. 1, Nos. 1, 2, 3, for January, April and July, 1916. Published quarterly by the Vineland Historical and Antiquarian Society, Vineland, N. J.

These pamphlets exploit a new town. Founded in the summer of 1861 by Charles K. Landis, of Philadelphia, he undertook what the generality of people would have thought a forlorn enterprise. The land which he acquired was a wilderness of sand and swamp, pines and scrub-oaks. That he has been successful in converting it into the beautiful town of Vineland and the fruitful farms of that district, within such a limited space, has not only been fortunate for him but for those who settled there. It may be that the Society will run short of material if the issues are to be kept within such a restricted territory. The contents of those under review are well chosen and evince the desire to cover the scope undertaken.

LEVI SMITH GOODRICH, Pioneer Physician in Howard, Steuben County, in the "Genesee Country," New York State, 1820. A Reprint of Sketches in the Hornell Morning Times, Under the Title of "The Old Doctor," with Additional Facts and Dates. Pamphlet, pp. 38. By Mrs. Ervilla Goodrich Tuttle, 7 Park Street, Hornell, N. Y.

This little brochure was printed in 1915 to commemorate the ninety-fifth anniversary of the settlement of Dr. Goodrich in Howard Township, Steuben County. The year of its appearance also celebrated the Doctor's graduation from Fairfield Medical College, now lost in the early history of Syracuse Medical University. One October morning he left the village of Benson, Vt., on Lake Champlain, on horseback, to seek a home in the West. It was the lure of a home in the "Genesee Country" that was calling him. The narrative is very interesting, well written and agreeable withal and is really a home story of the young doctor's life. The world is the better because of it.

THE DIARY OF MANASSEH MINOR, Stonington, Conn., 1696-1720. Published by Frank Denison Miner, with the assistance of Miss Hannah Miner. 1915. Cloth, cover with heraldic device, pp. 196. Price, $4.50, with full extra set of prints. Address: The compilers at 151 Belmont Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., and Mystic, Conn., respectively.

Manasseh Minor was born in New London, Conn., April 28, 1647, the first male born in that town. He was the sixth son of Thomas Miner and his wife, Grace Palmer, of Chew Magna, Somerset County, England, and came to Massachusetts with the company formed by John Winthrop, Sr., and settled at Charlestown, where he met and married his wife. In 1645 a settlement was formed at Nameaug or Pequot (now New London), among the associates being said Thomas Minor. This book follows him after his removal to Stonington, and mentions a diary which he kept covering the period from 1653 to 1684. The compilers state that it is quite probable that after his death in 1690 his son, Manasseh, in reading over his father's notes containing so many facts on the early history of the community, may have considered it his duty to continue the record. And so we have his diary as published in this compilation. The entries are short and succinct and his purpose seems to have been to set down only such facts as he deemed essential in regard to the daily life on the farm and to keep some records of vital statistics, together with some conditions of the weather. He was a man of note at Stonington and held a number of offices of trust and position, and his notes contain many references to these events in his life as well as to the older families of the place and information of historic value. To it are added a review of Winthrop's Journal, in two volumes, published by Scribner, 1908, and other correlated information. The illustrations comprise a number of half-tones and reproductions of deeds and pp. of the diary, Governor Saltonstall's commission as Captain of a Company of Indian soldiers and photographs of the original tombstones of Thomas and Manasseh Minor in Weguetequoock cemetery. The edition of this work was limited to 150 copies, few of which remain, which is evidence that the book was justified because of its historic and genealogic worth.

SKETCHES OF ALLIED FAMILIES, KNICKERBACKER-VIELE, Historical and Genealogical, to which is added an Appendix containing family data. By Kathlyne Knickerbacker Viele. 8vo, cloth, pp. 134. Illustrated and fully indexed. New York, 1916, Tobias A. Wright. Edition of 75 copies. Price, $5.00.

An advance notice of this book appeared in the July issue of the RECORD, and its prompt appearance, so beautifully printed and bound, will gladden the hearts of subscribers.

REGISTERS OF PEDIGREES

Form Copyrighted and recommended by this Society

This Society has copyrighted and has for sale a printed blank genealogical chart called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" registers, respectively. They are each bound volumes, 11 X 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of the names and vital records of ancestors of the individual using the forms in successive generations.

The "single" Registers consist of 17 leaves (34 pages), and when filled in will give all of the ancestors of the individual in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family names of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents of the individual occupies a full page. Family names appear on the marginal index, which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the correspondingly numbered individual on the front of same leaf.

The "double" Registers are practically two "single" Registers combined, consisting of 34 leaves (68 pages). The object being to permit the individual to devote the first half of the Register to the registration of the complete record of his male line of ascent; the second half for a like registration of his female line of ascent. The "double" Register therefore provides for the registration of 10 full generations in both the male and female lines.

These Registers have been revised and improved in form and a new edition of the same is now ready for sale. In this new edition we have issued one-half in the old form of permanent binding in paper and cloth as heretofore; and one-half in "loose leaf" cloth binding. The loose leaf cloth binding is an improvement on the old form of permanent binding as it permits the indefinite extension of the "Register" to include the recording of as many generations of ascent as the individual can establish.

The entire edition is printed on extra quality of linen ledger paper.

Individuals who purchase these Registers and fill them in carefully and as fully as possible, may present the same to this Society, and if found to be properly recorded they will be filed amongst the manuscript records, and the individual will receive a new blank Register in exchange for the same gratis. It is the desire of the Trustees that members of the Society supply themselves with these Registers, fill them out as fully as possible, and file them with the Society. They will be bound from time to time in volumes fully indexed and will thus form a record of great value to genealogists. Those who have in their possession information relative to their individual ancestry are urged to secure these Registers, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing such information to record the same in recognized depositories provided for that purpose.

These Registers may be purchased from

Those who have any such manuscripts, and who desire to have the same published, are invited to submit the same to this Society before making arrangements for publication elsewhere—as if the material submitted for consideration is original and of value an arrangement for the publication of the same satisfactory to the compiler can undoubtedly be made with this Society.
